COTTON AND WOOL

Substitute for Winter Fabric for Outdoor Wear.

Large Demand at Present Centers on Combination of Gray and Light, Fresh Scarlet.

Ratines, which are practically a homespun in cotton, receive their impetus this year from the fact that wool homespuns are fashionable.

It is interesting to note that those pieces which more nearly approach woolen fabrics in appearance sell most easily. Some one-piece goods departments which are featuring imported ratines, find the suiting pattern is going rapidly.

A check of about an inch and a half square is the most popular, the effect being that of a big checker board plaid with an uneven surface. Black, white and gray have great boldness, while just the opposite result comes from the combining of yellow and gray. But the largest demand centers on the combination of gray and a light, fresh scarlet.

Although many ratines are dyed in the most beautiful of colors, they lose in style as they approach gingham in character. This is because the ratine garment is not classed with the summer cottons so much as it is considered a cotton substitute for winter fabrics. It is thick flexible and can be finely tailored. It does not wrinkle and can be worn for a long period before losing its freshness. It can be dry cleaned instead of laundered.

These advantages place it in a class by itself as far as utility is concerned. As for style, a cotton that is heavy in weave is invariably smart for outdoor wear.

An importer of cotton fabrics has brought over ratines that are the exact counterpart of wool cloths in appearance. From English mills they are closely woven and so well dyed that the black is as true as in a good black silk. One, a black and white, cannot be distinguished at a distance from the conventional "temperament" mixture suiting in wool.

It has been estimated that a foreign ratine can be duplicated here with a third to a quarter reduction in costs.

THE RICH AFTERNOON DRESS

A charming afternoon dress in which the peasant sleeves give a pleasant and unique touch of blue crepe fabric, embroidered with steel beads on sleeves and skirt.

ORGANDIE USED AS TRIMMING

Black Combined With Lighter Colors; Decoration Rather More Tailored Than Usual.

Organdie trimmings, rather more colored than usual, are a feature of the spring mode. Black used with lighter colors, as yellow or white, comes in yard trimmings which have short rectangular tabs in irregular lengths attached to a banding so as to form a design. The pointed trimming with triangular sections on a band are seen varying from the trimming of similar shape of last season. In that this, too, is shown in black and another shade, affording a pleasing contrast.

None of the colors are light enough to make a decided contrast; medium blue, slightly on a Copenhagen shade is one combination with black that is attractive and suitable to darker dresses. These trims, known as "frangettes," are simple, depending for their charm on the contrast with the type material with which they are to be used.

For the Youthful,
Washable flannels in both white and colors are popular fabrics for dresses of the sport or severely tailored type for the younger generation, and a popular trimming for them is either crepe ribbon or a silk braid in contrasting color, which is used to bind all the edges.

"We Picked Up Seven Large Dead Rats First Morning Using Rat-Snap" So writes Mr. B. E. Carpenter, Woodbridge, N. J. "We lost 18 small chicks one night, killed by rats. Bought some RAT-SNAP and picked up 7 large dead rats next morning and in 2 weeks didn't see a single rat. RAT-SNAP is good and sure." Comes in cake ready for use. Three sizes, 35c, 65c, $1.25. Sold and guaranteed by H. S. Newcomer, W. D. Chandler and E. W. Garber, Mount Joy.

KEMP'S BALSAM
Pleasant to take Children like it

This striking sport costume is of white crepe faille and the jacket of scarab green, the contrast giving a stunning effect.

CLOTHES FOR LITTLE GIRLS

Dotted Swiss One of Favorite Materials; Care in Combination of Fabric Essential.

For the six to ten-year-old girl a very dainty, smart and practical dress is of red and white dotted swiss—bright red, dotted with white—trimmed with a crisp white organdie. The wide neck frill and the narrow ruffle that trim each outer sleeve are of organdie bound with swiss. Pockets, sleeves and front of the frock are trimmed with cluster of pearl buttons and a sash of wide black crepe ribbon finishes the frock at the waistline, a small bow of narrower ribbon appearing at the neck. The dress buttons in the back.

Dainty pipings and bindings, small tucks, handwork where possible, and care in the combinations of fabrics and colors, rather than radically new styles, are the points to be looked for in garments for the younger generation.

Wash dresses are by all odds the best things to choose for girls of twelve years or less, and each year sees these garments enjoying a longer season demand. They are no longer designed for summer wear only, but are worn the year through.

Ginghams, chambrays and tissues are in high favor at present, with saten, English pluit and pongee also very much approved. The figured saten and English prints come in a wide range of colors and patterns and really make very charming dresses both for children and grown-ups. Pongee is also a splendid choice if a good quality is purchased.

FASHION IN BRIEF

Palm Beach veils of Shetland silk are strong favorites just now.

Novel shoes of black patent leather have gray suede tops reaching a little above the ankle bone.

A frock of red velvet has an overskirt of brown net caught in a chou on one side at the waistline.

Vertical trimmings of fringe in self-color is solely responsible for the charm of a mauve crepe gown.

Poirot displays a three-piece suit of white romaine with a black quilted satin coat lined with tangerine taffeta.

Many of the evening gowns worn at Palm Beach this season are of white canton crepe beaded in yellow beads in an all-over design.

Black moire is to be one of the best selling materials for the one-piece costume this coming season. It is at its best when trimmed with black monkey fur.

Neckwear is made up in bold, splashy colors of linen rather than in sheer batiste and lace. The tendency for sport effects is probably causing this change.

Veils with small dots are preferred at the moment to the larger meshed ones with the chenille dots. The mesh is usually taffy or sand color with brown dots. Heima and putty are also good.

Season's Top Coats.
The wing or cape sleeve is featured in a good many of the season's top-coats. One smart model, made of plaid wool material in a heavy weave, had sleeves cut to flare from shoulder to lower edge and much longer than the arm. These sleeves were seamed together on the under arm to wrist length and below this they fell away from the arm to form a decided cape. The coat was full length, belted and finished at the front with a Tuxedo "revers."

Shoe Style.
Bands of black leather are stitched over a pair of brown satin shoes which fasten with black moire ribbon

THE QUESTION OF FURNITURE QUALITY

There are few things that quality effects so vitally as furniture. Often things that people buy for personal wear and for home use are not always expected to last a long time, but this cannot be said about furniture. Furniture you are buying something you expect to last for long service. It will if you buy it here, because here we think of quality first. All the furniture we buy must measure exact up to requirements which we make as to the manner of workmanship. And, after all, in the long run, well-made furniture is the cheapest sort of furniture to buy. We invite comparison, look around, compare qualities and prices and then come here and see our vast assortment.
