

Watt and Shand
THE LARGEST AND MOST COMPLETE CLOTHING STORE IN THE COUNTY

Thursday Morning at 8 O'clock
 We Start a
Great July Clearance Sale

Every Department has put forth great efforts to make this sale the greatest event of the season

Summer styles and merchandise cannot be carried over until next season, consequently all these comparatively new garments, suits, dresses and other desirable goods have been marked at such low clearance prices, that they will be picked up in a hurry.

We can give you but a little idea of the great values that await you. In fact, some of the biggest values are likely to be among the lots not advertised.

Then There Are The DAILY SPECIALS

Every day during the sale we will offer a select few Daily Specials that will represent the greatest sort of money-saving bargains.

Remember—these daily specials are offered for the one day that they are advertised—ONLY.

Watch The Daily Papers For Them
 We Mention a Few of the Clearance Bargains

$3.50 W. L. Douglas Shoes, every pair in our stock, Clearance price, $2.90.

Women's Pumps and Oxfords, broken sizes in desirable sizes, clearance price, $1.00.

Women's All- linen hand embroidered handkerchiefs, regular 10c value, clearance price, 4 for 25c.

Women's 25c Mercerized Hose in white, sky, pink, smoke and green. Clearance price, 3 pairs for 50c.

$1.00 Silk and Wool Crepe, good black and 44 in. wide. Clearance price, 59c.

Don't fail to watch for our daily advertisements.

NEW YORK STORE LANCASTER, PA.

Straw Hats
 FOR YOUNG MEN AND MEN

All the New Shape and Kinds, $1 to $3.

Genuine South American Panamas—hats without flaws—$5.00, $6.00

Wingert & Haas
 144 North Queen St., Lancaster.

SAVE YOUR CALVES

Raise Them Without Milk

Why throw away money by knocking them in the head or selling them for a dollar or two at birth when they can be raised or vealed WITHOUT MILK at a fraction of the cost of feeding milk. You profit both ways selling the milk and still have the calves.

The Best Milk Substitute to Use Is

Ryder's Cream Calf Meal

The most successful milk substitute on the market—the standard of perfection. Thousands of farmers are using it and cannot say enough for it. It is NOT a stock food—it's a complete food that long experience has proved to be right for rearing calves. It contains all the nutrition of milk prepared in the most digestible form and is sold on a money back guarantee to give results.

100 lbs. equal to 100 gallons milk—Try it on your calves.

Brandt & Stehman, Mt. Joy

Automobile Men, Listen

We have opened a first-class Garage and Repair Shop in the M. B. Hiestand Building on Marietta Street, Mount Joy, where we are prepared to do

All Kinds of Repair Work
 Rebuilding, Repainting, Remodeling
 Etc. All work must be satisfactory and you will find our charges very reasonable.

WE HAVE A COMPLETE LINE OF FORD PARTS.
 AGENTS FOR THE WELL KNOWN FIRESTONE TIRES
 We are pleased to have you give us a trial.

DER & METZLER
 MOUNT JOY, PA.

Control of Clover Leaf Weevil in Alfalfa

The larva of the clover leaf weevil which practically ate up all of the clover on some Lancaster County farms also attacked the alfalfa crop. Their attacks upon this crop, however, were decidedly more apparent in Chester County this spring. For this reason the U. S. Department of Entomology was called upon to try to effect some control work. The co-operating farmers were advised to harrow the alfalfa immediately after the first cutting by double crossing either with an alfalfa harrow or a spike tooth.

At this time of year the insect is in the pupa or inactive stage and are generally found within an inch and a half of the surface of the ground. The harrowing will not only kill many of the insects outright but numbers will die from the crushing of the delicate upper casements or their exposure to direct sunlight.

The results of the Chester County investigation showed that an average thorough harrowing killed 60 to 70% of the weevils.

Continued wet weather conditions are largely responsible for the development of the anthracnose disease noted in some peach orchards. Where the attack is severe it will be noticed that many of the leaves are falling, leaving the tree with an insufficient amount of foliage, to properly develop the fruit. The disease first manifests itself in small purple spots with white centers. This spot will enlarge rapidly to about one-fourth inch in diameter. The leaf tissue dies out and soon drops out leaving a "shot hole" appearance. The disease however should not be diagnosed from the shot hole appearance because there are a number of other causes which will bring this result, but rather from the early appearance of the spots.

