HOT WEATHER MAXIMS

He talks on 'Health & Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D. LL. D.

Overcome by the heat. This will be a frequent headline in the papers for the next three months.

In the minds of the majority of the people all ills resulting from excessive heat are grouped under one head. There are as a matter of fact two distinct types of ailment from this cause, heat stroke or thermic fever and heat exhaustion.

In extreme weather endeavor to secure some circulation of air in the dwelling and workroom. There is less likelihood of prostration when the air is in motion.

No time should be lost in securing the services of a physician when anyone is overcome by the heat. No layman is competent to distinguish between the two types and give the treatment required.

In beginning the summer months it is well to fix these few maxims in your mind.

Don't hurry, remember it was the tortoise that won the race.

Don't worry, for your sake and the other fellows.

Eat regularly but sparingly, even an ostrich should use some discretion in hot weather.

Alcoholic beverages, if you must use alcohol burn it in a chafing dish. Avoid ice water and ice cold beverages, it is dangerous to paralyze your stomach because the thermometer is on the rampage.

DWELLING HOUSE BURNED Child Was Saved With Difficulty—House Totally Destroyed

Aroused by the cries of her two-year-old child, who was sleeping on the second floor, Mrs. John Kaylor, of Newville (Utztown) hastened to stairs to find her home a mass of flames, and it was with great difficulty that she rescued her own.

Fire totally destroyed the home of John Kaylor, in Newville, a small village on the outskirts of Elizabethtown, on Monday afternoon.

Shortly before three o'clock, Mrs. Kaylor, hearing the cries of her small child hastened upstairs and was horrified to discover the whole second floor filled with smoke and flames eating their way down through the ceiling.

With rare presence of mind she quickly threw a blanket about the child and gathering it in her arms rushed down the stairs through the thickening smoke to safety.

The other daughter had already run outside. Mrs. Kaylor gave the alarm, and soon a number of neighbors responded and succeeded in saving the furniture on the first floor.

A bucket brigade was formed, but their main efforts were used to save the dwellings adjoining. The house, which was a two and a-half story frame structure, burned to the ground.

The fire started in the attic among a lot of old clothes, and was presumably caused by spontaneous combustion. The loss is partly covered by insurance.

John Kaylor, the father, was at work at the time at the Masonic home, where he is employed.

THE FEAST OF ROSES Hon. D. F. Lafean Made the Response of the Day

The twenty-fifth annual payment of the rose by the Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church, in Manheim, to the heirs of Baron Stiegel, was made on Sunday with appropriate exercises before a crowd that completely filled the church.

Visitors from all over the county were present, and the ceremonies were made more impressive by the visit of the Historical Commission of Pennsylvania. Nearly five thousand persons visited Manheim during the day.

The headliners for the day were Hon. W. U. Hensel of Lancaster, who paid the rose, and Hon. D. F. Lafean, ex-congressman, and Republican nominee for congressman-at-large at present, who made the response.

Masonic Home News

The visitation season is upon us, and from present indications promises to be prolific in number and interest.

The Masonic Homes of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania has become one of the chief objects of interest in our state, and there are few residents and tourists from abroad, who have not heard of it, and who do not find a desire to visit their footprints in its direction.

It is not then a subject of wonder, that the Penna. State Historical Commission, in making their tour of Lancaster County, should include in their itinerary a visit to the Homes, for in addition to its ordinary attraction, they are here given an opportunity to witness the dawn of history. A solid, substantial and extensive beginning of an undertaking destined to occupy a most conspicuous position among the great and useful institutions of our great commonwealth.

It was a source of pleasure and pride to the management of the Homes to welcome such distinguished citizens of our state as Hon. W. C. Sprout of Chester, Chairman of the Commission, Rev. Geo. P. Donohoe of Coudersport, the Secretary; former Attorney General Hampton L. Carson of Philadelphia; Hon. W. Uhler Hensel, former Attorney General of Lancaster; Hon. William H. Stevenson, Treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce, Pittsburgh; Thos. L. Montgomery, State Librarian and Curator of the Commission; Hon. Geo. F. Parker, former U. S. Consul to England under President Cleveland; former Gov. William A. McCorkle, of West Virginia; Judge Isaac Johnson of Media; and members of the Historical Society of Lancaster County, who accompanied them.

The distinguished visitors took dinner at the Homes, and after a short inspection of Grand Lodge Hall, they took their departure for Manheim, to participate in the 25th anniversary of the Feast of Roses, the payment of a rose to the heirs of Baron Stiegel.

The regular Sunday afternoon religious services were conducted by Rev. W. Stuart Cramer, Pastor of the First Reformed Church of Lancaster, and his able and instructive sermon was much appreciated by a large congregation.
