From Lancaster to York On a Gallon of Gasoline

Don't Say It Can't Be Done Till You See It Tried By the New Case 40

Can you run from Lancaster to York on a single gallon of gasoline?

Have you ever tried to do it?

Go slow there a minute, friend, before you make the positive assertion that no car ever did it and no car ever can do it.

Have you ever seen it done by the new Case 40.

Do you realize that the new Case 40 has done practically the same distance on a gallon of gasoline—on the level, not once—but on a number of occasions.

"Why should the New Case 40 make such a showing," you ask, "when I have never been able to make it with my car, no matter how hard I tried?"

Because the Case Motor is different.

Because the Case Transmission applies the power, which the sturdy, economical motor creates, with a minimum amount of loss by friction.

Seventy-four years' experience solving power problems and an admitted leadership for Case Motors in the agricultural field, have led to the perfection of "the motor which makes extra cylinders unnecessary" as one famous engineer expressed it.

Each Case Car is equipped with this motor, made right in the Case factory throughout—and thoroughly.

The first Case Car was known as "the car with the famous engine." The New Case 40 has that famous Case engine developed to the point where every drop of gasoline yields extra power.

Season after season have seen the Case engine perfected till it now has developed to a point where no car could claim superiority, where few cars could prove its equal.

On steep hills, on long, hard pulls along poor roads, Case motors astonish by their quick response, their assurance of ample power, their steady, sturdy, quiet action.

In a day when the tendency toward added cylinders leads to innumerable complications and a gasoline consumption which is staggering, the best brains of the Case factory has been concentrated on greater simplifications of the motor, although for several years past it has been noted for its simplicity, strength and gasoline economy.

With a three and five-eighth inch bore and a six-inch stroke, the Case motor is rated at 2100 r. p. m. Who but a racing driver or speed maniac would want greater speed?

YESTERDAY'S—Seventy-four years of them, every one crowded full of experience, solving power problems.

TODAY'S product far ahead of any 1916 car in gasoline economy—in power—in appearance—in comfort—in durability.

TOMORROW'S price may be higher, because of rising material costs; but for the present, the New Case Forty can be bought at about half the price of last year's Case Forty.

THAT'S THE CASE FOR THE CASE—briefly stated. A book full of invaluable facts for any prospective car purchaser, FREE for the asking.

While you think of it drop us a post card for a catalogue, it explains details

If he is compelled to lay the walk at once he will put down brick. The street committee was instructed to investigate and report at the next meeting.

TRAVEL TALK

Little Talks on Health & Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D. LL. D.

The summer travel season has arrived. Thousands of mothers and children will soon be on their way to the country and the seashore.

Observation would seem to justify the statement that the majority of mothers traveling with small children fortify themselves against possible contingencies by providing cakes, sweets, fruit or something edible to pacify their youngsters.

Every traveler is familiar with the sight of infants of various ages engaged in feeding themselves. Despite the efforts to keep the aisles and seats of passenger coaches clean they become soiled by contact with dirty boots.

Children are quite commonly permitted to play or creep over the car floor and seats and then stick their fingers and toys and any available food into their mouths. It is obvious to the most casual observer that this is an exceedingly uncleanly habit. It is likewise a dangerous one. Disease breeding bacteria are carried directly into the mouths of these children in this fashion. This makes it easily understood how babies and little children often contract consumption, Tuberculosis.

No one should eat without first washing the hands. The possibility of contaminating food by handling with dirty fingers is great. When children are too young to understand this their mothers or nurses should be careful not to permit them to eat until their hands are washed.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accused by a local dealer.

"Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality."

The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said:

"Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here."
