Arrived Here From Liverpool

(Continued from page 1) other refugees, went to London, Jan. 1, Mr. Stoll followed them, and had been looking after the company's interests in London until they sailed for the United States. Mr. Stoll said that out of a normal population of 300,000 in Antwerp, only about 5,000 people were there when the Germans took possession. Mr. Stoll made several trips to Amsterdam from London, to look after the interests of the company, and he also made one trip to Antwerp since the German occupation. The Bell Telephone company's shops in Antwerp were not destroyed by the Germans, only the windows being shattered by the concussion of the bombardment.

Mr. Stoll states that London is one vast military camp, where soldiers can be seen drilling all the time. He says the English people have no thought of losing in the great conflict. They are entirely confident that Germany will be whipped, but it will take some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Stoll will spend some time here. It is indeed very interesting to listen to their experiences while in the war zone.

Boy Robbers Are Captured

When the boys saw the constable, they tried to escape, but after a chase they were placed in custody. According to Constable Steigerwalt, two of the boys have confessed to the deed.

The third member of the gang by the name of Swartz, gave the constable the slip but was afterward nabbed by High Constable Shatto, who took him to Lancaster that evening and turned him over to the authorities there. Mr. Shatto also located more silverware, jewelry and a lady's solid gold neck pin, which he also took with him to Lancaster.

Admit to Another Robbery The above trio, now in the Lancaster jail, yesterday admitted having robbed the home of Lydia and Anna Smoker, at Greenland, along the Philadelphia pike. On the following day they committed the Erb robbery.

The Smoker home was entered thru a window leading to a shed and two doors, leading into the house, were then forced open by the use of a knife, steel and a pair of pliers. The articles stolen include a number of handkerchiefs and an umbrella and a small amount of money, the property of Anna Smoker. Most of the stolen goods have been recovered, but the money was spent.

The boys were given a hearing yesterday morning at 11 o'clock on the charge of the Smoker robbery and the other case was returned to court. They have been committed to jail to await their trial.

A Special Meeting A special meeting of the Sons of Veterans called for Tuesday evening, May 25, at 8 o'clock in the Lodge room. On Tuesday evening of this week three new members were initiated and business relating to May 30, attended to; applications of new members received and referred to the proper committee. Home Health Club

WEEKLY ARTICLES WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE MT. JOY BULLETIN BY DR. DAVID H. REEDER OF CHICAGO, ILL.

An Early Start.—If you want to help win the greatest battle for health that has ever been fought, begin now—"Swat the fly." One healthy fly that is allowed to begin operations now and go on thru the summer will produce two million descendants before frost comes in the fall. Every fly that you kill now stops the process of propagation of these disease carriers and helps make the home more comfortable as well as adding to the peace and comfort of the horses, cows, and other animals that are compelled to fight the pests.

A determined and united effort on the part of all the people would destroy all the flies in a few seasons. It would also destroy several large manufacturing industries, but we wouldn't cry if every fly screen and fly trap factory in the world was closed tomorrow if the cause was the lack of use for their output.

If you think flies do you and yours no especial harm, just watch your baby as it tries to eat or sleep when unprotected. That reminds me of an article in the little magazine called "Our Tubercular Children." It's worth reading and may help you in caring for your baby this summer.

Most people consider aviation as an extremely dangerous occupation. So it is, but it is far less dangerous than another that every one must follow at some period of his or her life. Today the most dangerous occupation in the world is that of being a baby. Out of all babies born in America, 1 in 5 will die before reaching one year of age. Where three breast fed babies die over ninety bottle fed infants perish. If the mothers of America once realize the fact they surely will insist upon nursing their babies unless absolutely physically impossible.

In many cases mothers think even with very young babies they should add some article of food to the milk. This is a mistake. Up to 8 months of age the healthy baby needs only one addition to its diet other than milk, and that is water. After 8 months, simple articles of diet can be added such as cereals, orange juice, etc. At about one year of age the average child can gradually begin to take several articles of diet in addition to milk, as stale bread or crackers, soft boiled egg, stewed prune juice, beef broth, junket and soft custard. But it is always best to add to the baby's diet only after consulting your doctor.

There are certain other things that are very important for the baby. The baby needs fresh air, light and day, just as much as it needs food. The baby should be bathed every day, should be kept warm but not converted into a fireless cooker; by clothing that does not permit any of the body heat to escape by radiation. The baby also should be trained to sleep at regular times day and night. Remember a new born baby should sleep nearly all the time and a year old baby at least ten hours out of the 24. Train the baby to regular hours for everything—sleep, bath, bowels and bath.

This can be done in practically all instances. Begin at birth and follow up with good sense and loving firmness. A few or many hours spent in training the baby to regular habits in the first months of baby's life are the most profitable investment.