With favoring wet weather the trouble may be expected to continue to spread. Self boiled lime sulphur spray should be applied as a control.

F. S. Bucher,
 County Farm Agent.

Washington Legal Expressions

Legal education is paramount in Washington, and court vernacular is common. There are many clerks there who take a law course in college as a diversion, and more lawyers are graduated per capita in the national capital than any other city in the country. The law course is especially attractive because the distinguished members of the Supreme Court deliver lectures from time to time. Justice Brewer and Justice Harlan were very popular with their law classes, and legal education is so prevalent that even in drawing room conversation young ladies cautiously state that "in my judgment this procedure should be so and so," or "Whereas the parties differed, the facts were set forth in this manner," and the young swain insists on her direct answer "Yes or no" when the proposal of marriage is made, leap year or otherwise. At a quick lunch you may hear the expression, "Give me a potato, or potatoes, with the peelings attached thereto." "In detail state to the best of your knowledge and belief the component parts of the hash as set forth." When a lawyer reads a document the lines are perused by words, differentiating the various shades of meaning with all the adjectives known attached so that there may not be any loopholes for an extra word. Many a student dreams of the time when he may come back to the capital a full-fledged lawmaker, insisting with the confidence and exuberance of youth that he can make better laws than those over which he was compelled to pore while a student in Washington—not to except Blackstone or any other authorities cited.—"Affairs at Washington," Joe Mitchell Chapple, in National Magazine.

An Instructive Program

The Findlay College Lyceum Company will render an interesting and instructive program in the Church of God on Saturday evening, July 24. It is a versatile party with a varied program. The party consists of Leo S. Rosenkrans, Samuel L. Eckert, Miss Alice Yoder and Miss Grace W. Grove, daughter of Rev. C. H. Grove, formerly pastor of the Church of God here. All are invited. A silver offering will be taken.

Leased a Field

The Florin base ball club has leased grounds from the Bachman Chocolate Company and on Monday began putting the field in order. The diamond will be "scraped" and when finished they expect to have as fine a field as one cares to see.

Use Your Own License

To stop loaning to friends who have none, Highway Commissioner Cunningham has given notice that the practice of operating automobiles with only one tag must be discontinued under penalty of forfeiture of license.

Why Good Horses Are Scarce

About 1000 Lancaster County horses have been shipped to France within the past six months, and dealers are buying others as fast as they can. They are intended for army use.

Sour Krout and Pork

On his farm at Rheems John G. Reist of Mount Joy has 10,000 cabbage plants growing into sour krout and 100 head of hogs ripening into sausage and hutch.

They Cost About $150,000

There are at least 165 automobiles at Elizabethtown. The first one in the town was owned by John Herr

ABOUT CONNUBIAL FELICITY

Marriage is a Good Old Institution in Spite of the Knockers.

If we believed all that we read in novels we should be sorry for all the world, and especially for the married people. Novelists go to any amount of trouble to get folk married in order to make them miserable. In a novel not a love story, but a real novel, there is usually something about the husband that gets on the wife's nerves or something about the wife that gets on the husband's nerves. It may be the way he eats an orange, or his views on feminism, or the way she deals cards, or her ideas on bringing up the children—whatever it is, the novelist makes the most of it until he has himself and his married people and all the rest of us unhappy about it. As a matter of fact, you and I have every reason to believe that he does not know what he is talking about, or at least is not talking about what he knows. Marriages may or may not be made in heaven, they may or may not make a sort of heaven, but they are, for the most part, comfortable and satisfactory affairs. If you consider your friends and neighbors you will be convinced that almost everybody is married to the right person.

If you try to mix them up you will find that it cannot be done. Mrs. A. never could make waffles to suit Mr. B. and Mrs. C. would not like the way Mr. D. trots around in a bathrobe in the mornings, and Mrs. C. is too extravagant for Mr. A. and Mr. and Mrs. D; like the same sort of shows and music and books, and so it goes. Trifles of differences in habits and tastes do not seem to affect the congeniality of most husbands and wives, and, indeed, these differences seem to exist in remarkably few cases. There are exceptions, but the point is that they are exceptions. If proof were needed of the fact that domestic felicity is rather a common sort of thing, the conversation of a woman's afternoon card club would be convincing. What do they talk about? They talk about their husbands and their homes and their babies. They actually do! My husband likes this and mine likes that, and my husband says this and mine says that, and so on it goes all around the room, and each one there is more interested in what her husband's other says than in the trials of the others. It is a pleasant thing to contemplate, and it is going on all the time, in spite of the three-cornered ideas of misery that the authors delight in.—Indianapolis News.

