

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

I never buy new window shades so long as the rollers are in good working order. Instead, when my shades become worn and soiled, I make new ones. I take two yards of white Indian head cloth (this is for the ordinary sized window) for each shade. The cloth I use is 36 inches wide, very durable, and lasts four years. I hem the bottom, starch stiff, and iron. Then I tack a roller, and I have a new shade better than the commercial variety. When soiled, I wash, starch, and iron again. Of course, they may be dyed any shade.

Wherever there are children or careless servants, there will be broken dishes. I have my share of them. I have had many souvenirs and keepsakes, glass, delicate china, and so on broken—things that I could not afford to, or would not throw away. I tried all sorts of bottled and caked cements, etc., but not one of them gave satisfaction, especially if the dish or other articles were afterward placed in hot water. I experimented until finally I found a mixture that gave absolute satisfaction. So now when a dish is broken I mix one-half ounce gum arabic with a teaspoonful of boiling milk, adding enough plaster of paris to make a paste. I have the broken pieces that are to be mended warm, then apply the paste with a soft brush. When set aside three or four days, either hot or cold water can be used on the dish with impunity.

Whenever I pack away woolen blankets and winter clothing, I keep away all musty odors by sprinkling them with this sweet-smelling mixture: One ounce each of powdered cinnamon, cloves, nutmeg, tonca beans, caraway anise. Add to this six ounces of powdered orris root. Then make little cheesecloth sachet bags, fill them with the mixture, and place in the folds of the blankets or clothing.

When doing dirty work I find that an old cloth apron saves much washing. They can be bought made up, but are usually made of white or small checked cloth and bound around with tape.

If you have the misfortune to spill ink on the floor or on cloth, dry up all the ink you can with waste cloth or blotting paper, then dampen the place with water and cover well with common baking soda. After letting it stand for two or three hours you will find that all traces of ink are gone.

Inside my pantry door I have two ordinary file hooks. On these I hang paper bags that I wish to save for future use, hanging them by the upper edge so there will be no hole in the bags. One hook is for the large bags, the other for the smaller ones. They are always ready for use, and take up little room.

Have your running casters put on my furniture that has to be moved often. Having them on the kitchen table has helped much in saving steps, as the table may be moved wherever needed at the time.

Try covering your kitchen table with zinc and see how much labor is saved. Zinc is not easily kept clean, but cooking vessels may be set on it without harm. If spots get on the zinc that water doesn't remove, use a little rose on them.

Never am bothered by having corks adhering to the glue, medicine or other bottles—I always rub the cork with vaseline or olive oil.

Keep a piece of sandpaper handy in the kitchen, and use it instead of a spoon or knife to remove burned food from enameled pans and kettles, and will not injure the enamel. Vinegar is good for cleaning white enamel vessels, and keeps them from getting a yellow color. Steel wool is good for minimum. Use the finest kind.

When silverware becomes tarnished, soak it in sour buttermilk for twenty-four hours, and it comes out looking new. This is fine also for zinc tin-jar tops when they get dingy. Always wash in warm soapsuds, and dry.

When pouring salt, pepper, and such shakers or holders, I use a piece of tape from the cut end of an envelope, cutting a hole in the corner; the envelope should be sealed up before the end is cut off. This makes a good emergency funnel for other things as well.

Find the graters easily cleaned if you use a stiff vegetable brush. These brushes are handy for a number of things.

Make a neat-appearing and serviceable waste-paper basket for the kitchen from a tall slat fruit basket stained a dull color. Also a waste can be made of same material covering with washable wall paper to match the walls of the room.

Never fail to add a few drops of lemon juice to the water with which my floor and woodwork are to be scrubbed. This makes the room smell like lemon, fresh from the woods.

Meeting Great Problems and Getting Great Results

We Have Been Told That There is as Much of a Tree

below ground as there is above it, and so it is if one is to build height: it is not possible with shallow foundations.

In constructing this building we had to dig far down and make wide provision for broad and heavy granite walls, two stories below ground and twelve more skyward.

There are secret facts in the history of buildings as well as in the nations' treaties and people's lives.

Unless trenched deep and well balanced, neither buildings nor citizens can safely rise to lofty heights.

There is daily work going on here upon the foundations of this business in the interest of its owners, of the city in which it is planted, and of the general public.

Women's Tricolette Dresses

PRICES $60 to $150

Novelty dresses, which means that very few of them are duplicates. Also, it means that they have many delightful features—bands of rich-colored embroidery, defining their square necks; fluted ruffles of ribbon outlining their panels; one embroidered with gold thread and another with self embroidery in blocks; while still others have festoons of beads or are gathered in at the foot. The weaves include besides the usual tricolette, the palette, a drawn-thread tricolette and a novel matelasse.

Colors are various shades of brown, taupes, grays, Copenhagen and navy blues, rust color and rose.

Prices are $60 to $150.

The Stole is a Much-Liked Fur Fashion for Spring

When they are made of the lighter-weight furs, the fashionable stoles are really most practical for Spring wear, for they afford just sufficient warmth without being bulky, and they are a smart finish to one's suit or costume.

Some of the new furs are quite broad, some are more medium width, some have pockets, and some have pointed, while others have rounded or square ends.

There is the lustrous deep, Hudson seal (died muskrat), the soft gray mink, the pretty natural gray squirrel, the much-liked Australian opossum, and the dark brown Kolinsky. They begin at $175 and go up to $350.

New Coats and Hats for CHILDREN

Between $12.75 and $22.50 there is an unusually good assortment of little Spring coats—coats of sturdy tweeds in Spring-like mixtures, of soft wool velours, of dark blue serges and other Spring fabrics in attractive colorings.

Usually the coats are simply made, in styles best suited to little girls and boys of two to six years, but there are coats suitable for play as well as coats for better wear in the collection. Some have linings throughout, too.

Staw hats to wear with the coats are in tailored styles, and are most often trimmed with ribbon bands and bows and go from $3 to $6 each.

Boy's Easter Suits of Blue Serge in Handsome Choice

For boys who need blue serge suits for Easter church occasions or for any formal wear we have ready a full and very excellent assortment, all moderately priced, considering their good materials, superior cut, tailoring and finish.

Especially good at the prices are the blue serge suits at $16.50 and $18. Suits of as good and reliable a kind are very scarce at these prices. We have others at $20, $22.50, $25, $30 and $35, with excellence in proportion.

We planned to have an exceptionally good collection of these suits for this Easter season and our plans worked out very well.

All are Norfolk-style suits, belted, some plain, others box pleated, all lined with alpaca.

In sizes for boys of 8 to 18 years.

Men Put on Winter Clothes Through Necessity But They Put on Spring Clothes With Joy

The joy a man feels in putting on new Spring clothes should never make him forget to make sure of the kind he puts on.

Our Men's Clothing Store is prepared with a fine selection of suits and overcoats of the kind that a man could buy with his eyes shut, feeling certain that he was getting all that his money can get him anywhere, and more than it can get him in many places. The value of an assertion depends upon what is back of it. The foregoing one is founded on fact.

The record and standing of this Men's Clothing Store are such that the only clothing it can afford to identify itself with in Spring, Summer, Autumn and Winter is the finest that can be had anywhere for the price.

We are satisfied that these Spring suits and overcoats are of that kind, and are not only willing, but eager to show that our satisfaction is not based on false ground, but on the sure foundation of actual superiority in fabrics, fashion, tailoring and finish. It is more important than ever that a man should be careful as to quality, and it all depends on the man.

For Spring overcoats, $45 to $75.

BED SPREADS OF INFINITE DAININESS
