WOMAN WORKS 15 HOURS A DAY

Marvelous Story of Woman's Change from Weakness to Strength by Taking Druggist's Advice.

Peru, Ind.—"I suffered from a displacement with backache and dragging pains so bad that times I could not be on my feet and it did not seem as though I could stand it. I tried all of the best medicines without any benefit and several doctors told me nothing but an operation would do me any good. My druggist told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it with the result that I am now well and strong. I get up in the morning at four o'clock, do my housework, then go to a factory and work all day, come home and get supper and feel good. I don't know how many of my friends I have told what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me."
Mrs. ANNA METERLINO, 36 West 10th St., Peru, Ind.

Women who suffer from any such ailments should not fail to try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Farmers Column

Items in These Columns Are Prepared in the Department of Agriculture at Washington, D. C., and are Reliable and Trustworthy.

For those who are favorably situated for raising turkeys, a more profitable side line scarcely can be found. Plenty of range is necessary to raise turkeys, so this usually limits the opportunity to the farms. Turkeys are included in the Department of Agriculture's program for increasing poultry production, and specialists of the department point out how and where increases can be obtained.

Turkeys are especially suited to the grain and stock farms where there is ample ranging ground abounding in such turkey food as grasshoppers and other insects, weed seeds, waste grain such as is left in the fields after harvest, and nuts of such varieties as beechnuts, chestnuts, pecans, pine nuts and acorns. On such farms the present prices of grain effect the turkey raiser but little, for with the exception of what is used at fattening time the feed consumed is largely of such a kind as would otherwise be wasted.

With but little additional outlay to the farmer more turkeys could and should be raised, Federal specialists say. The small number of turkeys per farm in the United States is surprising. According to the census of 1910 which is the latest that has been taken, only 13.7 per cent of the total number of farms reported any turkeys at all, and on those farms reporting turkeys an average of but slightly over four breeding turkeys was found per farm. On the farms by nature of the crops grown on them or because of unfavorable surroundings are not adapted to turkey raising, but most farms could easily handle a breeding flock from 10 to 15 hen turkeys and a tom, raising from 75 to 150 each year at a good profit.

Throughout the Middle West, where most of the turkeys are raised, it is unusual to see a flock of more than 50 on a farm, although in Texas, where more are produced than in any other state, flocks of several hundred are rather common. In sections of the Southwest and the Pacific Coast a few persons have engaged in turkey raising on a large scale, rearing a thousand or more every year. There are not however, enough turkeys raised on the Pacific Coast to supply the local demand. This is true also of the Atlantic Coast States. Production in New England, once famous for its turkeys, is very greatly reduced.

Owing to the fact that the bronze turkey is the heaviest, it is more popular among turkey raisers than other varieties. Since turkeys are sold by weight, heaviest birds bring the greatest returns. When a number of people are to be served, as

TONALL HELPED THIS LADY MORE THAN ANY PHYSICIAN EVER DID

Mrs. Kate A. Long, of Litz, Lancaster County, Pa., gives out this interesting statement in regard to her case:

"Giddy, weak stomach, as well as Rheumatism held me fast for a long time. How I suffered. Stiff and achy were my limbs and joints most of the time. Food would not stay in my stomach. Poison from undigested food filled my whole system."

"Mr. J. E. Shales, Druggist, at Litz, Pa., told me the truth when he said Tonnall would help me. It certainly did, as I eat better, sleep better and have no more rheumatism."

Tonnall has done more for me than any physician has ever done for me. This statement was given April 23, 1918.

Tonnall is sold by E. W. Garber, Druggist, Mount Joy, Pa.

UNITED STATES FOOD ADMINISTRATION

HOME HEALTH CLUB
By Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Ill.

Motherhood: Several years ago I wrote and sent out many thousands of copies of a little booklet on Motherhood. In it I gave dietetic directions for expectant mothers, and I have had so many letters from grateful mothers, thanking me so heartily, that I feel that more ought to know about the best kind of diet especially during these times of great dietetic changes.

I am going to quote a "Little Sermon No. 5" which is the title of Chapter 5 in the pamphlet, and then in the next issue of this paper, I will quote the special diet list which you will find not only pleasant but effective.

"Is it not true that motherhood is the most vital of all human subjects, without mother no human being exists, therefore, anything which gives more knowledge on the subject is always of the deepest human interest."

"There has been a great amount of comment upon the subject of race since President Roosevelt called the attention of the public to the question, but I think that if he was in touch with the same number of good wives and mothers all over this broad land of ours that the Home Health Club is, he would never fear for the Americans. The deep anguish and heart longing expressed to me in letters received from childless couples is truly pitiful, and, thank God that the Home Health Club, through its correspondence department, has been able to bring joy to so many homes. All of the millions of wealth which a man might acquire could not buy the heartfelt gratitude that is expressed in the letters, which I receive from those happy mothers and fathers, who have experienced the joy of those titles, through following simple, practical natural laws."

"Then, too, the fact that the date of the appearance of the longed for little one may be planned for and the sex determined in advance is now so well established that the young couples are able to bring into the world just such a family as they desire, and can best educate and care for."

