settled in 1714. If so there must have been a church soon after. As early as 1721 supplies were asked from Newcastle Presbytery and are spoken of as sent by that body. The first pastor was the Rev. James Anderson, who was installed in 1727 and continued to serve the church until 1740. The first house of worship was probably built of logs. This was replaced in 1740 by the present permanent structure of stone. It is said that while the men grubbed the stone, the women was fought, the Colonies gained their independence from Great Britain, and the war of 1812 rendered the new nation commercially free. In all of these events, the members of Donegal Church took a prominent part. In the early period, many of them were trappers and traders and thus came in direct contact with the Indians. When the Revolutionary War broke out, they did not hesitate to give their lives for their country. Donegal Church had 17 colonels in the Revolution, besides captains, lieutenants and other officers. The members were very patriotic. It is said that on a Sabbath morning in June, 1777, when a message came from Col. Galbraith to raise the regiment, Col. Lowery assembled the men under the large oak tree in front of the church, and there took the oath of allegiance to the Colonies. The tree still stands, and has since been known as the Witness Tree. After the Revolution, the congregation began to decline in numbers. Part moved westward to the new lands in Washington Co., Pa., another part to South Carolina, and still another in Virginia. Earlier, large numbers had settled in Cumberland Co. Robert Chambers, who founded Chambersburg, was a member of Donegal Church. Besides this loss from removals, churches began to split off from the parent stock. Marietta was founded in 1822, Mount Joy in 1839 and Columbia in 1840. The greater part of the glebe land had been sold in 1787. In 1851, the rest was sold to make necessary repairs and alterations. Originally, the church had a door at each end and one in the centre opposite the pulpit. The pulpit was on the north side of the church and had a preceptor's desk in front of it. The aisles were paved with bricks, hexagonal in shape and nine inches across. Now the pulpit is placed at the west end, the pews are modernized and the brick aisles have been removed. The pastors—Rev. James L. Rodgers, 1851-1856; Rev. John J. Lane, 1859-1868; Rev. John Edgar, 1869-1870; Rev. Wm. B. Browne, 1872-1880; Rev. Cyrus B. Whitcomb, 1882; Rev. Robert Gamble, 1883-1889; Rev. Edward A. Snook, 1889-1889; Rev. David Conway, 1890-1899; Rev. Richard Downes, 1899-1904; Rev. K. J. Stewart, 1904-1908; Rev. Frank C. Bossert, 1909—date, have served this church since 1851.

The Sunday school of Christ Reformed Church at Elizabethtown celebrated its 69th anniversary on Sunday when the following program was rendered to a large audience: Processional, invocation, Scripture Lesson by Leroy Leddom; recitation, Ruth Campbell; Recitation, His Secret, by Glenn Rutt; exercise, Buds, by the primary department; singing, Soldiers All, by primary department; recitation, Real Reward, by Paul Selbert; exercise, Rainbow of love, by Junior department; singing, the Banner of Jesus and exercise, Her Early Choice.

After seventeen long years of wooing, Clarence E. Barnes, a prosperous shoe cobbler of Elizabethtown, won the girl of his choice, celebrating his wedding on Sunday evening. The second party to the contract was Miss Ella Jacoby, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jacoby. The ceremony was performed by Rev. M. Meyer in the parsonage of Christ Reformed church.
Barnes, before he reached his majority, met pretty Ella Jacoby, and immediately a friendship sprang up, which, fanned by Cupid's darts, ripened into love. Night after night the couple were seen together, and they became known as the Romeo and Juliet of Elizabethtown. For seventeen years this courtship lasted. Suddenly, staid Elizabethtown awoke Monday morning to find Romeo and Juliet man and wife. They are on a honey moon trip to the seashore.
