PREPARE FOR SUMMER

Clean Out Stables Before Hot Weather Sets In.

Never Allow Manure to Accumulate, as it is Disease Breeder—Open Doors and Windows so Fresh Air Can Circulate.

Clean out the stables, sheep and hog pens before hot weather sets in. Penning manure, if allowed to remain in the stables and sheds, will produce blindness in sheep and tuberculosis in cattle. Never let the manure accumulate in the stables; it is a fruitful source of disease, and when a disease once enters a herd of cattle or flock of sheep there is rarely always a loss of more than one animal, says a writer in the Baltimore American. A farmer who should have known a better lost recently four valuable horses from lung fever, caused by piling a large quantity of manure in an adjoining stable to help keep the stock warm. The gases from fermenting horse manure is very fatal to stock when allowed to remain in a close stable. Fermenting manure under horses' feet will cause scratches and pusule sores, both of which produce lameness, hard to cure. The best way is to clean out the stables every morning, dust the floors with dry plaster to absorb the ammonia, open windows and doors, so that the fresh air can enter and blow out the bad air. When the day is rainy is a good time to sweep down the walls and ceilings and to whitewash. The best whitewash for inside work is made as follows: Stone lime, one-half bushel; add sufficient boiling water to slack it, cover to keep in the steam. Mix together one peck of fine salt previously dissolved in warm water, two pounds of glue dissolved in three quarts of warm water, six ounces of bichromate of potash and one-half pound of whiting. Add these to the lime, stir thoroughly, strain and apply hot with a brush or a spray pump. One bushel of lime makes thirty gallons of whitewash. Put on two coats. This wash will not rub off. To disinfect the stables, add one-quarter of a pound of bichloride of lime to each gallon of wash. This lime disinfects and sweetens and brightens the stables. If the whitewash is strained it can be quickly applied with a small force-spray pump. Whitewash for outside of building is made as follows: Slake in boiling water one-half bushel of lime, cover to keep in steam, strain, add two pounds of sulphate of zinc, one pound of salt and one-half pound of Spanish whiting, thoroughly dissolved. Mix with enough skim milk to make it spread easily and apply hot. Coloring matter may be added to produce the desired shade. If white is not desired. Apply when the woodwork is dry and when weather is clear. This is a double wash and much cheaper than paint.

Trinity U. E. Announcements Sunday School at 9:30. N. A. Barr, the pastor, will preach in the morning at 10:30 on the subject, "A Mother's Prayer" and in the evening at 7:30 on "The Atonement." This will be the second in a series of sermons on "The Fundamentals of Christianity." C. S. Gingrich will have charge of the song and praise service at 7:15 P. M.

Our Home Markets table with prices for Butter, Eggs, Lard, Potatoes, Wheat, Corn, Oats.

Home Again Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Myers, with their son Ben as chauffeur, have arrived safely at their home in Baltimore after traveling nearly six hundred miles in their great hill climbing machine, The Stanley Steamer. During their entire trip they had only two punctures, easily repaired. They visited Elliott City, Frederick, Hagerstown and Penn Mar in Maryland as well as the following places in Pennsylvania: Waynesboro, Green Castle, Chambersburg, Gettysburg, taking four hours to go over the entire battlefield; Carlisle, Harrisburg, Hummelstown, Hershey, Elizabethtown, Florin, Mount Joy, Wild Cat Falls, Marietta, York and Shrewsbury. They found a fine state road between Chambersburg and Gettysburg over the mountains, being one long coast. But the pike from York to Baltimore certainly should be condemned as it is a succession of rough hills, humpers and toll gates, almost the entire way to Lutherville.
