ODD BITS OF NEWS

Facts Taken From Our Many Exchanges Since Last Week

San Francisco, Cal.—Thomas Thornton, a carpenter, nailed his feet to the floor in church in an effort at self crucifixion. Thornton doesn't feel any pain because, he says, he has the faith. Physicians say he is a religious fanatic, and his diseased brain makes him immune from pain.

Clinton, Mo.—Delmar Gentry and wife have the smallest baby ever born in Missouri. At birth it weighed 16 ounces, and was placed in a quart cup. At two weeks old, it measured 12 inches in height. An ordinary band ring will slip over the hand of the baby and up to its shoulder. It is healthy and thriving.

Hammond, Ind.—Two minutes before Riley Lane died, a noise was heard at the door, and when opened Dobbins, Lane's old horse, walked into the room and stood at the bedside until his master died.

New York, N. Y.—Fred Kattmerer will be plain Fred Barton after this week. He explained to the court, when appealing for a change of name, that he was in business in China, and that the Chinese characters spelling his name were pronounced Go-da-me. He objected to the profanity.

Nation-Wide Preaching Mission
No, we have not forgotten it! Dates and plans will be published in season. Meanwhile, as it is a Gospel Mission purely for the quickening of the religious lives of Christian people and the conversion of those who have not taken a stand—all Christian persons, whether of the Episcopal persuasion or otherwise, are asked and urged to pray for the coming of the Kingdom of God.

THE FARMER AND HIS AUTO

This Article Taken From an Exchange Bears Reproduction

An automobile salesman finds that the surest recorder of the financial situation in the country is the briskness of the sale of automobiles. He sold in the vicinity of Quincy, Ill., one hundred cars of a $750 make and just half of them went to farmers. This, he says, gives an idea of how important "bumper crops" are to the manufacturer of automobiles.

But for that matter the prosperous farmer makes all kinds of manufactory items. He is a great consumer of necessaries at all times and of luxuries when he can afford them. When he is flush he buys more and better clothes, more pianos and cars, pictures to adorn his home, smokes more and better cigars and chews the best tobacco, he travels more, buys more fertilizers and finer equipages, purchases better farm stock of all kinds, enlarges his buildings, and in so doing buys plenty of steel and cement, and, finally, becomes an owner of an automobile for both pleasure and business. Turn which way you may, to the railroad, the wholesale dealer in everything and the manufacturer, and they will all tell you that their prosperity is simply a matter depending upon the success and surplus cash of the farmer.

But to come back to the automobile. There never was a time when the farmer did not take a pride in his means of locomotion and transportation. He liked to drive a good horse in his carriage or ride one. At church he tried to exhibit the finest looking vehicle and on the road he sought to own a team that could pull the biggest load and never prove "false." So now it is no wonder he is taking kindly to the new motive power, the automobile, and his ownership of one is more common than among agriculturists the world over. He is not as scientific a tiller of the soil as the European, but he has per capita more acres and does business on a large scale, and so is richer.

When the American farmer becomes a scientific agriculturist there are not many luxuries in the market he will not be able to buy and pay spot cash for. Hence the basis of our great wealth and why we are envied and hated.

Men's Meeting

The Men's Christian Federation will resume their monthly meetings beginning with Dec. 12, at 2:30. This meeting will be held in the Presbyterian Church. Prof. H. M. J. Kline, of Franklin & Marshall college, has been engaged for this, the beginning of the winter meetings. To those who have been so fortunate as to hear the speaker no word of encouragement to be present is necessary. To those who have never had the privilege we remark it will be your loss if you fail to be present.

PROFIT IN LARGE FARMS

Survey Indicates That Incomes Usually Vary Directly With the Sizes of Farms

Under the conditions which prevail on the average American farm, the opportunity for making a satisfactory profit varies directly with the number of acres farmed, according to farm management specialists in the department. This statement is substantiated by figures gathered in the course of a survey which has recently been made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture of a portion of Chester county, Pa. This survey, in the opinion of the specialists, emphasizes what has been called "the small-farm fallacy," which is discussed at some length in a bulletin soon to be issued, Farm Management Practice of Chester County, Pa.

In the territory surveyed, farms of from 30 to 40 acres required for each crop acre $15 worth of machinery on an average, as compared with less than $9 worth on farms of 160 acres and over. The small-sized farms needed one horse for every 9 acres, as compared with one horse for more than 17 acres on the larger holidays. In spite of this increased investment per acre, the small farms were not so well equipped with labor-saving machinery.

Less Profit on Small Farms
On the farms of from 13 to 40 acres the average labor income—that is to say, the money which the farmer receives for his year's work after the interest on his investment had been deducted—was only $240, while on farms of over 160 acres the average was $1,575. From these and other figures which convey the same lesson, the investigators concluded that the small farm, carrying on a general farming business labors under a fixed handicap that is inherent in its size.

This relation of the size of the farm to the opportunity for profit is declared in the bulletin already mentioned to be of vital interest, "because of the notion which so widely prevails that the ideal of American agriculture is the small farm. Numerous real estate promotion schemes are based on this idea. It is a distinct fallacy. Very small farms are difficult to make successful anywhere, and it is only the exceptional man who is equal to the task. They must always be devoted to the most intensive types of farming, and the products of most kinds of intensive farming fluctuate greatly in volume and price, so that the business is very insecure. The danger is greatly magnified if the small farm is situated a long distance from market, for prices for their products do not have to fall very far until the transportation charges wipe out all profits. Even in the vicinity of the better markets these small farms succeed only in localities where they have distinct advantages for the particular type of farming which they follow."

FORD HAS A PEACE PLAN

Has Sailed With Party for Europe to Stop the War

Henry Ford, the auto manufacturer of Detroit has chartered the Scandinavian-American liner Oscar II for $32,000 and sailed with a big party for Europe to stop the war. He says: "The time has come to say, 'Cease firing.' 'We are going to try to get them out of their trenches and back to their homes by Christmas Day. I intend to try to crush militarism. I am eager to go and I would go even if I knew that the vessel might be torpedoed outside the Hook. I do not consider danger. I don't think I have ever been afraid.' Governor Brumbaugh had been invited to accompany the party of pacifists but he declined.

NEW LICENSES IN DEMAND

Large Number Have Already Been Granted by the Department

The State Highway Department, which has begun issuing the 1916 automobile license tags, is receiving $7,000 a day for the new licenses. The department will enforce the law regarding the carrying of new licenses, starting with the first day of January, and arrests will be made, it is said by Commissioner Cunningham if the law is violated. In order to facilitate the distribution of the license tags, thousands are being sent out to the notaries of the State. So far 4,003 notaries public have applied for tags and each has been sent 125.

Governor Brumbaugh has been given the first tag again while number four is allotted to Highway Commissioner Cunningham. Former Governor Tener got No. 10. Frank Bell, of Harrisburg, was again awarded the twelfth tag.
