TO LOVERS OF THE LAWN BEAUTIFUL

For years my friends have been bringing their lawnmowers to me to be sharpened, and this work has increased that I found it necessary to change my methods. I have now installed the latest make "Ideal" Lawnmower/Grinder and with it am enabled to do this work accurately and put the cutting blades in as good condition as when the mower was new, giving the desired clearance behind the cutting edge, thus reducing the friction to a minimum, making mowing a pleasure instead of a drudge.

It is a well known fact that owing to their peculiar shape it is next to impossible to sharpen the blades with a file; and many a first-class mower has been ruined in the attempt. Resort has been made to emery sticks and emery dust, and while this method is a cheap one it is not desirable, as the clearance of the cutting blade is reduced, making more surface in contact with the lower bar. As the edges become dull the mower has to be adjusted very close so that it tears the grass instead of shearing it, at the same time making it run harder than ever. With my machine your old mower can be made to cut as well as a new one.

I also sharpen reaper knives, saws, shears, etc.

I solicit a share of your work. Charges always reasonable.

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK

By CARTER GLASS, Secretary of the Treasury.

"The Federal Reserve system today is the firm base from which the readjustment of after-war enterprises must make the start, just as it was the sure foundation against which the financial storms raged in vain during the entire period of the great world-war.

"For fifty years we clung to the most unscientific banking and currency system in the world. Five times within the thirty years preceding the passage of the Federal Reserve Act financial catastrophe came upon us to the very limit of apparent business prosperity and contentment. These disasters ensued from two fundamental defects of the old system, one an insidious bond-secured currency and the other an utterly inefficient reserve system.

"Under the old system we proceeded upon the assumption that the country always needed a volume of currency equal to its bonded indebtedness, and never at any time required less, whereas we frequently did need near as much as we were outstanding and just as often could have absorbed vastly more than was available.

"The business of the country was made to suffer by this rigid currency system in times of stirring development and enterprising activity. It could not begin to meet the commercial and industrial requirements of the country. The total capitalization of the national banks, under the old system, measured their full capacity to respond to the currency requirements of the country.

"Thus, in time of panic, such as that which convulsed the country in 1907, these banks found it impossible to utilize their gilt-edged, short-time commercial paper in exchange for currency wherewith to respond to the requirements of business. Practically all the banks were in the same desperate plight, every one, with rare exceptions, looking out for itself, with no other source of supply.

"The Federal Reserve Act revolutionized this wretched currency system. It substituted for a rigid bond-secured circulating medium, unresponsive at any time to the commercial requirements of the nation, a perfectly elastic currency, based on the sound, liquid commercial assets of the country, responsive at all times and to the fullest extent to every reasonable demand of legitimate enterprises.

"It is a currency which comes forth when required and is canceled when not needed. The amount is ample when business is active and only enough when business is lax. Every dollar of it is based on a stable commercial asset, whether of a mercantile, industrial or agricultural nature, fortified by a 40 per cent gold reserve, by the assets of a great banking system, by the double liability of member banks, and by the plighted faith of a government of a hundred million free citizens.

"The Federal Reserve Act corrected the old vicious bank reserve system by establishing regional reserve banks and making them, instead of private banks in the money centers, the custodians of the reserve funds of the United States; by making these regional banks, instead of private correspondent banks, the great redoubt agencies of the country; by requiring these regional banks to minister to commerce and industry rather than to the schemes of speculative adventure.

"Under the old regime we had been taught to believe that the balance of the country was dependent on the money centers. Under the new dispensation the fact was quickly revealed that the money centers are dependent on the balance of the country. Under the old system the country banks were subservient to the money centers, for only there could they resort for redoubt favors. Under the new system it is no longer a question of favor; it is purely a question of business.

"The whole startling contrast between the old starting and the new may be summed up in the single statement that in 1907, under the old system, the failure of two banks in New York precipitated the greatest financial panic that ever afflicted the nation, and the new system, the greatest war of recorded history failed to create a ripple of alarm in the banking community of the United States!

