COAST TO COAST U. S. FOR LEAGUE

MILLIONS ACCLAIM WILSON AS HE SPEEDS ACROSS THE LAND.

FEW ASK FOR CHANGES

Majority Feel That President's Guidance Should Be Held—He Regards Pact As Sure to Come Soon.

(By Mt. Clemens News Bureau)

Aboard President Wilson's Special Train—From the Capital at Washington to the far Pacific coast the President of the United States has journeyed on the most unusual expedition ever undertaken by a chief executive of the nation.
To discuss national questions, many presidents have toured the land, but Mr. Wilson is laying before America a question which affects the whole world—the question of whether or not we are to join in the League of Nations; whether we are to forget our former isolation and share with the other peoples of the earth the responsibilities of maintaining civilization and preventing, as he says we can do, future warfare.

Between the capital and the coast the president made fifteen speeches and half a dozen brief talks. All of 100,000 fellow citizens listened to him. Several millions had the chance to see him, and apparently everyone wanted to see him, from those who thronged the streets of the cities and towns where he stopped, to those who came to the railroads or stood at little flag stations in remote places, knowing their only reward could be a fleeting glimpse and a wave of the hand.

He has met and talked to all types of citizens—to men big in the business, financial and professional worlds, to farmers and mechanical workers, to Indians and cowboys and foreign-born herdsmen and rangers, to soldiers and to mothers who lost soldier-sons in the late war.

What do they all tell him? Unanimously they say they want peace definitely settled, they want no more wars, they want the League of Nations, and most of the American people, it may be fairly said, tell the President they want the League just as it is, without the reservations or amendments which certain senators have insisted upon. The majority of citizens say to those who interview them on this tour:
"Woodrow Wilson guided us rightly before and during the war with Germany. We entered that war, everyone agrees, to end all wars. He says the league can do that. We want to do that, so let us keep on trusting him and get the league into operation as soon as possible. Forget politics."

Most Americans encountered on the tour have forgotten politics. Republican Governors and Mayors have introduced the President to his audience; the Major part of the local committees which have met him have been Republicans. They have all said: "We are nothing but Americans, Mr. President."

Mr. Wilson's arguments for the league, briefly summarized, are those: There can be no peace, either now or in the future, without it. There can only be a regrouping of nations and a new "Balance of Power," which is certain to lead to war. There can be no war in the future, with the league in existence, because no single nation would defy the united rest of mankind, and if it did, it could be brought to terms by an economic boycott, and without the use of arms.

There can be no reduction in the cost of living until the league is established, for nations will not go ahead with peace time production until they know that peace is definitely assured and that production of war material is no longer necessary.
There can be wonderful prosperity, with the league in existence, for relations of labor and capital all over the world will be made closer and more friendly, and the worker will receive a fairer share of what he produces.

These declarations of the president, logically and eloquently put, have left his hearers thinking and thinking deeply. And then Mr. Wilson has pointed out, the people themselves, as differentiated from senators and politicians, seem to want just what the president wants, which is America for leadership.

Quite as unusual as the purpose of the cross country tour is the manner in which it is being carried out and the completeness of the arrangements on the nine car train which is bearing the party.
At the rear is the private car Mayflower, occupied by the President and Mrs. Wilson. Next is a compartment car for the secretary Tumulty, Admiral Grayson, Mr. Wilson's Physician, four stenographers, the chief executive clerk and seven secret services men. Beyond are three compartment cars which house twenty-one correspondents, five movie men, and a telegraphic and a railroad expert. Then there is a dining, a club car, and two baggage cars, one of them converted into a business office. The train was exactly on time at every stop between Washington and the Coast.

FIRST "THRIFT RAID" BY AIRPLANE

Cape May county, New Jersey, was treated to its first bombing "raid" recently, when a friendly airplane circled above towns and hamlets, dropping Thrift literature upon the thousands who watched from below.

Chairman Robert Pierpont, of Wildwood, was the daring aviator who donned his leather helmet, put on his goggles, and told the pilot to whoop her up. That's a ninety-mile-an-hour way to sow the seeds of thrift throughout the country!

This isn't the sort of high-flying that usually ends with a flattened pocket-book. It shows, moreover, that among many other practical purposes, the utmost marvel of science may be used to further the sale of government Thrift and Savings Stamps.

LEADING EDUCATORS KEEN FOR THRIFT

School and College Heads in Favor Making it Definite Course of Study.

The corner-stone of future national thrift will be thrift study in the schools and colleges of America. The government is requesting all educational institutions to include thrift as a definite part of the curriculum and educational leaders are supporting this plan.

Four largely attended conferences were recently held in Pennsylvania at which school and college heads pledged co-operation. Regular studies in thrift and the providing of facilities in the schools for the purchase by students of government thrift securities were advocated. New Jersey has already put thrift study into practice and Delaware has sanctioned it. Such leading educators as J. George Becht, Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction; Dr. Henry H. Apple, President of Franklin and Marshall College, and city and county school superintendents of 47 Pennsylvania counties attended the recent conferences. Orrin Lester, Associate National Director of War Savings, Washington, D. C., addressed the schoolmen at Altoona, Williamsport, Scranton and Lancaster. Parochial as well as public schools were represented.

