MAKING A SURVEY OF SUSQUEHANNA

TO MAKE IT NAVIGABLE TO HARRISBURG WOULD RE-QUIRE THE ERECTION OF FIVE LARGE DAMS

The engineering party now engaged in making a survey of the Susquehanna river, with the object view of making the big stream navigable from Harrisburg to the mouth of the stream a distance of seventy miles, have made a complete survey of the stream from Harrisburg to the bay. They are now surveying back to Harrisburg, working out the details.

The engineering party is composed of W. G. Finch, Jr., in charge. Others in the party are I. E. Mather, C. W. Hersch, C. W. Hastings, A. J. Huff, Harry Voland and Harry Mc-Laughlin. They are employed by the War Department and are working from the U.S. Engineers' office at Baltimore, Md., which is in charge of Major F. C. Harrington. The latter with N. B. Keeler, electrical engineer, paid a visit to this section a few days ago and made an inspection of the river between Marietta and Co-

Construction of the Dams From the present plans the first dam contemplated will be located at Rock Run, five miles north of Perryville, where the river is from 4,000 to 4,500 feet wide. This dam would back the water to Conowingo, Md., and would be 45 feet high.

The second dam will be located at Conowingo with a head of 65 feet backing the water to Holtwood where there is a 65 foot dam constructed some years ago by the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. Some alterations would be required to the Holtwood dam and locks would have to be installed to admit of the passage of boats. This dam backs the water

The third dam would be built at Safe Harbor. The river at this point dam would be 70 feet. The Safe ticket. Harbor dam is expected to back the water a distance of twenty miles or more to the Pennsylvania railroad bridge at Scheck's Mills, several miles west of Marvetta.
