PROGRAMME

1 MARCH "Stars and Stripes Forever" Sousa
2 OVERTURE "Fest in C" Lachner
"Turandot" or "Fest in C" was one of P. S. Gillmore's favorite concert overtures and was arranged especially for his famous band by Otto Widder.
3 HORN SOLD "Youthful Days" Carl H. I. Smith
4 (a) "AUBADE PRINTANIERE" Lacombe
(b) "THE SKIBBEREEN SHIEK" Tracey
(A Shriner Comedy)
Historical (?) Note:—One of the most striking figures in the Second Crusade was Michael O'Feeney, a descendant of the Irish Kings. After the fall of Jerusalem he settled in Palestine, married the daughter of an Arab chieftan and changed his name to Abdul Efendi. He invented the Turkish pipe, a which he was wont to play this tune accompanied by a trained chorus of camels.
5 "A TRIP TO JAPAN" Klein
From the Hippodrome production of the same name.
Intermission
6 OVERTURE "William Tell" Rossini
Two great men have written on the subject of "Tell," one in poetry, the other in music, and both of these men did what few others would do. They created a Switzerland so like the real that the Switzer might have been proud of it. Schiller's poem of "William Tell" brings the mountains, the air and the people of Switzerland before us so vividly as if he had known them all his life, and Rossini's opera in music. The recitative begins with a beautiful arpeggio passage, slow, delicate and free. In the recitative style. As the last note of this beautiful song dies away, we hear the first mutterings of the storm, and we are soon, in the midst of a violent storm. When the storm abates we hear the pipe of the Swiss shepherd, bright and cheery, calling his flock together, and then comes the happy chorus, with the full chorus of instruments.

This greatest of Rossini's works was written in 1829.

7 SEXTETTE FROM "LUCIA" Donizetti
Eberle and Bailey, cornets; Smith, horn; Loucks and Wise, trombones; J. W. Miller, bass trombone.

8 "ATLANTIS" Safranek
(The Lost Continent)

Atlantis is a continent mentioned in Plato's History, and extended across the Atlantic Ocean, approximately from Europe to Yucatan. It is the subject of an exhaustive volume by Ignatius Donnelly, and has also served as inspiration for several novelists. This continent, it is believed, was the home of a great race which conquered and civilized the world. The Azore Islands are considered to be the tops of its lofty mountains, and are all that now remains above water of the great continent.

(a) "Nocturne and Morning Hymn of Praise."
(b) "A Court Function."
(c) "I Love Thee." (The Prince and Aana)
(d) "The Destruction of Atlantis."

9 "SONGS OF IRELAND" Douglas
10 "STAR SPANGLED BANNER" Sousa
(a la Wagner)

In case of inclement weather, the exercises in the afternoon and band concert in the evening will be held in the hall.

150,000 MEN AT WORK

Repairing the Roads Thruout Pennsylvania Today

Predictions that 150,000 men are at work on the roads of Pennsylvania today in observance of "good roads day" were made at the State Highway Department. In the counties where it will be impossible to work the observance will be postponed until June 2.

Governor Brumbaugh will do some work on roads in Cumberland County with Deputy Highway Commissioner Hunter; Commissioner Cunningham will set an example in Allegheny and Washington counties, and Chief Engineer Uhler in Montgomery and Bucks. Other State officials will go out and work with the rest of the people.

All the local men thruout this community are sure on the job on the roads thruout this section and we feel certain that there will be many, many miles of much improved road in this section till evening.

THE CARE OF WOUNDS

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by S. G. Dixon, M. D. LL. D.

The scratch of a poisoned ring was often sufficient to effectually dispose of an enemy during the Middle Ages. Such procedure is no longer fashionable and many people are careless in neglecting slight wounds, not thinking them worthy of consideration.

It is easily possible for any cut or abrasion which is sufficient to draw blood to become infected with possible serious results. Not that one should worry over a cut finger or the like, but there are certain precautions which should be given to even the slightest wounds.

This is because through puncture, scratch or cut some of the many micro-organisms may find entrance and result in infection. As these little trouble makers are found everywhere and are apt to be on almost anything we touch it is obvious that some protection should be given any open wound.

