MIXED JAMAICA GINGER AND CIDER—LANDS IN JAIL

Jamaica ginger mixed with cider formed a concoction which not only was delightful to the taste of John Scott, of Salunga, but also landed him in the Lancaster police station, which has been quite deserted since prohibition is in effect. Scott, claiming he was sick, went to a drug store and procured the ginger. Then meeting friends with cider he mixed the two, to his immense temporary delight. He was discharged on Monday in Police Court by Alderman Mylin.

We Repeat Our Warning: Buy Overcoats Now

Somebody is going to "get left" on this Overcoat proposition if conditions are not bettered mighty quickly.

There won't be enough to go round unless long-delayed shipments come in very soon—and all advices point to the contrary. Naturally, you come into this House, and you see a big lot of Overcoats. Don't look like a scarcity, you exclaim. Not to the layman—but if he knew the volume of business still before us he would see it differently. Let him wait a couple more weeks and he WILL see it differently.

Buy Your Overcoat Now—then you've got nothing to think about.

We are not content with the announcement we made last week to this effect. The city man has been buying strongly, but the rural man, for some reason or other, has been delaying.
