MOLTING A Serious Problem for the Hen Man

Supposing in the hottest part of summer, after months of hard work, you had to make an entire new outfit of clothes for the coming winter. You would find it a pretty big job, and so does the hen. Forced to lay eggs all winter, set for three weeks in spring and then burdened with a foamy for many weeks more, she no sooner seems to deserve a rest than she is called upon to grow an entirely new coat of feathers for the coming winter. Even wild birds become listless, lose their song and often their power of flight during molting, and it is even harder on the domestic fowl, which does much heavier work. Ordinarily the first full molt comes at about sixteen months old, but chicks molt continually until matured, and sometimes early spring pullets molt in the fall. Good nourishing food with plenty of greens may be given during this trying period, and providing the birds are not overfat at the start, beef scraps and oilmeal are valuable if used in moderation. In addition, most successful poultrymen use a good poultry regulator or tonic, which is quite generally agreed to be an absolute necessity for fowl kept under present artificial conditions. Even if the weather be warm considerable corn may be fed, provided the birds have cool runs. The importance of giving all the run or range possible during the molt cannot be overestimated. It affords valuable opportunity for exercise and obtaining aids to the general health. There are a number of methods to hasten a molt. One sure and humane way is to pluck from the bird's body such feathers as appear dead and still clinging, but if these feathers do not come away easily or appear fresh or bloody this should not be done. While the above is written about hens, remember that to the males, after long, hard breeding season, molting is just as serious. Male birds molt more slowly when kept with females, so they should be separated from them during this time, but they may be fed and treated like the hens. Remember, the male is one-half of your flock, so keep him strong and vigorous. While birds are weakened during molting they are easy prey for disease, so keep everything clean and disinfected liberally. Perhaps you now realize what an important and trying a thing a molt is. Care expended now will pay you big returns later, for your birds are not loafing, but working on a big job.

Ed Ream's Next Sale

Mr. Ed Ream will hold his next public sale at Gantz's stock yards in this place on Saturday, Oct. 11, when he will sell 40 head of Crawford County colts. They range in age of from 1 to 5 years, and weigh from 800 to 1,000 lbs. This is an extremely good lot of colts, all in fine and healthy condition and will grow right into money. They have the size, shape, color, in fact all points for the making of good horses. Among the above lot are quite a number that he purchased at the Shadalee Stock Farm Pawel Bros. proprietors. They are pacing bred and subject to register. Rally Day at Landisville The Lutheran Sunday School, of Landisville, will hold its annual rally day service on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock. An interesting programme will be rendered. Wm. Mearig, a well known singer and Sunday School worker, of New Holland will be the principal speaker, and a quartette of singers from St. John's Lutheran church choir, of Lancaster, under the leadership of Prof. H. J. Taylor, will render special music. Presbyterian C. E. Officers The following officers of the Presbyterian C. E. Society were elected Sunday evening: President, Verna C. Chandler; Vice Pres., Walter Bernhart; Cor. Sec'y, Florence Reist; Sec'y, Martha Encher; Treas., Arthur Moyer; Organists, Emily Newcomer and Christine Moyer. The various committees will be appointed later. A MYSTERIOUS SHOOTING

Elizabethtown Man Taken to Hospital With Bullet in His Head Hurley Herrin, aged twenty-six, an employe of Kreider's shoe factory, at Elizabethtown, was admitted to the General Hospital between twelve and one o'clock Monday morning, suffering from a serious bullet wound in his right temple. His condition is dangerous, and this afternoon an effort will be made to probe for the ball. The young man who brought Herrin to the hospital was unable to state how he came by his injury, which is supposed to have been self-inflicted. The injured man has shed no light on the mystery, as he has been unconscious most of the time. It was reported from the General Hospital that afternoon that Herrin was not much improved and that an operation would be performed.

WHY MOUNT JOY MERCHANTS SHOULD ADVERTISE IN THE BULLETIN

$1,200,000.00 For a Name The Royal Baking Powder business was sold not long ago. For the name alone the owners received $1,200,000.00. Building and equipment were a mere side issue. A better factory and more up-to-date equipment could be obtained in a short space of time by the expenditure of a few thousand dollars, but to develop a trade name until it became as valuable as the Royal Baking Powder brand would have taken many years and the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars for advertising. By the common-sense use of space in the Bulletin you may increase your number of customers, increase your bank account.