"I have spoken of the burdens of inordinate child-bearing which is a condition almost as bad as childlessness, and as I said before, the simple and practical knowledge of the present day renders either condition unnecessary. A well born and well bred family of from four to eight children makes a home the happiest place on earth and in those homes where the children are planned for, they are welcome and the mother's success attends them in all the walks of life."

"The Home Health Club, by first directing the parents into right ways of living and the observance of Nature's Laws, gets them into sound physical health. No others are fit to become parents because they are but passing on to future generations their infirmities, perpetuating disease and poverty, and thus indirectly interfering instead of benefiting the country."

"Happy, healthy children are the grand inheritance thinkable; happy, healthy homes is the mission of the Home Health Club. The influence of the Club in the world is getting bigger and better every day. How can it be prevented when so many are boosting it along with good words and good deeds."

CRYING FOR HELP
Lots of It in Mount Joy But Daily Growing Less

The kidneys often cry for help. Not another organ in the whole body more delicately constructed; not one more important to health. The kidneys are the filters of the blood.

When they fail the blood becomes foul and poisonous.

There can be no health where there is poisoned blood.

Backache is one of the frequent indications of kidney trouble.

It is often the kidneys' cry for help. Heed it!

Read what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for overworked kidneys.

Read what Doan's have done for Mount Joy people.

Mrs. Frank Gastwirth, West Main street, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our family as far back as I can remember. My back used to pain and ache so I had to have it rubbed. My kidney became weak and bothered me on that account. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and certainly can say without a doubt, this medicine is the best I know of. Doan's gave me permanent results and I haven't had to use them in a long time."

KILL THOSE HENHOUSE PESTS

The louse and mite-infested hen is handicapped. It can not do its best at laying eggs, or gaining in weight. It can not utilize its feed to the best advantage. Clean and disinfect the poultry house. Use insect remedies freely. This will stop a waste of feed. The chickens will feel better. You will get more eggs as a result of the little extra trouble necessary. Thousands of sheep are ruthlessly killed every year by hogs. The monetary loss of more than a million dollars a year to sheep owners does not cover the most serious aspect of the damage. The fact that the dog menace keeps many farmers from engaging in the sheep business, even at times when there are urgent demands for more wool and meat is most serious result which may be attributed to sheep-killing dogs. Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture are urging efficient State legislation as one of the best ways to deal with the sheep-killing dog problem. Dog-proof fences also are described and advocated in a recent publication of the Department of Agriculture entitled with this subject, "The Sheep Killing Dog," Farmers' Bulletin 935.

That dogs are a real hindrance to the sheep industry is not only acclaimed by the testimony of thousands of sheep owners but is verified by actual conservative statistics. An investigation by the United States Department of Agriculture among sheep owners in 15 States east of the Rocky Mountains shows that out of a total of 6,836,492 sheep in the 502 counties reporting 34,686 were killed by dogs in one year—1913—and paid for by the counties. At the same time other farms in other States the total annual destruction of sheep by dogs would be 107,750 head. But these figures are based only upon the number actually paid for, and specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture says it is more than probable that the loss far exceeds this. It is known that many sheep are killed which are never reported to the county officials.

Sheep-killing dogs work both singly and in groups, but usually in twos or threes. They do not limit their attacks to the flocks of the immediate vicinity in which they roam, but travel for miles in all directions, spreading destruction in the flocks with which they come in contact. Because their work is so often done under cover of darkness it is almost impossible to catch them in the act of worrying sheep, hence they can seldom be positively identified. The ways in which different dogs attack and destroy sheep vary greatly. Some will kill one or two at a time in a flock, while others continue to attack until all the sheep are either destroyed or crippled. In many cases where large numbers are killed they are neither bitten nor worried, but simply chased until they die from exhaustion. After a dog has once formed a habit of killing sheep it seemingly becomes a mania with him and he is seldom, if ever, broken of the habit. Hence, once a dog has once formed a habit of killing sheep it is dangerous to other flocks.

No consideration should be given such dogs; they should be killed as soon as their habits are known. The desirability of a maximum increase in the number of sheep is generally admitted and steps are now being taken toward a rehabilitation of the sheep industry. But it is recognized that one of the most effective means of insuring the farmer a profit on sheep is to make and enforce laws against sheep killing dogs. Several States recently have passed laws which adequately protect the farmer's flock, but in most of the States the present dog laws fall in their purpose.

In the publication mentioned in a previous paragraph Federal specialists describe the need of uniform legislation and outline a suggested State dog law.

The dog rightfully holds a strong place in the minds and affections of men. The owner of a good dog finds in him a most faithful friend. But it sometimes happens that the dog most highly esteemed is also one that kills and worries the most sheep and is the most cunning in obscuring the evidence of his guilt. A well bred dog's habit of lying innocently asleep in the front yard during the day time is not proof that the same dog does not kill sheep at night. Because of the economic loss occasioned by the sheep killing dogs, and because such dogs bring the whole of their kind into bad repute, the true admirer and friend of this animal should help to further any steps likely to result in the limitation of the activity of these discrediting members of a noble race. One of the most practicable methods of accomplishing this result seems to be the placing upon dogs such tax as will reduce the number of superfluous ones and result in fewer being kept by persons who cannot or will not give them the attention necessary for the formation of habits and associations that lead to sheep killing.