Dr. Bicht, as representative of the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction, gave assurance that the department would cooperate in every helpful way in promoting national thrift. Dr. Thomas E. Finegan, the new State Superintendent, has been urged by the Treasury Department to introduce thrift studies as a regular part of the Pennsylvania curriculum. The plan is to have thrift taught in graded courses of from one-half to one hour each week. Text books for teachers' use have been prepared by the government.

Associate National Director Lester in outlining the thrift plan for schools declared that they now have their greatest opportunity for rendering national service. Regarding the scope of the thrift movement, he said:
"Thrift is the people's campaign. The government is not simply trying to sell stamps and treasury savings certificates to raise funds. If it were only a question of raising money that could be done more quickly and with less trouble in other ways. The government is aiming to stamp thrift as a permanent habit into the lives of the American people. It is in the interest of and for the lasting benefit of the people."

"If we can teach thrift through our schools and colleges we will improve the financial condition of the American people and go far toward establishing permanent national prosperity. The government plan of teaching the American people the use of money—how to spend it—save it—invest it—is not a narrow thing. It is not bound down to the mere selling of government securities.
"There are two things for which we are arguing. First, thrift in its broadest principles ought to be taught in every school in America. It is for you to say how that teaching should be introduced, whether in the arithmetic course, in history, in English or in civics. But don't make the mistake of introducing it as an incidental course. Make it a positive course."
"Second, facilities ought to be provided in every school and college for the purchase of Thrift and Savings Stamps. And the aim in selling should be to create a normal demand for them, a desire of ownership, just like the desire for any other article purchased."

A sour soil won't digest the plant food in fertilizer and manure. Lime is the remedy.

MAKING THE MOST OF PEACE

Treasury Savings Division Shows Tell State Fair Crowds How to Insure Prosperity.

The public speaker's job of keeping the nation on edge for the successful prosecution of the war has been succeeded by the job of inducing the American people to make the utmost out of peace.

Public speakers are co-operating extensively for this purpose with the Savings Division of the United States Treasury Department. The Savings Division has adopted as its slogan "Work and Save," emphasizing the pursuits through which the nation will secure maximum peace-time returns in progress and prosperity.

State fairs in New Jersey, Delaware and Pennsylvania have been providing good publicity opportunities for the national thrift movement. About fifty big fairs are included in the schedule beginning in August and running up to October. Thrift posters, placards and leaflets have been and are being displayed and distributed at all fairs. Speakers have addressed large crowds and will continue to urge the "Work and Save" idea throughout the fair season.

When attending a fair, if you notice a Thrift speaker in action, give him a few minutes of your time. He will have something worthy of your attention and for your benefit. Accept all thrift literature tendered you and read it thoughtfully.

The thrift movement is not merely, as presumed by many people, a campaign for the raising of funds for the government. It is bigger and broader than that. It is for the present and future welfare of the American people. The fundamental principles are maximum production in industry, regular saving of money, wise spending and safe investment. The investment feature will provide the capital to finance business expansion which brings individual as well as national prosperity.

More than $88,000,000 will be collected as interest, this month, by investors in the Third Liberty Loan. If those who receive this money squander it, the effect will be felt in higher cost of living. Save your Liberty Loan interest and make it earn more interest. Invest it in government Savings Stamps.

The safest investments are government securities such as Thrift and Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates. They are being largely purchased by persons who are saving habit during the war, and by increasing number of investors convinced by the government's thrift propaganda.

THRIFT PRIZES FOR LETTER CARRIERS

Any impression that the thrift movement ended with the floating of the Victory Liberty Loan is a mistaken one. The government is still actively promoting the Savings habit, not merely for the raising of funds, but primarily for the benefit of the people at large.
Handsome medals have been provided by the Savings Division of the Philadelphia Federal Reserve District for award to three rural delivery carriers in each county who make the best government thrift sales records.

The competition is for the purpose of increasing public interest in Thrift and Savings Stamps and the new Treasury Savings Certificates which are offered by the government as absolutely safe and sure investments.
National savings are relied upon to furnish the capital with which to finance the great industrial expansion necessary to insure continued prosperity in the United States. Thrift and Savings Stamps and Treasury Savings Certificates furnish an easy method of saving in amounts of 25 cents, $5, $100 and $1000. Their full value and interest is guaranteed and they may be redeemed upon ten days' notice.

Do you know that owners of tuberculosis free herds consider their cattle worth from fifteen to twenty-five per cent. more than before the condition of their health was determined.

Conditions favorable and farm work made good strides. Seeding of wheat is in progress in the southern and central counties. Early planted corn ready to cut. Buckwheat doing well. Pastures and meadows in good condition.

A Rare Bargain

Here's one of the best properties I have offered for sale for some time, especially when condition and price are considered. Four years ago the late Horace Cox built this Bungalow for himself at Florin, and built it right. As it is too much house for his widow, she will dispose of it.

There are five rooms and bath on first floor, and three rooms and attic on second floor. Hot water heating plant, electric lights from cellar to attic, even in closets, two large cellars, one concreted, large porch, all Yale hardware used thruout building & positively in the best of condition. Not a more convenient home in this section. Beautiful lawn, large garden, chicken house, etc.

Trolley stops in front of house, one square to P. R. R. depot, 5 cent fare to Mount Joy.

Price on this beautiful home is far below what a similar home would cost today. Call, Phone or Write
