TOBACCO GROWERS MET YESTERDAY

In addition to the cash which is advanced to the grower on the security of his crop, he is also given a non-negotiable receipt.

H. H. Nissly, cashier of the Union National bank at Mount Joy, corroborated the explanation of both Mr. Reist and Mr. Strickler. He thought that the plan was safe and of a marked advantage to all concerned.

Mr. Nissly predicted "good times before next fall."

Must Succeed As Class
Whole-hearted co-operation was the big thought which J. C. Brubaker, of Lititz, president of the farm bureau, aimed to send home to the farmers in a sincere and spirited address.

"We must get into the movement whole-hearted," said Mr. Brubaker, "or we will lose." He plead for an aim which tends to elevate farmers as a class and not as individuals.

"Let's satisfy our minds that these men are on the right track," he continued, "and then go along with them." Mr. Brubaker believed that the plan of the Mount Joy Farm Products company deserved the support of the farmers and hoped for a spreading of the movement to other sections of Lancaster county.

Then the farm bureau head reminded the men in attendance at the meeting that there are four big and vital issues to every farmer in the land. They are standardization, specialization, organization and commercialization.

"Let's put our products on the market in a standard way" were his concluding words.

T. Warren Metzger, of the farm bureau had sent three of its members that the executive committee of the bureau had sent three of its members to meet with the officers of the Mt. Joy company and go over the plan in details.

"After they had met and placed all cards on the table," said Mr. Metzger, "the representatives of the bureau placed their stamp of approval on the scheme of cooperation."

John F. Weaver president of the Lancaster County Tobacco Growers association, cautioned the growers to remember that the success or failure of the venture depended entirely upon the measure of co-operation which they put into it.

Otto Olson, the tobacco expert in charge of the experiment station at Ephrata, thought that the plan would go a great way toward solving the market problem of tobacco and urged such companies in every town in the county.

H. C. Reinhold, of East Petersburg commuted favorably upon the idea with a prominent tobacco dealer who predicted that both the growers and packers would benefit by the movement.

Phares W. Baker of Landisville, cautioned the officers of the company to have a definite understanding with the growers relative to the grading of the crop which they bring to the warehouse.

Samuel E. Garber, one of the directors of the Mount Joy Farm Products company, is a licensed grader and sampler of tobacco.

John G. Reist, president of the concern, presided at the meeting yesterday afternoon and J. Clarence Reist, the secretary, acted in that capacity.

Trees Know Winter.
The great buds of the horse-chestnut have a most elaborate arrangement for the winter protection of the delicate parts within, says the American Forestry Magazine. The baby flower cluster is covered by the downy growth of the undeveloped leaves. The latter are surrounded by the tough hard scales and these are varnished over to keep out the water.

One Drawback.
"There are all kinds of ways to make a living," said the elderly capitalist.

"That's quite true," replied the club loafer, "but the trouble is that nearly all of them require some effort that is incompatible with sitting in an easy chair and watching the procession go by."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

To Give Timber "a Shot."
The best method of applying preservatives to timber is by the pressure process which is used by practically all large commercial companies, says the American Forestry Magazine of Washington. By this means the oil or mineral salt is forced deeply into the tissues of the wood, thus giving a thoroughness and permanence not otherwise attainable. There are various processes, but all use large and expensive apparatus by which vacuums and heavy pressure may be applied in large treating cylinders, which are usually six feet or more in diameter and a hundred feet or more in length.

Much Timber Decay.
It is estimated that eight billion feet of untreated structural timbers decay every year, says the American Forestry Association of Washington. If that whole amount were to be treated we would actually save about four billion feet of lumber every year. That is to say, it would render unnecessary the annual deforestation of some four hundred thousand acres of land. There could be no truer or more effective forest conservation, and every home builder who, by the use of preservatives, lengthens the life of his house or barn, performs an effective service to the cause of forestry.

Leprosy in Indians Rare.
Dr. A. Da Matta writes in Brazil-Medico (Rio de Janeiro) that in his 26 years of practice in Amazonas province he has seen but two of the Indians with leprosy. In prehistoric pottery figures from Peru there is no representation of any deformity suggesting leprosy, although representations of other deformities are common and none of the early explorers mention leprosy among the natives.

"Yes I've more Time for Myself Since I Got a Fordson"

$625 F. O. B. Detroit

The Fordson Tractor is taking much of the drudgery out of farm life; it is solving the labor problem; it is reducing the cost of preparing land by almost one half of what it was with horses; and it is saving one third of the farmer's time; and making farm life more attractive.

The Fordson will run your threshing machine—and at the most opportune time for you. It will operate the milking machines, saw your wood, fill your silo, pump the water, and take care of every kind of belt work—

And don't forget—it will plow six to eight acres in a ten hour day, handling two plows with ease.

Thus the Fordson is the ideal year-round tractor. It will pay for its fall and winter keep in many ways.

There's a big story to tell you about the Fordson—and a true one—come in and get the facts. Or, if you prefer, telephone or drop us a card and we will bring them to you.

THE QUESTION OF FURNITURE QUALITY

There are few things that quality effects so vitally as furniture.

Often things that people buy for personal wear and for home use are not always expected to last a long time, but this cannot be said about furniture. When you buy furniture you are buying something you expect to render you long services. It will if you buy it here, because here we take of quality first. All the furniture we buy must measure exactly up to requirements which make as to the manner of workmanship. And, after all, in long run, well-made furniture is the cheapest sort of furniture. We invite comparison, look around, compare quality and prices and then come here and see our vast assortment.
