VERY VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR THE FARMERS

Uniform Color in Butter Desirable—
Poultry Manure a Good Fertilizer—
Poultry Flock Without Cocks—
The Strawberry Patch and Other Notes

Look out for sun scald on trees having not sufficient foliage to shade their own trunk and main limbs. A little forethought will enable you to shade the threatened parts in some manner, and thus stop the danger of damaged bark on the southwest side. The stomach of the calf is small and will not hold a large quantity of milk at one time. This makes it necessary to feed it as often as practicable. Over feeding will cause indigestion and may result in the death of the calf.

The infectious disease known as blackleg usually affects cattle between the ages of six months and two and one half years. It gains entrance to the tissues through small wounds on the skin. A swelling occurs beneath the skin on the hind-quarters, the shoulder, or the lower portion of the neck. If the hand is passed over this swelling it crackles, and if cut into, a yellowish, bloody fluid flows out. The carcasses of dead animals should be buried or burned and the spots where they died should be disinfected. The healthy cattle should be removed from infected pastures and all susceptible cattle should be vaccinated.

A strawberry patch that is well cultivated during the summer, and from which all unnecessary runners are removed, should remain in good condition and store up sufficient plant food for an excellent crop. One that is neglected, and which mats or grows up in weeds, cannot be expected to produce well. Such berries as are produced will be small. The crop will easily be influenced by dry weather in the spring, and a good drought during summer will kill off most of the plants. Nothing responds better to good care than a strawberry patch, and no fruit is more easily affected by neglect.

To those who refrain from keeping poultry, being fearful that the roosters will disturb the quietude of the neighborhood, let me recommend the keeping of hens without roosters and buying baby chicks each spring to replenish the laying stock and to raise for fryers and roasters. There are thousands following this plan. Even those having small back yards can raise poultry, providing, of course such yards are touched by the sun. Poultry must have sun. There are some who are attempting to keep chickens in back yards and basements never reached by a ray of sunshine, but my advice is if you can't give your chicks this necessity of life you had better not try to raise poultry.

Properly cared for, poultry manure is one of the best fertilizers the ground can have. The best way to preserve them is to put them in a dry box or house, protected from the weather, but airy enough to keep dry. Sifted coal ashes on the droppings, help to dry them out. Sawdust will answer the same purpose. If the poultry droppings are cared for each day or week, the condition of the flock may be estimated by character of the droppings. If the droppings show traces of blood, the chances are the birds are getting too much meat; if they are unshaped and soft, the mesh is to wet. If the excrement is yellow or bright green, or both, bowel trouble of the nature of cholera may be apprehended. In health, that part of the excrement which is given off by the kidneys is white.

A uniform color in the butter from one season to the other is desirable, hence during the winter when the cows are getting dry feed a little coloring should be added. Too much coloring, however, is very undesirable. When coloring is used it should be added just before the churning begins. Stopping the churn at the proper time has much to do with the quality of the butter. It should be stopped when the butter is in the form of granules about the size of a kernel of wheat or trifle larger. When the butter is churned to too small granules many of them will go through the buttermilk strainer and will cause more or less loss. Overchurning is undesirable because the butter will retain considerable buttermilk, which is difficult to remove and which also tends to cause the butter to deteriorate faster. As soon as the churning has been completed, the buttermilk should be drawn off.

Although our knowledge of geography has been revised downward lately, we presume that Drama is in the eastern theatre of war.

It is said that the Democrats and the Republicans each spent about $150,000 on the Maine campaign, so that Maine is $300,000 ahead with another election coming.

Will be Held by Penny Officials Oct. 3 and 4

The General Manager's 44th annual track inspection of the Pennsylvania Railroad East of Pittsburgh will be held on October 3rd and 4th. Accompanied by some 300 operating officers, General Manager S. C. Long will go over the Main Line from Pittsburgh to New York. The trip will be made in specially equipped observation trains.

Every year, on the occasion of the General Manager's inspection, prizes to the amount of 5,400 are awarded to the Supervisors and their Assistants, who have maintained their sections of the roadbed in the best condition during the year. The awards for 1916 will be announced upon the arrival of the inspection party at Harrisburg, on the evening of October 3rd, at the Board of Trade Building.

Monthly inspection trips are made over each Supervisor's section during the year by a special committee of the General Manager's Staff, consisting of W. G. Coughlin, Engineer Maintenance of Way; A. B. Clark, Assistant Engineer Maintenance of Way, in charge of Roadway and Track; L. W. Allibone, Superintendent Sunbury Division, and J. K. Johnston, Superintendent Tyrone Division.

To determine the exact condition of the "line and surface" of the Main Line, carefully designed recording instruments are used in connection with jars of water placed in the inspection car. These records, in addition to the personal observations of the inspectors, form the basis on which the prize awards are decided.

WASHING DISHES

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

Common tasks are important, because they are common. For example, washing dishes. Everybody may not wash dishes, but they eat from dishes that someone has washed.

To properly cleanse dishes and eating utensils, they should be washed and rinsed in boiling water. Washing in lukewarm water, even with soap, is not sufficient.

There are numerous communicable diseases caused by germs which are present in the mouths of those who are afflicted. People in the various stages of tuberculosis, diphtheria, syphilis, etc., may transfer disease germs from their mouths to eating utensils. Unless these are sterilized by boiling water, they are a source of danger to whoever may use them subsequently.

Forks in particular, because their construction, are difficult to cleanse thoroughly and should be washed with care.

In public eating houses, exceptional attention should be given to the sterilization of eating utensils and drinking glasses. Care in the choice and preparation of food is easily offset by careless handling of the same.

A TWICE-TOLD TALE

One of Interest to Our Readers Good news bears repetition when it is confirmed after a lapse of time, even if we are to believe it at first hearing. The following experience of a Joy woman is confirmed after years.

Mrs. H. N. Nissly, Barfoot Joy Streets, Mount Joy, Pa., had been suffering from back and other symptoms for some time. There was a dull pain in my kidneys that fairly sick all over. I was subject to and was very dizzy at times. Kidneys were not doing their properly. Doan's Kidney Pills recommended to me as being for such symptoms and I used them. It took but a few doses to see that I was benefited. I continued taking a short time and was cured. The above statement was made October 26, 1907 and on Jan. 1916 Mrs. Nissly said: "It has been three years since it has been necessary for me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. The benefit they me has been lasting." Price 50c, at all dealers. Simply ask for a kidney remedy get Doan's Kidney Pills, the that Mrs. Nissly has twice recommended.
