

It Boosts Net Profits

WE have already told you that a Mogul 8-16 kerosene tractor does certain necessary and important farm work cheaper and better than horses can do it. One of the reasons is that it burns kerosene, which is cheaper than either gasoline or horse fuel. Another is that it doesn't get tired, but does just as much work in the last hour of a hard day as it does in the first, after working steadily all day long.

Put out of your head any idea that this tractor is not for you. It offers you the best and quickest way to cut down your expenses and so increase your net profits. Come in and see the Mogul 8-16, and let's talk it over.

Discriminating People Say

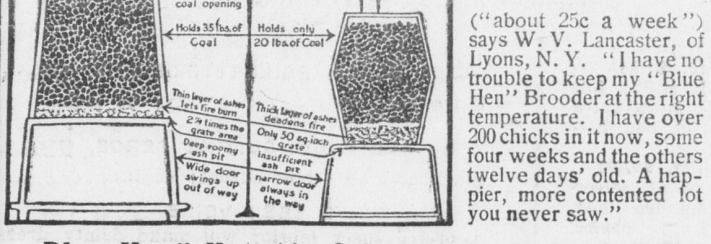

That Champtail fills a long needed want in the line of non-alcoholic beverages is the opinion of people who know the "good of living." Champtail is non-alcoholic and for that reason it appeals to all classes, besides it is really a sparkling Champagne that bubbles and sparkles just as its more famous forebearer has done in thousands of thin stemmed glasses.

Mr. Groundhog Saw His Shadow

(Continued from page 1) to the scene of their liberating contemplations "Stony" Huber of Lancaster, a distinguished groundhog authority, who obtained a furlough from police duties to accompany the mystical body. Their meetings were held beneath the earth's surface, and not only in proximity to groundhog habitations, but with groundhogs on every side, and their report are gleaned these statements:

"In reports received from the thirteen original states, with affidavits accompanying to verify every statement submitted the groundhog saw his shadow on February 2 in certain sections of Pennsylvania, in the western counties of New York, along the coast of New Jersey, in Sussex county, Del., and of the other nine states, in two of which he has never designed to reside, the sun shone dimly on three on Groundhog day. There wasn't, of course, enough of sun that day to go round, and all the groundhogs that came out did not see their shadows. Such as did come out to remain, and are reported to have been frozen, were of tender years and reckless disposition. Just as there are men who don't know when to go home and, under certain circumstances, can't tell the sun from the moon, there are wise and otherwise groundhogs. If our prophet was on a plane with modern business and political prophets, he might stand on a technicality, in declaring his speciality is strictly in prophesying the weather for six weeks prior to March 16, and claim February 3 to have been Groundhog day in leap year. Without noses pointed toward the North star we waive that claim.

"Had the groundhog been able to see his shadow in every one of the thirteen original states, and Besant Row, and had the world's population of groundhogs been wiped out in the weather that has been audaciously cold and the snows that have fallen in past due season, a prima facie case against him for falling down on his job could not be sustained. Weather conditions, and conditions for making weather during February and early March have been exceptionally trying, and of a character never known before. The groundhog, but prophesies; he can't pretend to make weather. The weather makers, as early as the third day of February, had an eclipse of the sun to contend with, and with Jupiter menacing Venus might at night, while standing directly over the buck, there was a suspense of days and nights, with weather that never had been made, but for weeks simply happened, with the dawn of Washington's birthday. A Philadelphia newspaper gave to the world Owen Wister's "Poem of Hate," and there was hell to pay in the awful struggle for Verdun, with cannonading such as the world has only heard in the roar of heaven's great artillery, has had a marked climatic effect, and generals of Joshua's attainments, in command of millions of men may have at least requested the sun to stand still. The groundhog pays no retainers, nor is he called upon to make any defense. This "somesun that has been wrote," has been "wrote" in a spirit of sympathy, first for the deluded people, a proportion of whom are blind because they will not see, and, second, to solace old probabilities, Baer's Almanac, Hicks, goosebone artists and weather makers, who have fallen down on their job."

OYSTERS

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

Oysters furnished food for prehistoric man as demonstrated in the great Indian mounds of oyster and clam shells in which are found ancient implements of war and industries.

Oysters have continued to be an article of food much sought after by man and beast. The oyster, however, has become so high in price that on the basis of food values it cannot be listed as of economic importance.

