State Agricultural Notes

Reports to the Department of Agriculture indicate a larger acreage of potatoes in many counties than a year ago. In Lancaster county a larger acreage of tobacco is reported.

Members of the Monroe County Poultry Association are planning for an egg exchange which will provide a center for pooling of eggs to be shipped to one general distributing and selling agency.

Growers of berries and small fruits are anticipating a good crop this season.

Unless frosts damage the blossoms there is every prospect of a fair peach crop throughout the State during the summer.

Farmers in North Annville Township, Lebanon County, are selling off their mixed breeds of cattle and buying only Holsteins.

Ten farmers in Wilmington Township, Lawrence County, are planning the erection of brick silos during the summer.

A letter to the Department of Agriculture from a Juniata County correspondent states that 100 years ago, in 1816, there was little or no summer and no crops in that section.

Elk County farmers in Benzinger Township have organized a co-operative creamery at St. Marys and are going back to dairying as they feel it is their main dependence.

Crows are said to be unusually plentiful and a complete pest in some parts of Lackawanna County where they are destroying crops and eating young chickens.

Dr. Paul Bowman, President of Blue Ridge College was a welcome visitor on College Hill on Monday.

DREADED DESTROYER OF CHILDHOOD CONQUERED

For years diphtheria was the most dreaded of all children's diseases. Until the discovery of antitoxin the mortality rate was in the neighborhood of 40 per cent. Thousands of families were grief stricken and mothers' hearts made desolate by this dread destroyer of childhood. Antitoxin is one of the world's greatest discoveries in medical science. Through its use the death rate has been reduced to about 8 per cent. If used in large doses in the very early stage of the disease few deaths occur.

In order that antitoxin may be secured by every poor family in the State, Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon has established 67 stations throughout the Commonwealth for its free distribution. More than 29,718 packages of antitoxin are distributed annually from these stations to the physicians who have cases under their care.

Every case of sore throat should be looked upon with suspicion by the parents and a physician called as early as possible. The State law provides that teachers, superintendents and other persons in charge of educational and religious institutions are required to exclude children suffering from sore throat. The careful observance of this law has decreased the number of cases and the prompt administration of antitoxin by the physician has materially decreased the death rate from this dread disease of childhood.

MODERN SISTERS OF THE FATES

The Greeks depicted the three goddesses of fate, one with a spindle, one with a scroll and one with a pair of shears.

In the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health there are a half dozen busy young women who are the modern personification of the three sisters of Greek mythology. Day in and day out, from one year's end to another, they are occupied in punching on narrow strips of cardboard the facts relating to all the deaths and births which occur among the eight million inhabitants of Pennsylvania.

The law requires that each birth and death shall be recorded and a certificate duly forwarded to the State Department of Health at Harrisburg. From these the punch card records are made which permits the tabulation of all the facts. These are the vital statistics of the State.

With this accurate information it is possible for Dr. Samuel G. Dixon, Commissioner of Health, to direct the work systematically toward the prevention of disease. The statistics for the year 1915, which have just been completed, show that there has been material reduction in the annual death toll from scarlet fever, whooping cough, diphtheria, measles, tuberculosis and typhoid fever.

It's all a matter of keeping the bowels open. The man who carries a little box of Rexall Orderlies has got a good health policy in his pocket. I believe they are the best laxative ever prepared, and their pleasant taste appeals to men, women and children alike."

Why Spend $2 to $5 More Than You Must For Your Spring Suit?

As we have said many times before, it isn't "how much" you pay for a thing that counts the most—it's WHERE YOU BUY IT and HOW MUCH YOU GET.

There's no given standard in Men's Suits. You don't buy them like, for instance, you do a ton of coal. Stores sell their garments according to what profit they MUST have over cost price. If they buy in small numbers, the cost price is correspondingly higher, and therefore their selling price MUST be higher or the bankruptcy Court is the next step.

We don't say these things boastfully or disparagingly because we have risen to leadership in Lancaster County. We're only pointing out a concrete reason, WHY OUR PRICES ARE SO MUCH LOWER THAN THE LIMITED STORE—and where you can save real money on your purchases.