"In the panic of 1907 New York could not let a country bank have $50,000 of currency to meet the ordinary requirements of trade. In 1915 New York loaned two European nations $500,000,000 for the prosecution of war!

"Today, the United States has bought back from foreign nations in excess of $3,000,000,000 of American securities, has loaned foreign nations $11,000,000,000 for purposes of war, has floated on Government account $18,000,000,000 of Liberty Bonds and War Savings Certificates, not to mention the billions of dollars of Treasury certificates and industrial bonds issued in anticipation of the Liberty Loans.

"The twelve reserve banks alone have engaged in commercial redoubt operations approximating $1,500,000,000 and have made open market purchases amounting to $1,818,000,000. The regional banks hold a gold reserve of $2,100,000,000, an increase over last year of $402,000,000. Notwithstanding the splendid precision made for the tremendous military and commercial needs of the country, the system maintains today a gold reserve of 64 per cent behind its notes and credit issues."

AT MILLERSVILLE NORMAL SCHOOL

WEEKLY LETTER OF THE DOINGS AT THAT EDUCATIONAL INSTITUTION BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

The Normal literary society held its regular meeting on Friday, Feb. 28, 1919.

Miss Anna Foreman has returned to resume her studies at M. S. N. S. after spending a week at home on account of the illness of her mother.

The girls' M. S. N. S. team played the Strasburg team at home on Saturday, March 8. The game ended with a victory for Millersville. Score 38-3.

A Bird and Tree club has been formed in the Senior class under the direction of Dr. Roddy. The aim of this club is to make a complete study of all birds and trees. Many have joined it.

The boys' M. S. N. S. team journeyed to West Chester on March 8 to play their Normal school team. This seemed to be the best game of the season, being abrad, and resulted in a score of 32-27 in favor of Millersville.

The Page Literary society, at their meeting on March 7, had their installation of officers. They are President, Hiram Hummer; Secretary, Mabel Carl; Vice President, Robert LeVeque; Curators, Misses Sara Brennan and Frances Beatty.

We had with us on Thursday Professor Muir, who is president of the Bethlehem Normal. His purpose in visiting this institution was to find teachers eligible for this profession. He found many Seniors measuring up to standard. At the noon hour he entertained us by short readings in the Scotch dialect. A hearty applause showed the pleasure which he afforded us.

Miss Ellen Mumma spent the week-end at her home in Landisville. On Thursday morning, Feb. 27 the Millersville Normal received the sad news of the death of one of their most active and faithful members, Ruth Weist. She was a member of the Senior class and also the Page Society. The funeral was held on Saturday, March 1. Ruth's memory will be an inspiration to all who knew her.

The annual inter-society debate between the Page and Normal societies was given on Saturday, March 1. The question was resolved, "The Government should own and control the railroads after peace has been declared. The debaters on the Affirmative side were Misses Ruth Grigg, Rove Moby and Mr. Paul Burkholder; on the Negative side Misses Hilda Weaver, Lavina Samsel and Mr. Raymond Wallick. The spirit of the debate was excellent. The debaters expressed in a well developed manner many interesting and instructive points. The judges from Franklin and Marshall College decided in favor of the Negative. This was certainly a pleasing victory for the Page Society and they showed their appreciation to the debaters by their spirit and good wishes.

Entertained Returned Soldier
A reception was given in honor of a returned soldier of the Rainbow division, Carl J. Dyer, at the home of Mr. Ed. Hoffmaster on West Donegal street, on Tuesday evening. The evening was spent most enjoyably by all that were present. The following guests were in attendance: Carl J. Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hoffmaster, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hoffmaster, Misses Goldie Mumma, Mary and Annie Arndt, Katie Geib, Miriam Gahl, Messrs. Eli Shantz and Alpheus Rye, Mr. Carl J. Dyer. An appetizing with a bouquet of carnations.
