But how much more really sporting if all these selfless souls who cheer and gamble could be riding and racing on their own account! betting laws are objectionable in so far as they discriminate unfairbetween the methods of the rich and those of the poor, but in principle the restriction of gambling opportunities seems a good thing to many who are not extravagantly puritanical. Only it remains true that the proper cure for such social evils as betting is not prohibition but diversion .- New Destroying Cherished Illusions. Scientific experts are never so com pletely happy as when they are destroying illusions which we have cherished from our childhood. A sunburned skin, which we are all so anxious to bring back to town at the end of August, is the latest thing to be condemned as unhealthy. Apparently "a nice healthy tan" merely means that its proud wearer has been exposing himself too rashly to the influence of the ultra-violet rayswhich is condemned as by no means a her soul was in his keeping. A part-

He is only pale because the cloud of soot which hangs over the city keeps out the ultra-violet rays, which would otherwise alter his Harriet noticed the temperamental interesting appearance.

A prosperous lumberman lives in western Pennsylvania. He owns a small railroad which runs from his lumber camp to the main line. He was riding the other day on a crowded car by the side of the president of the - railroad. After some conversation, the president handed the lumberman his card.

"What!" said the Pennsylvanian. "Are you the president of the railroad? I am the president of a railroad, too.'

"What is your road," was the courteous reply.

"The M. & A."

'Strange, I have never heard of it." "Well," said the lumberman, "my road may not be as long as yours, but it is just as wide."

"So you saw the woman drop her purse," said Mr. Marks to his friend, "but lost her in the crowd. Did you advertise?" "Oh, yes," said Mr. Parks, "but I didn't get an answer. I put this in the papers. 'If the plain woman about forty-five years of age wearing a dress and hat of last year's style, who lost a purse containing $4.50 on Twenty-second street on Saturday will apply to
