PA. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Hunting Wild Fowl in Planes

Forbidden

The director of military aeronautics has forbidden the shooting of wild fowl with machine guns from airplanes and has directed that airplane flights along the Atlantic coast or at any place where migratory wild fowl may be found shall be conducted in such a manner as to interfere as little as possible with the habits and feeding of the wild fowl. Commanding officers are instructed to use every means to carry out the regulations and to bring to trial any offenders that may be guilty of breaking any of them. Complaints of the shooting of wild fowl with machine guns from airplanes were received some time ago by the Department of Agriculture from several places along the Atlantic coast. The attention of the War Department was called to the fact that such shooting was in violation of the Federal migratory bird law enacted last year to give effect to the treaty between the United States and Great Britain.

Gardens Will Be Profitable This Year

The home gardens is likely to prove a profitable investment of capital this year as it has for the past several seasons, in the opinion of the United States Department of Agriculture. The experience of the past few years has proved that persons who have sufficient land and spare time and who do their home gardening work intelligently and efficiently find it profitable. The relatively high prices of practically all foodstuffs tend to increase the saving effected, but the home garden should be planned with a view to meeting the family needs rather than of producing crops for sale on the market.

Growing Avocados in United States

Twenty-three varieties of avocados have been introduced into the United States from Mexico and are now being grown by the United States Department of Agriculture in California and Florida. Some of these give promise of successful cultivation in this country. To assist prospective avocado growers in the United States in growing this delicious fruit, sometimes erroneously called "alligator pear," the United States Department of Agriculture has recently published Bulletin 743, "The Avocado Guatemala." In the South American Republic every dooryard has a few avocado trees which furnish shade and fruit, and it has been reported as a staple in the diet of the natives than the banana. The Cargadores or common carriers of Guatemala make their midday meal of an avocado and a tortilla or cake made of corn meal. It is reported to be eaten by 20 to 30 per cent. of the fish of avocado oil.

Better Crops Pave Way for Stock

To establish "safe farming" in Pointe Coupee Parish, La., the local agricultural agent has worked out a systematic plan to improve crop yields and introduce modern stock raising methods. He has selected seed corn and the best methods of cultivation were given first attention. In the fall of 1917 the first concrete evidence was had of the success of this work when the first crop of corn of corn were shipped from the parish. In 1918 a seed-demonstration plot was grown and corn produced on the area won first place at the Southern Louisiana Fair. Through the agent's efforts nearly every farmer now has an alfalfa patch producing at the rate of nearly 5 tons an acre. During the past year the alfalfa acreage was increased more than 100 per cent. Under the agent's direction hundreds of pure bred and high-grade sires and dams have been imported, and native scrub cattle have given way to animals of quality. Hops and sheep husbandry has also been greatly improved, and now practically every farm family produces enough meat for its own use and many have a surplus for sale.

Florida County to Fight Ticks

Ten more dipping vats are to be constructed this spring in Washington County, Fla., where tick eradication work is progressing rapidly. Under the supervision of local county agents and Federal extension men. Six counties have thus far been released from tick quarantine in Florida.

Oklahoma County Out for Rabbits

Beaver County, Okla., started a seven day rabbit sale on January 27. Fifty prizes, ranging from $1 to $50, were to be awarded to the stockmen accounting for the largest numbers of scalps. The county agent reports that the sale has annually damage the local crops of wheat, grain, sorghum, Mexican beans, cantaloupes, and the like, to the amount of $50,000 to $75,000. Hunts and drives are held in localities where there is a good demand for them. The county pays a bounty of 3 cents a scalp in order to promote the extermination of the pests.

More Dairy Cows Go To Florida

If dairy cows publish a newspaper a large part of the society column would be taken up in time by notices of members of noted dairy families leaving their homes in the North to spend the winter in the sunny South. The fact is that thousands of dairy cows are being shipped into Southern States this winter, and it is probable that they will like their new homes so well that they will not return. A campaign is being conducted in Florida with the object of placing at least one dairy cow on every farm in the State, and if possible two or three. The Orange County agent has preached this policy to his county for the past few months and as a result, in one week recently three carloads of pure-bred Holstein and Jersey cattle were brought into the locality from the North. One car, however, was made up of South Carolina stock.

Hay Should Be Increased 25 Per Cent

A 25 per cent increase in the production of hay, in order to maintain and if possible to increase the supply of live stock, is recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. The production of hay in the United States in 1918 was only 90,000,000 tons, as compared with 98,000,000 in 1917, and 111,000,000 in 1916. The falling off was due to the unfavorable weather conditions being unfavorable for hay production and to plowing up meadow lands for other crops.

