

Base Ball

New Standard-Hortings

The local team got a good start on Jack Milley's Hortings Saturday by scoring three runs in the opening session. They held the visitors safe until the eighth, when they won in one of the "flukiest" manners ever heard of. With two men down and second and third occupied, Geiberson hit to right. It would not have been better than a single at the best but the ball was lost in the high grass and the three runners romped home. The score:

Evangelical—Presbyterian
The Evans sure pulled off a surprise last evening by putting a dent into the pennant winning aspirations of that Presbyterian aggregation, presenting them with an accumulation of eggs, score 3 to 0. The game was well played, there being but one mis-cue credited to both teams. The Presbyterians credit their downfall due to their inability to hit S. Barr safely, securing but two bingles off his delivery. The score:

Bethel-Episcopal
These two teams are surely having some time in pulling off one of their games. The met last Thursday evening and rain fell in the second inning. At that time the score was 1 to 0 in favor of the Bethels. After the slight rainfall and when the ump was ready to resume play, five of the Episcopal players had gone home. The game was then not Shultz interferred. A number of people from town witnessed the Manheim-Ephrata game at the former place last Wednesday. Manheim was no match for Doremus crowd which won 5 to 2. The only change in the league standing is that the Episcopal slipped down one notch, being passed by the Evans. Of course the former team has a game to play off.

A GOOD BOXING SHOW

Will Be Held in the Hall Here Next Friday Night

Lovers of boxing will be given another treat on Friday evening when the next boxing show, will be held in Mt. Joy Hall here. There will be four bouts and each one should be worth the admission. In the preliminary Billy Piff, on Manheim street, will try and uphold the Jack Johnson end of a bout with Bumble Bee Weidman. The latter claims his stings are as effective as those of the wasps but we'll all see. The second bout will bring together a pair of good rugged boxers in fighting Ben of this place and Young Davis of Ephrata. Here's a pair that can step some and both will endeavor to give their supporters something to shout about.

In the semi-clash we have the best little fighter in this community in Kid Ellis, who will be pitted against Jack Wolpert of Lancaster, about the only lad that can give him any kind of a run. This will be one of the best bouts seen here for some time.

The windup between Johnny Ryan of Harrisburg, and Johnny Gill of York should be hummer. Both the fellows have experience and a good punch so there you are. Gill recently fought a draw with Munger and the later is credited with a 15-round draw with Battling Nelson. The chart opens at Getz Bros. Store. The admission is 25c, 50 and 75 cts. today.

WON AT YORK

Kid Ellis Administers Another Sleep Producer to His Opponent

Kid Ellis, the crack local bantam, won over Babe Adams at York last evening by his usual method, the K. O. route. Adams was touted as being a boy with some class but there was sure nothing doing. In the first round Adams started off at a lightning pace but the Kid was there to meet him. In the second

A DASH FOR FREEDOM

By JANE CASHION.

"I'm so glad you've come," said Mrs. Milburn, thrusting a weeping baby into her husband's arms the moment his overcoat was off. "She's a little fretful, but she'll be all right with you. It's wonderful how she crows and sings when you dance around with her." Milburn looked into the face of his grandchild with a mock severity that did not appear to frighten her, for the little frowning crinkles smoothed into a smile. When he threw her up to his shoulder with a tender semblance of roughness she cooed with delight. "Isn't she just the sweetest thing you ever saw?" cried the grandmother. "Oh, I don't know, Alice. There have been others. I do have a fellow feeling for her, though, because she's bald." Milburn pulled the infant down from his shoulder and kissed the spot where the soft fuzzy curls had worn off on the pillow. "But why am I elected nurse girl? I intended to write a brief tonight." He proffered the baby to his wife. "I can't take her now. I've got something to do in the kitchen." "What have you got to do in the kitchen? I thought Manda was capable of getting up a dinner unassisted." "Well, Manda isn't here. I let her go over to Ethel's." "You don't mean to say that Ethel is without a girl again?" "No, but she's having a little dinner tonight, and her maid is so incompetent that I sent Manda out to manage things. She'll be a great help to Ethel." "Sometimes I wonder if Ethel will ever learn to manage her own house-keeping," growled Ethel's father. "How did we happen to be honored by a visit from Laura's baby? Is Laura giving a party, too?" "No. Anyone would think you were cross who didn't know that you simply adore that baby." "Even that granted, I have yet other aims and ambitions in life than nurse-girling. I think I remarked that I had a brief to write this evening." "Well, you can do it after dinner. Tom wanted Laura to dine with him downtown, so she brought baby here and went down early to do some shopping. Poor Laura doesn't get out very often." "No, that's so. This is only the third time this week that her baby has been quartered on us." "Well, this is the end of the week, and anyway I think it's a joy to have such a perfect little darling come to visit us. You know you think so, too." "Maybe I do, but as I tried to explain, I have a little matter of my own on hand." Mrs. Milburn, however, had gone to the kitchen and there