THE MOON, THE SURVIVORS OF THE CHANCELLOR, MICHAEL STROGOFF, THE GREEN RAY, THE FUR COUNTRY, A JOURNEY TO THE CENTER OF THE EARTH, AROUND THE WORLD IN EIGHTY DAYS AND THE FLOATING ISLAND.

While the writings of Jules Verne are highly imaginative his is the kind of imagination which leads the reader to say "Why, this might well be true!" and, indeed, some of JULES VERNE'S fiction has later become fact.

The Ferocious Giraffe

A menagerie that had been exhibiting in a Missouri village was struck by a cyclone and its live stock was blown loose and flew away.

That same evening as the luckless owner of the show was sitting in the village store, ruminating on the fortunes of life, a colored gentleman poked his head in at the door.

"Did you-all lose a gi-raffe?" he inquired.

"Yep," returned the owner; "I sure did. Have you found him?"

"Yes sah; I done found him."

"Got him with you?"

"No, sah; I reckoned I better inquire first, sah, before I fetched him over."

"All right, you fetch him here and I'll give you a dollar for your trouble."

"Yes, sah, but I reckon de trouble am wuff me' dan a dollar. Dat ole gi-raffe am right smart rambunctious. He done tried to bite me."

"What are you talking about? Gi-raffe's don't bite. They kick. But you bring him along and I'll give you two dollars."

"All right, boss; I reckon you am mo' familiar wid dat gi-raffe dan I be, but he sure made signs like he would bite me."

The darkey departed and about a half hour later there was a sudden commotion on the front porch of the store, the door was thrust open and in came the colored man, puffing and wild-eyed and pulling on a rope. At the other end of the rope, squirming and snarling was an enormous Nubian lion—"the fiercest lion in captivity," according to the show bills.

"Dar, mistah white man," exclaimed the captor, throwing down the rope and pointing to the lion—"dar's your ole gi-raffe, and I tell you he do bite."

Delivered the Goods

When the topic turned to kids and the good old happy school days, a smile illuminated the features of Congressman Louis Fitzhenry, of Illinois. He said he was reminded of how little Willie delivered the goods in the matter of constructing a sentence.

One day the class in small-sized grammar was holding forth, when the youngsters collided with the word "notwithstanding." Immediately the teacher dropped upon it as a ripe subject for an example.

"Children," said she, with an impressive glance at the class, "we have here the word 'notwithstanding.' Can any little boy or girl give me a sentence containing it?"

Then came a moment of intense silence. Every little mind was churning hard. Then the hand of Willie Jones shot up and vigorously wriggled.

"I've got one, Miss Mary!" exclaimed Willie, on receiving recognition.

"Very well, Willie," smiled the teacher, encouragingly, "you may tell it to the class."

"The man's trousers were worn out not with standing," was the triumphant rejoinder of Willie.

Passed Through at Night

Some years ago a writer in Harper's Monthly told of an old colored man, Uncle Joshua, who was fond of boasting of the travels he had been on with his master. As the years passed he added to the tale of his and "Marse Richard's" travels every town and country whose names he learned of, until the itinerary was indeed marvelous in extent, and whenever a new person entered the community he immediately tried to find out how much of the world he, or she, had visited.

On the advent of the new school teacher he was heard to accost Deacon Johnson, a member of the board: "Well, deacon, what kind of cullud lady do de new teacher seem ter be?"

"She 'pears like a right smart little yaller lady, she do."

"Has she done much travelin', deacon, as you know of?"

"I never asked her, but I heah tell ez how she done been through Latia, Algebar and Butny."

Uncle Joshua was staggered for a second only, then, recovering himself, he declared patronizingly. "Yes, yes, me an' Marse Richard parse through all dem little places in de night time, but Marse Richard low dey warn' wuth stoppin' ovah fur."

