The New Clothing Store In The Engle Building

Is the place of interest in Mt. Joy at present. We feel that this class of merchandise was not judged by the prices it was offered.

It is gratifying to us to see the interest manifested in this new enterprise. It is better than we expected.

We are offering merchandise at very unusual prices until the heavy winter goods is cleared out.

We are adding new things daily. Every time you come we have a new line added. Come again. Let's get acquainted, even if we don't do business.

Mortality Recordings

occurred at the residence of Mrs. Sabina Arnts, on Mount Joy street, where he had been making his home the past three years. Deceased was seventy-eight years old. The funeral will be held from his late home this afternoon and interment will be made in the Mt. Joy cemetery. He is survived by one half-brother, John Dice of Ohio, and by the following children: Mrs. Sabina Arnts, Mrs. E. M. Barto, Mrs. William Hendrix, Mrs. George Snyder of this place, Mrs. H. E. Youtz of Mountville and Mrs. Joseph Seibert of Camden, N. J. Mr. Fach was born in Hessen Castle, Germany, and came to this country when sixteen years of age. From the time he came to the United States until his death he lived in this place, with the exception of one year, when he lived in Philadelphia. He was a cobbler by trade, but gave up this occupation about forty years ago. For seventeen years he was superintendent of the Mount Joy cemetery. He was a member of the Methodist Church. In politics Mr. Fach was a staunch Democrat, having cast his first vote for James Buchanan in 1856. He enjoyed the distinction of being the oldest resident Democrat in this place.

Invents an Airship

Chicago, Buffalo and New Orleans. Besides shipping to all parts on the United States, Mr. Minnich has sent his presses to England, India and South America. The far reaching demand for this product is brought about by the multiplicity of goods which it satisfactorily bales. Being made at all sizes from those weighing 150 to those weighing 8,000 pounds, this press can be accommodated to condense almost any stuff at all. Among the things baled are tobacco, cotton, paper, scrap metal, rubber goods, hides, wool and refuse on all sorts.

A Simple Device

The press itself is a comparatively simple but nevertheless a remarkable contrivance. It is a rectangular affair with two distinct and separate sides linked together. The platen, the top, is pulled down by a chain made up of flat steel links wound around the shaft, which passes under the bottom of the body, parallel to the sides. The pressure is applied by a steel lever on the ratchet wheel either by belt power or motor power, as on the power press. The back pressure is held by a pawl which, when released, allows the platen to return to position for the next pressure, being held there by a counterweight. The ends of the press open out with the sides making the bales free and easy to remove.

Besides the baling press Mr. Minnich has invented a clever jack press for use in tobacco warehouses. In fact the total number of his patented inventions probably amounts to fifty. Among them are such things as tobacco ladders, manure hooks, hay unloading apparatus, drip cup for umbrellas and centering machine. But perhaps the most interesting phase of Mr. Minnich's inventive genius is seen in his conception on aeronautics. In this he is peculiarly original. He has had a flying machine of his invention patented in 19 different countries. He has no faith whatever in the modern heavier-than-air machine picturing them as mere butterflies in a hurricane. He claims that in the course of time the present type of air ships will be relegated to the backgrounds and massive structures with powerful engines will furrow the atmosphere as the modern ocean liner plows through the swelling main.

The Final Form

He believes that eventually a machine will be put out that will rise straight up in the air instead of swerving upwards. It will have all the ease of bearing of a night-gale. It will have several sets of powerful engines to propel it. The real principle of his machine he refused to divulge nor would he say whether he will push his work to completion or not, but the very nature of his explanation was sufficient to show him entirely sincere in his theory.

Mr. Minnich is indeed a remarkable man. Aside from his inventive genius he is an enthusiastic church worker. As a member of the Church of God in Landisville he stands foremost. Associated with him in the business is his son, H. B. Minnich, who bears the brunt of the management. — Lancaster Intelligencer.

LANDISVILLE

H. B. Stauffer, Jr., has just returned from an extended business tour of the New England States. He was as far north as Bangor, Maine, returning via Boston, New Haven and New York.

On Tuesday evening Rev. and Mrs. Gentzler entertained their parishioners in the new parsonage. Quite a number of guests were present from Millersville. After several novel games the neatly served lunch was enjoyed by all.

Landisville will soon lose one of her most prominent citizens and business men. Ezra Miller, until recently a coal and lumber dealer here, who sold his holdings to L. H. Nolt & Bro., is preparing to move his household to his farm near Newtown, Bucks county. Besides being a prominent church worker and citizen, Mr. Miller is well known among his business associates. Upon leaving this locality Mr. Miller will take up stock farming and dairying. With him goes a large and popular family of three sons and two daughters: Helen, Lucy, James and Stephen, all graduates of the local High School and Daniel in the grammar grade.

The students of the Landisville High School held a lyceum on Friday afternoon under the direction of Professor Lefever. The program which follows was rendered with vim and vigor: Song by school; reading of minutes; president's address, Amos Senor; referred question, Esther Kolp; piano solo, Melba Hershey; essay, May Blottenberger; referred question, John Stehman; recitation, Harry Showalter; class song; oration, John Trayer; referred question, Ellen Way; piano solo, Myrtle Greider; reading, Florence Gainer; debate: question, Resolved that soldiers endure more hardships than sailors; affirmative, Lloyd Harnish, Christie Gable; negative, Edwin Kline, Harriet Billet; song by school; referred question, Della Huber; recitation, Helen Deltrich; dialogue; song by boys; referred question, Alta Reinhold; reading, Anna Helsey; recitation, Esther Mumma; referred question, Claribel Kunkle; piano solo, Vera Herr; reading, John Herr; literary recitation; critics remarks; song by school.

WHEN THE TIRED MOTHER GIVES OUT

What Then?—The Family Suffers, the Poor Mothers Suffer—Mrs. Becker Meets This Distressing Situation.

Collinsville, Ill.—“I suffered from a nervous break-down and terrible headaches, and was tired all over, totally worn out and too discouraged to enjoy life, but as I had four in family and sometimes eight or nine boarders, I kept on working despite my suffering.

“I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and within two weeks I noticed a decided improvement in my condition and now I am a well woman.” —Mrs. ANA BECKER, Collinsville, Ill.

There are hundreds of nervous, run-down, overworked women in this vicinity who are hardly able to drag around and who we are sure would be wonderfully benefited by Vinol as Mrs. Becker was.

The reason Vinol is so successful in building up health and strength in such cases is because it combines the medicinal tissue building and curative elements of cod's livers together with the blood making, strengthening properties of tonic iron. We ask every weak, nervous, run-down man or woman in this vicinity to try a bottle of Vinol on our guarantee to return their money if it fails to benefit.