First, however, the wound should be cleaned, preferably with water which has been boiled. After this is done some antiseptic should be applied. A 20 per cent solution of carbolic acid or tincture of iodine applied around the edge and directly in the cut will satisfactorily disinfect smaller wounds and can be easily obtained. A piece of sterile gauze or linen should then be applied.

The wound should not be hermetically sealed, as many of the most dangerous infecting agents are those which only thrive when the air is shut away. Among these is the germ of the dreaded tetanus or lock-jaw. For this reason court plaster should not be used.

It is wise for travelers, campers and vacationists to provide themselves with sterilized bandages before starting on a trip. These are put up in convenient form and are a material aid in caring for wounds. In case sterile bandages are not at hand linen can be sterilized by pressing on both sides with a very hot iron or by dipping in some antiseptic solution.

Deep cuts and wounds of a more serious nature should always be treated by a surgeon.

"The Return of the Soul"

As soon as purposive psychology is acknowledged as a full-fledged science we cannot go very far without discovering that it leads us straight to the old idea of the soul. We understand the meaning of a thought or memory or will act by linking it with the aim toward which it points, and this inner forward movement is understood as the act of a self. What do we know of this self? One thing above all—it is perfectly free. We saw that in this whole world of meaning everything is completely understood as soon as every act is linked with its purpose, hence we have no right at all to ask for causes. It has no subconscious causes, and it has no brain causes. The mere inquiry after its cause would falsify its status. It has not causes any more than it has weight or color. Its whole reality lies in its purposiveness, and this detachment from any possible cause, thus completeness in itself, is the fundamental freedom of the self which stamps it as a soul.

Moreover, for the causal psychologist, whether he be of the subconscious or of the physiological temperament, mental life is a multitude of elements. The parts of the mind are externally linked, but they remain separate mental atoms. In the world with which the purposive psychologist is concerned one act is internally bound up with another, one idea means another, one thought refers to another, and every single act points backward to the self which expresses its meaning in its purposive deeds. This is a self which is not a mere pile of psychological notions, but which really asserts itself as the same in every new act.

This soul, finally, cannot be dependent upon the beginning and the end, upon the days and the hours of the physical body. It expresses itself through the body, and the sense organs determine the selection of objects toward which it takes its attitudes, but the soul is neither in the time nor in the space of the physical molecules. If we graciously ask, "How can we describe the soul?" we must learn to recognize the absurdity of the very question. Every description refers to an object, but the essential meaning of the soul is that it is never an object, but always a subject, always a self, always an action.—Hugo Munsterberg, in the North American Review.

Advertising Sure Pays
Especially if it is inserted in a medium that is read. Here is one of many examples. At a recent funeral two gentlemen unintentionally exchanged umbrellas. Last week Mr. Jacob H. Zeller put a small ad in the Bulletin and within half an hour after the paper was off the press, Mr. Isaac Longenecker delivered the umbrella and received his own in return. "Nuf said."

Where, O Where Can He Be?
Clayton Gantz, a well known farmer living near the Dunkard home, Neffsville, is among the missing since last Monday. The last seen of him was that morning when he left home, saying he was going to see a doctor.

FOR WEAR WOMEN

"I Never Spent Any Money That Did Me So Much Good as That I Spent for Vinol."

Bellefontaine, Ohio.—"I wish every tired, weak, nervous woman could have Vinol for I never spent any money in my life that did me so much good as that I spent for Vinol. My nerves were in a very bad condition, making me very weak, tired, and worn out and often drowsy headaches. I had tried cod liver oil, doctor's medicines, and other preparations without benefit.

"One day a friend asked me to try Vinol. I did and soon my appetite increased, I slept better and now I am strong, vigorous and well and can do my housework with pleasure."—Mrs. J. F. LAMBORN, Bellefontaine, Ohio.

Nervous, weak, tired, worn-out women should take Mrs. Lamborn's advice and try Vinol for there are literally thousands of men and women who were formerly run-down, weak and nervous, who owe their good health to Vinol.

It is the medicinal, tissue building elements of the cod's livers, aided by the blood making, strengthening influence of tonic iron, contained in Vinol, which makes it so efficient in all such cases.
