MARIETTA

Pipe Organ Consecration Services Held on Sunday

Mrs. Anna Vogel has returned from a several months' visit at Philadelphia, with her daughter. Paul Sultzbach of Steelton, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Sultzbach. John Peck has been chosen as a juror for the United States district court, which will convene in Philadelphia, during the week of November 9.

The river at this point is lower than it has been in the month of October for nearly a century, as the oldest resident, William H. Frederick, claims.

Thomas Loucks, the painter, had the misfortune to have a door, in which a large nail protruded, fall on his left foot, badly injuring it. The nail went almost through the foot.

Preparations are being made for an organ recital to be given in St. John's Episcopal church, this place, Thursday evening, November 12, by the organist of St. Stephen's church of Harrisburg. He will be assisted by a soloist of the same church.

There is considerable corn being stolen in this section, and arrests will follow if any more is taken. On Wednesday evening two women were caught bagging corn in a field and they begged to be set free. The owner left them go on their promises.

Marie E. Donley, aged 16 years, of this place was arrested on Thursday morning by Constable Campbell, of Columbia, on a warrant sworn out before Squire Lutz. She is charged by her grandfather Edward McElroy, of Marietta, with being incorrigible, he alleging that she will not return home and that she frequently remains away all night. She was committed to jail for trial at the juvenile court.

Ernest Maulick, proprietor of the Riverview Hotel, Marietta, was operated on at the General Hospital Lancaster, for the removal of a shattered bone from the great toe of his right foot. Many years ago while engaged in the brewery business the toe was mashed by a hog's head falling on it. The injury caused him considerable pain lately and the removal of the bone was deemed necessary by his physician.

At the J. E. Baker Co. quarries, at Chickies, Wednesday evening some of the laborers quarreled and as a result one man, No. 456, a Slavonian, was badly cut in the face. He had an artery severed above the left eye, a gash in the lower lip, and a deep cut across the nose. The weapon used by his assailant was a knife. The man, bleeding badly, went to the office of Dr. H. A. Mowery, who dressed his injuries, and later went home on a trolley car.

Michael Kissling of the eastern end of town was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Mabel on Monday evening on charges of larceny and trespassing, preferred by Jacob Trosle, tenant farmer on the Hiestand farm just north of the borough. He pleaded guilty and in default of bail, which he refused to accept, was taken to the county jail by Constable Filby. Mr. Kissling was caught on Sunday night by three young men who had been watching for some time, in the act of stealing corn fodder.

The pipe organ consecration services were held in the Reformed Church, on Sunday morning at eleven o'clock, when the Rev. Allan S. Meek delivered the consecration sermon. This was one of the big days for the Reformed people. An excellent musical programme was rendered by a large choir, under the excellent leadership of Norman Pickle, the organist and Mrs. E. H. Kluckman as the choir leader. Miss Gertrude Cogan, of Philadelphia, a worker of the Reformed Church and a noted lecturer, will speak in the lecture room of the Reformed Church this Wednesday evening, November 4.

The bungalow of Guy W. Ferguson, of Columbia, located opposite Marietta, came near being destroyed by fire about half-past nine o'clock Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and a party of Columbia friends were spending Sunday at the bungalow and while all were temporarily absent a lantern caught fire and dropped on one of the beds which was soon a mass of flames. Fortunately the party returned to the bungalow in time to extinguish the blaze which had gained considerable headway. The burning bed clothes were thrown out and were totally destroyed as was also a curtain at one of the windows. The woodwork and an enameled bed were badly scorched by the intense heat which broke some of the window panes.