Europe Likes American Milk

European people have learned to like American dairy products. Exports of condensed milk to Europe rose from 16,000,000 pounds in 1914 to 53,000,000 pounds in 1918, and there were notable increases in exports of other dairy products. Much of this may be due to abnormal war demands, but the United States Department of Agriculture believes that there is both an opportunity and a tendency to expand in this direction over present requirements. A normal increase in dairying in this country, the department thinks, is fully justified, provided there is the necessary increase in feed crops.

Sugar Ample But Abnormally Distributed

The prospective production of sugar for the season of 1919 is about 188,000 short tons less than the annual average for the five years just before the war which, as compared with a total of 18,750,000 short tons of great significance, and the current crop is regarded by the United States Department of Agriculture as practically sufficient to meet a normal world consumption even if present stocks did not exist. Attention is called to the fact, however, that the world sugar supply is not normally distributed. There is a shortage in the beet-sugar production of Europe 50 per cent of the pre-war average, amounting to about 4,150,000 tons, while in the same time the cane sugar output has increased by 3,842,000 tons, and the beet sugar crop of the United States is 210,000 tons above the pre-war average, though the smallest since 1914. No considerable increase in beet sugar production is expected within the next 12 months, though it is expected ultimately to exceed that of pre-war times.

"Kaiser" Pea Changes Its Name

Farmers who want to buy quantities of the variety of field pea introduced several years ago by the United States Department of Agriculture from Germany, and then known as the "Kaiser" pea will save trouble by not using that name any more. These peas are now known as "McAdoo's," and they are as widely distributed through the Northwest as Liberty bonds, which caused the substitution in nomenclature.

Many Farmers Apply for Seed Loans

A large number of Montana and North Dakota farmers made application for seed grain loans from the fund provided by the President to aid farmers in drought-stricken areas. The Great Falls, Mont., office of the Seed Grain Loan of the United States Department of Agriculture reports up to January 18, applications from 1,585 Montana farmers in amounts totaling $590,720 and from Dakota farmers in amounts totaling $74,867. The Montana applicants represent an acreage of 118,144 and the North Dakota applicants an acreage of 14,974.

Will Combat Potato Blight in Maine

The finding of late blight in potato shipments from Maine by market inspectors of the United States Department of Agriculture will result in a special effort by extension forces to combat this disease in the potato growing districts of Maine this year. The department has selected and through spraying. In some cases the infection on the tubers is only slight, the average being from 5 to 15 per cent, but in one case inspected the loss amounted to 30 per cent. One of the Federal inspectors who recently visited the Monmouth County (N. J.) Farm Exchange found Maine seed potatoes stored there considerably infested with late blight. Extension specialists are recommending that seed stock be very carefully sorted to discard diseased tubers and every precaution exercised to prevent the spread of the disease by planting sound seed next spring.

Pure-Bred Sires Prove Their Worth

Wisconsin dairymen and farmers, desirous of increasing their profits and adding still greater honors to their already famous dairy State, have joined in a State-wide campaign to eliminate the scrub bull and use only pure-bred sires. The record made last year in the Brown County Cow-Testing Association typifies the merits of pure-bred bulls and illustrates why farmers and dairymen will not tolerate the scrub bull. In this association 12 cows qualified for a register of production. All of these cows were daughters of pure-bred sires, six of them being daughters of one sire. The average production of the association are headed by pure bred sires, while the five poorest herds are all headed by grade or scrub sires. The herds of those farmers who used pure-bred sires averaged 85 pounds more fat a cow than those using grade or scrub sires. Last year eight of the members purchased pure bred sires of known breeding to replace their scrubs.

Farm Bureaus Have Reading Circles

Recent reports from the West Virginia extension service indicate that any prejudice against "farm farming" which exists is fast losing ground in that State where last year 80 farmers' clubs with a membership of more than 1,600 farmers devoted the winter months to a definite study of some of their more difficult farm problems at reading circles held regularly throughout the season. These winter reading circles are becoming more popular in the State and fully 100 clubs with a membership of at least 2,500 farmers are pursuing some one of the several reading circles during the winter. The county agents are very active in this work, organizing farm bureaus and local community clubs and stimulating greater interest in reading circles in their localities. Subjects such as soil fertility, farm crops, animal husbandry, horticulture, and farm management are being studied.