Thru its geographical range at home and abroad this bivalve has become fraught with danger from the sewage polluted waters which now reach many of the oyster beds from our large municipalities. The thickly populated communities are mostly along the streams, owing to the fact that man has always settled near waterways and in the early days of our history the industries depended entirely upon water power for their mills. As these centers of population increased the disposal of waste became a great problem, resulting in the building of conduits to lead it into the pure waters Nature has given us. These flowing streams carried the wastes away from the doors of one community only to poison the waters for those living and eating at the same time polluting the waters covering our oyster and clam beds as well as driving away from our streams valuable fish.

The raw oyster today is to be looked upon with suspicion. Great care should be observed in purchasing them. The seller should be known to be reliable and he should know from what beds he gets his supply.

It is hard to explain why the oyster furnishes a fashionable dish when it has become the custom to supply the oysters, which a few years ago would have been thrown back into their beds as being unfit for the market. The food value of four or five of these oysters is almost nil and the taste so insipid that they are favored with strong condiments that entirely destroy what little natural flavor the oysters had, therefore, it can hardly be said that these oysters thrown out from the cookable oysters from various beds, are palatable. They are, however, dangerous as they can and do sometimes carry the germs of typhoid fever.

Why, therefore, eat raw oysters containing little or no nourishment, with little or no taste and yet not infrequently carrying germs of disease.

Speaker Clark declines to be a delegate to the national convention, because he expects congress to be in session at that time, and honestly we are afraid he's right.

POLITICAL

Progressives Named a Full State Ticket at Harrisburg

A full ticket for State offices was put in the field by the Washington party leaders and chairmen following a lengthy conference earlier in the day, when efforts to get the party's endorsement of Governor Burnabugh's Presidential candidacy failed. The meeting was held in Harrisburg.

The Washington Party leaders declared themselves in favor of the Roosevelt policies, endorsed reunion with the Republican party nationally if the G. O. P. will nominate a candidate for President who is a Progressive at heart, denounced Fenroseism and declined, absolutely to be drawn into the Vore-Brumbaugh factional fight.

The candidates who will stand for the party nominations are:

United States Senator, Mahlon H. Myers, Cambria County; Auditor General, Isaac B. Brown, Erie; State Treasurer, J. Verner Clark, Washington; Congressman-at-large, Fred Breckman, Carbon; Robert C. Bair, York; S. Jarvis Adams, Jr., Allegheny; and Arthur C. Graham, Philadelphia.

SHOOT AT MARIETTA

Charlie Humer Held a Big Show There Thursday P. M.

Mr. C. E. Humer, of Hotel Marietta, held his annual shoot Thursday afternoon and had a good field of gunners. "Danny Moore," the Newtown wing shot, showed many of the "big guns" up by cracking 13 out of a possible 15. Dinger and Hepler, the Harrisburg crack shots, each got 12. The promoter, just as a matter of courtesy in "knowing how to treat his company," only is not in favor of preparedness, dropped one less than half his fly-but that, probably, is a slander. ers. In the miss and out Martin, the middle west has never taken advantage of its middleness to make bulwarks of its brethren on the exposed sides.

Mr. J. M. Backenstoe expects to hold another shoot for only local gunners the latter part of next week. President Wilson at least expects for his appointees men who have records of accomplishment.

Give the Children their Chance

Can't expect the children to stand high in their classes unless they get their lessons done properly. And they can't do night study without proper light.

The best light to study by is that which beams from a Rayo Lamp filled with slow-burning Atlantic Rayolight Oil. It glams soft, white and mellow—doesn't flicker. It's a wonderful light for studying. Won't strain the children's eyes and so they study the better. And they learn the quicker.

And you'll sew with less effort, and father will enjoy his paper the more if you keep the house generously lighted with Rayo Lamps.

Rayo Lamps are handsome—add to the appearance of any room. They're easily cleaned and last a lifetime. Your dealer can show you a full assortment of Rayo Lamps priced from $1.50 up. But to get the best light from a Rayo Lamp, you should burn

ATLANTIC Rayolight OIL

That's the kerosene that neither flames nor flickers, that burns brightly and yields a great heat, in every lamp in the house, in your oil stoves.

Atlantic Rayolight Oil is the one that never varies in quality, for domestic purposes—for polishing, for moth, for rust and for housewives tell us they have found it the best.