TAKING SMOKE OUT OF POWDER

Chemical Process Required to Produce the Smokeless Kind.

Ordinary powder produces smoke when fired because of the quantity of fine particles formed from the breaking up of the saltpeter and from some of the charcoal which is not completely burned. To get rid of smoke, so long a handicap in the use of guns, it was necessary to produce a substance that would explode without leaving any solid residue. This was accomplished by the use of gun cotton or nitro-cellulose, from which the most satisfactory smokeless powder is made.

The substance is a chemical compound, not a mixture like gunpowder, and is made by treating cotton with a mixture of nitric and sulphuric acids. When exploded it is all converted into gases. Burning is not necessary to cause an explosion, a mere shock or jar being sufficient. It is too violent an explosive to use in small arms or in cannon, but gun cotton can be made into less forceful forms, suitable for use in guns, and most brands of smokeless powder are made in this way.

Followed Him

Little Jack wanted a dog—an Irish terrier, for choice—but a doubt existed in the mind of his fond mother as to whether it would be wise to introduce one into the house on account of the cat's dislike for the canine race in general.

Still muttering wishes and threats under his breath, Jack departed for school with a look of dire determination on his face.

As dinner time drew near his mother was, as usual, standing at the window in order to watch the young hopeful approaching the house. To her horror, she beheld him hauling on a rope to which was attached a wild and woolly terrier. The dog was firmly resisting Jack's efforts and squatted back on his haunches, allowing itself to be towed.

Mother left the window and awaited developments. In a short while Jack entered the room, still lugging at the unhappy pup.

"Look, mother," he panted. "May I keep this dear little dog?" It followed me all the way home!"

We Furnish Them

We have arranged with one of the largest manufacturers in the United States to supply any thing in the line of lead, slate, copying pencils, with or without erasers, also many designs in pen holders, with anything printed thereon you wish, at prices that will astonish you. They are a cracker-jack advertising novelty and we will be pleased to show samples and prices to you on any interested.

It's Worth While Making a Special Trip to Lancaster To Attend The Last Day Of Our Great MANUFACTURERS OUTLET SALE This Saturday (July 3rd.)

Some values we've offered in this wonderful sale were almost unbelievable, 'tis true, but there are bigger—and better surprises in store for you this Saturday.

We've made numerous underprice purchases specially for the wind-up of the sale and we will put all of them on sale this Saturday at the same reductions at which they were bought. Thus forming an array of bargains and values, the line of which has never before been seen in Lancaster.

COME !!

In spite of the remarkably low prices, we will as usual pay your round trip car fare on all purchases of $10 or more.

BUY IT TO-DAY

300 PICTURES
 250
 300 ARTICLES

POPULAR MECHANICS MAGAZINE

For Father and Son AND ALL THE FAMILY

Two and a half million readers find it of absorbing interest. Everything in it is written so you can understand it.

We sell 400,000 copies every month without giving premiums and have no solicitors. Any newsdealer will show you a copy; or write the publisher for free sample—a postal will do.

$1.50 A YEAR 15c A COPY

Popular Mechanics Magazine
 6 No. Michigan Ave., CHICAGO

Take Notice!

The Undersigned Wish to Inform the Public that They are Prepared to do

Practical Horse Shoeing
 At Jno. Bombach's Stand, Mt. Joy
 Special attention given to all work.
 All diseases of the feet promptly attended to. Your Work Solicited

BOMBACH & SHANK
 General Blacksmiths and Horse-Shoers
 MOUNT JOY, PENNA.

CENTRAL HOUSE
 J. M. Backenstoe, Prop.

Choice Wines & Liquors
 At The Bar.

MOUNT JOY, PENNA.

KEEP YOUR MONEY AT HOME
 Help us develop Lancaster Co. Get our list of 6 per cent. local bonds, stock farms and City Mtgs.

Still & Beelman
 244 Woolworth Bldg., Lancaster, Pa. Jun1-3mo.

Watch Your Children
 Often children do not let parents know they are constipated. They fear something distasteful. They will like Beel's Orderlies—a mild laxative that is like sugar. Sold only at
 E. W. G.

The Donovan Co.

Successors to Williamson and Foster and Cochran
 Lancaster, Penn.