Browning Machine Gun Passes Tests

for Airplane Use
The Browning machine gun has successfully undergone a test to determine its value for use with aircraft. This is one of three types of craft. This is one of three types of machine guns with which the rate of fire can be so synchronized with the revolutions of the propeller of a tractor airplane that the gun can be fired by the pilot of a combat plane through the revolving blades.

Airplane propellers revolve at from 800 to 2,000 revolutions perminute. The machine gun is connected with the airplane engine by a mechanical or hydraulic device, and impulses from the crank shaft are transmitted to the machine gun. The rate of fire of the machine gun is constant and its fire is synchronized with the revolving propeller blades by "wasting" a certain percentage of maining impulses trip or pull the trigger so that the gun fires just at the fraction of the second when the propeller blades are clear of the line of fire.

The pilot The pilot operates the gun by means of a lever which controls the circuit and allows the impulses to trip the trigger.

Big Crowds See American Base Ball in London

As the latest wonder of the world As the latest wonder of the world London has taken to base ball," says a Committee on Public Information representative in London. "The English never before had much use for i our great game. They called it an exaggerated form of rounders and wondered what the noise was all about, but the American and Cana-is dian soldiers in England have been teducating them.

Thomas Burke, the short-story writer, reports a game in the London Star of May 27:

The match between the Army and Navy teams was my first glimpse of a pastime that has captivated a continent, and I can well understand its appeal to a modern temperament. Believe me, it's the good goods. And the crowd! I had heard and read much of base ball fans and their methods of rooting, but my conceptions were nothing near the real thing. The grandstands, crowded with megaphones and tossing hats and demoniac faces, would have made a superb subject for a lithograph by Sir Frank Bragwyn.

"The game got hold of me before the first pitched ball. The players in their hybrid costumes and huge gloves, the catcher in his gas mask, and the movements of the teams as they practiced runs shook me with excitement. Then the game began and the rooting began. In past years I have attended various foot ball matches in mining districts where the players came in for a certain amount of ragging, but they were church services compared with the furious abuse and hazing handed to any unfortunate who failed to play ball.

"There was, for example, an explosive, reverberating "A-h-h-h-h-h" which I have been practicing in my back yard ever since, but without once catching its true quality. You should have heard Admiral Sims, as college yell leader, when the Navy made a home-run hit, with his "Atta Boy; Oh, attaway to play ball," and when they got an error he sure handed the Navy theirs.

"Yes; I've got it. From now on I'm a fan. I'm going to see every base ball match played anywhere ear London. I shall never be able watch with excitement a cricket foot ball match after this; it'd be rooting and killing the umpire."

Gas Masks for Horses Are Being Sent to France
The Gas Defense Service is now manufacturing about 5,000 horse gas masks per day. These are being sent to France, and it is expected that within a short time every horse connected with the American Expeditionary Forces will be equipped with the new masks.

The Gas Defense Service has a completely equipped factory for the manufacture of the masks. In less than three weeks a building was selected and the factory was producing masks. The introduction of riveting machinery has done away with the heavy hand sewing of the frame which supports the masks on the faces of the horses.

The masks are so constructed that no metal or chemically impregnated parts can chafe the horse.
