Joy Saturday afternoon, made the turn where you cross the creek, but he miscalculated his speed and the car ran up on the wall, and, for a moment, was not certain whether he was going over the top or not. Both the wheels on the right side of his new Overland were wrecked and he had to be towed home. Hard luck only. He was not injured. His pocketbook suffered somewhat, however.

There was a fairly good sized crowd present and not one regrets the visit to the theatre on this particular occasion.

The second pipe organ to be installed in a church in Mount Joy fell to the lot of the congregation of the Bethel of the Church of God, Rev. I. A. MacDannald, pastor. The dedication and opening services were held Sunday with morning, afternoon and evening exercises.

The organist Mrs. Jacob K. Stauffer presided and handled the new instrument with great ability. Rev. Updegraff, of Findlay college, Ohio, delivered two excellent and impressive sermons. Mr. H. C. Brunner spared neither time nor expense in decorating the interior of the church for the occasion. Six dozen call-lilies, carnations, ferns, palms, etc., were used to beautify and this work could not have been improved upon.

The organ is a two Manuel Pipe Organ made by the Mohler Organ Company, of Hagerstown, Md., and costs $3,000. Mr. H. C. Brunner collected $1,260. Mr. Edwin Bookmyer of Overbrook, Pa. $500 and the Chimes were donated by Mr. M. B. Hestand and wife at a cost of $510. The balance was donated by members of the congregation. The organ is finished in golden oak and the pipes are gold with blue decorations. A beautiful copper plate thereon states these facts and contains the names of all the contributors.

The decorating of the room was done by Mr. Fred Green, of Carlisle, Pa., and makes it one of the most beautiful rooms in the county. The platform was also finished in quartered oak to match the quartered oak in the new organ. The wood work was neatly varnished.

A new baptistry made of concrete, was installed to take the place of the old wooden one.

A new Bible was presented by Mr. M. C. Barnhart, of York, Pa., in memory of his father and mother, Israel and Lydia Barnhart.

A new push former on rods and posts of beautiful brass surrounds the choir platform.

The fine purple silk marker for the Bible and the plush cover for the same are the gift of Mr. B. W. Brown. The marker was made to order in Philadelphia.

The beautiful painting on the wall of the church at the door as you enter the main auditorium is "Christ the Consoler," painted by Downes and is the gift of Mr. H. C. Brunner, in memory of the departed of the congregation.

The painting, "The Baptism of Jesus," by John, is in memory of Rev. A. H. Long, D.D., a former pastor of the church and the "Gethsemane" picture on the other front of church is in memory of Rev. C. I. Brown, D.D., a former pastor and formerly president of Findlay College.

When the installation of this beautiful musical instrument was undertaken, the congregation readily realized that the cost, together with changes and improvements to the interior of the church would be about $5,000. The organ cost $3,000, which amount was raised by members of the congregation. The improvements cost $2,000. Over $1,100 of this amount was contributed by those present at the services Sunday and the balance had been collected prior to that time. This entire amount has already been paid and the congregation and pastor are to be highly complimented.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Sager of Kennett Square, are in town today.

The fowl was delivered alive and weighed only 10½ pounds. Witness tried unsuccessfully to see Mr. Ebersole to have the matter adjusted. ### LOCAL TOBACCO FIRM WINS

E. L. Nissly and Sons Given Verdict in United States District Court

On Saturday afternoon the United States District Court, Philadelphia, rendered a decision in favor of E. L. Nissly & Sons, tobacco packers, with extensive warehouses in Florin, in a case involving approximately $16,000. The plaintiff, Simon Saks, a naturalized Hollander, now of New York, before going to his native country in 1916, obtained an option on purchase for 700 cases of seed leaf tobacco cuttings from the defendant, the option to expire on April 1. On March 31 he sent his acceptance of the option by wireless from ship while returning to this country. Saks alleged that when tobacco advanced in price Nissly & Sons resold it before it could be shipped to him. The original purchaser then entered suit for the difference between his purchase price, 12½ cents per pound and 21 cents, the price obtained from the second purchase.

It was argued for the defendants that the contract provided for delivery before June 8, and that the plaintiff was notified that the tobacco would be resold if orders were not received for its removal before that date. B. F. Myers, represented the defendant; Messrs. Stern, of New York and Fox and Rothschild, of Philadelphia, the plaintiff.
