German Musicians Poorly Paid.

The Germans like music, but they do not want to pay for it. What they gladly pay for is food and drink. With free music on the "Waltz" and "High-class" music played at a variety show or in a night cafe by talented "men on; yet these are the only places where an orchestral player can earn a decent living. Some startling figures have been printed in Der "Tribune" which shows that it is practically impossible for a German orchestral musician to marry and bring up a family. For a family of four the minimum expenses, apart from food, are $250 a year. The income of an orchestral player is $330 a year, which leaves less than 25 cents a day for food. Americans pay musicians ten times as much as the Germans do; but we, to be sure, are mere barbarians in the eyes of the Germans.—Boston Transcript.

Work Was Remedial.

The following report from the records of a probation officer is significant: "The son of a German descent, graduated from grammar school. Parents neat, respectable, and thrifty. Germans. Girl wanted to go to work. Parents would not allow this, as they did not want her wages and thought she should stay at home and help about the house. Girl became unmanageable, and stayed out several nights, whereupon her parents brought her into court as incorrigible. The probation officer urged that the girl be allowed to go to work. The parents agreed, the girl was placed on probation, and found work for herself in a department store. From that time she gave no trouble."

ROMAN ROADS IN ENGLAND

Project of Putting Old Highways in Useful Condition is Being Revived.

British motorists are showing some interest in a project which is being revived of reopening and putting in usable condition the old Roman roads that led out from London to the surrounding cities and that connected up the outlying places. The ancient highways, built by the Roman generals for military purposes, were well constructed and their routes were exceedingly straight, but they have apparently in many instances been practically abandoned.

Few except students of the subject are aware of the great network of highways which were driven across England, Wales and Scotland by the Roman generals. The straightness of these roads probably is explained by the fact that the cities and towns they linked up were founded subsequently to the road making. The roads were constructed for military purposes—the subjugation and control of the turbulent Britons—and had no set objective. Camps grew into cities and towns founded at points of military advantage. These naturally lost their importance in many instances when the conquerors withdrew, and their very sites are forgotten.—Field.

Small Consolation.

In Dunoon (Scotland) the other afternoon one of the municipal employes had a free bath. He is a veteran who drives the cart for watering the roads. While filling the tank of the vehicle the long hosepipe came off the tap, with the result that the water rushed high into the air as if it were anxious to do the aeroplane act. There was no way to get the water turned off except to go straight into the middle of it. The waterman had many trials before he managed to throttle the impromptu fountain. And when he had made it tap the mat, and came out soaked to the skin, he was not cheered up by the remark of a witness of the Homeric contest, who said—"Ach, Donald, never mind, it'll no dae ye any harm; it's saut water."

Softening Light for Invalid.

When any one is ill electric light in the room, if very strong, will tend to hurt the eyes and probably induce headache and cause a rise of temperature. A little bag made of green silk, large enough to slip easily right over the light, shade and all, can be fitted on and will look dainty and pretty. Run a drawing in so as to tie it on quickly, otherwise the patient will object to the fuss.

The Marseillaise.

There is a certain irony in the fact that the town which produced the "Marseillaise" is now German territory. The song dates from April 24, 1792, when Rouget de Lisle, then quartered at Strasburg as captain of engineers, composed it in response to the mayor of Strasburg's request for a patriotic song. At Strasburg the song was printed under the title, "Chant de Guerre pour l'Armée du Rhine." It owes its present title to the volunteers from Marseilles, who sang it as they marched on Paris.
