COLUMBIA MAN TAKES HIS LIFE

Despondent because of failing eyesight and infirmities, which he feared would make him a charge to his relatives, Uriah Sourbeer, of Columbia, eighty-seven years of age, a veteran of the Civil War, waded to the Susquehanna river below Columbia on Sunday morning and drowned. The old man waded step by step into the treacherous waters of the river, near Detwiler's quarry, on the Washingtonboro turnpike, and finally dropped into the swirling water below the old Columbia dam. His body never came to the surface. The act was witnessed by Harry Seibert, of Columbia, who stood on the shore, powerless to aid the old man. He immediately gave the alarm and men from Columbia hastened to the scene, but were unable to launch a boat in the rapids near the shore. Up to noon Monday the body had not been recovered. It is believed by old river men, who have known of several drowning accidents at that individual spot, that the body will be carried down stream by an undertow and that it may be some days before it will be found.

The Nation on a War Basis

From the beginning of the war the Bell System has supplied promptly and effectively the countless needs of the Government for telephone equipment and service.

Yet, despite the unprecedented demand from private sources, a universal service has without interruption been maintained by a program of construction never before equalled and by an expansion of the operating forces to meet each added volume of traffic.

America's giant task of preparation could not be complete without an adequate communication system. Over ten million Bell Telephones are now at her disposal.

Twenty-four Hour Clock It has been argued from time to time for many years that the sensible way to measure time would be by using a 24-hour clock instead of dividing the day into 12-hour periods, as has been the custom from the time modern clocks began to be built. It is considered that this would be especially desirable for railroads, as it would avoid confusion between a. m. and p. m. and make the understanding of time tables much easier.

The general staff of the Swiss army, the federal post office, the telegraph and customs departments of the government have themselves in favor of the 24-hour clock.

FARMER NEED NOT FEAR HANDICAPS

Federal Food Officers Assure Growers Fair Deal This Year.

PERISHABLES ARE NECESSARY

Essential as Nutriments and Under the Protection of Authorities in Washington.

Philadelphia, March 19.—C. J. Tyson and M. T. Phillips, representatives of the farmers in the United States food administration for Pennsylvania, have issued a statement to the farmers of the state making an appeal for the increased production of fruits and vegetables. Their statement follows: Reports have been widely current that perishable products, such as fruits and vegetables, would be discriminated against in shipping during the coming season. We have referred these reports to the Food Administration of Washington and have received from that source emphatic denial of the truth of such statements.

G. Harold Powell, assistant to Herbert Hoover, the Federal Food Administrator. In an interview with Mr. Tyson, set forth the situation as it is. Mr. Powell is in charge of the perishable products division of the National Food Administration. He said: "Apparently there is serious misunderstanding by the public of the attitude of the Food Administration towards the free consumption of perishable materials."

"Foods of the 'Perishable Products' group are essential to nutrition, and their continued production, distribution and consumption are vital in view of National and international necessities. The Food Administration desires to emphasize these facts, and to assure all producers and handlers of milk products, poultry and eggs, fish, fruits, potatoes and vegetables that no restrictions have been placed on such food materials, or are liable to be."

"Not only are these foods of great use and value in supplying the ordinary basis of nutrition, but vary the diet and promote palatability of the foods used with them; most of them are succulent or supply necessary bulk in the nation, which aids digestion; and some serve as efficient and necessary regulators of bodily functions for the maintenance of health."

"There are many sections where perishable products can be grown to greater advantage than staple crops. Any movement which leads to substituting culture of one for the other, will be liable to cause economic loss. It would be unwise, therefore, to limit the areas devoted to any class of perishable crops."

"Instead of restricting the production, it is believed that there never was a time when the opportunity was greater, from the business standpoint, for the expansion and extension of the perishable food industry, as a whole, than at present."

"There is every hope that the railroads will soon be able to move all classes of freight freely and promptly. Even in times of congestion perishable food products have been placed in the first priority group, and there is no reason to expect any change in this policy."

THE UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION SAYS:

There is no royal road to food conservation. We can only accomplish this by the voluntary action of our whole people, each element in proportion to its means. It is a matter of equality of burden; a matter of minute saving and substitution at every point in the 20,000,000 kitchens, on the 20,000,000 dinner tables, and in the 2,000,000 manufacturing, wholesale and retail establishments of the country.

NO MORE GERMAN EDITIONS OF THE OLD BAER ALMANAC

At a recent special meeting of the Board of Directors of John Baer's Sons, Inc., publishers of this city, the directors, being in full and complete sympathy with the National Government, decided to discontinue publication of the German edition of their almanac, and hereafter nothing will come from their establishment printed in this language. They have taken this action from purely patriotic motives, as the discontinuance of the German almanac means considerable financial loss to them, as this publication has been in existence for more than 40 years and reaches nearly 1,000,000 copies annually.

HE SOUGHT CURE WITHOUT AVAIL

SUFFERED SEVERELY FROM INDIGESTION BUT MASTER MEDICINE RESTORED HIM TO HEALTH

"I owe my restoration to health to Tanlac," says William Dunstan, of 1536 Allen St., Allentown, Pa. "I urge anyone suffering from any form of indigestion to take this Master Medicine."

"I was in very bad shape—not sick, but utterly miserable all the time. My appetite was gone and whatever I ate gave me such severe indigestion that a burning would rise in my chest and seem to choke me. I tried all kinds of medicine but nothing gave me any relief and I kept getting weaker all the time from lack of nourishment and nervous strain. Since taking Tanlac, my appetite has come back, the pains over my kidneys have disappeared and I now go to the table and eat like a wood-chopper without suffering the slightest discomfort or distress afterward. Tanlac is certainly a wonder-worker."

Tanlac, the famous reconstructive vegetable tonic is now sold here by W. D. Chandler & Co., Druggists, Mount Joy, Pa. Be Fair to the Soldiers By a recent act of Congress wives of men in the military service cannot receive stores while they are present. They must wait until they are absent.

Buy GOOD Clothes, And You'll Need To Buy LESS

There isn't a farmer in Lancaster county, we dare say, who won't give us right when we say that a cheap fertilizer, a no-account implement, or unreliable seed, is not DEARER IN THE END. Right now, and for weeks past, the farmer has been wise in testing his seed corn. WHY? To prove its worth, and run no risk. Shouldn't he be just as prudent in his clothing buying? Isn't it good logic that GOOD Clothing is the only SAFE kind, and that even if it does cost more money than the inferior kind (which is only as logical as that night follows day) he will need to BUY LESS and in the long run PAY LESS. The man who buys a GROFF & WOLF Suit and can show us afterward in all good faith that it wasn't a hundred per cent. value for the price he paid will get A NEW SUIT and no quibbling. We trust to our high reputation to have you believe this absolutely. PRICES: $15, $18, $20, $22, $25, $30, $35.
