

WAS A BROKEN-DOWN WOMAN

When I Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Medicines

Donaldsonville, La.—"I write with pleasure to praise your medicine—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—which has done so much to restore my health. I was a broken-down woman until my husband brought me a bottle of your Vegetable Compound and one of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. I had been having pains every month and at intervals between, was weak and seemed to be smothering at times, but in a week I felt like another woman. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. It did me a lot of good too. I cannot praise your medicines too much and will be more than glad to recommend them to any woman who is suffering from female troubles. You may print my testimonial, as it is true."—Mrs. T. A. LANDRY, 612 Miss St., Donaldsonville, La.

Note Mrs. Landry's words—"as it is true." Every letter recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is genuine. It is a statement telling the merits of these medicines just as the women in your own neighborhood tell each other about them. For fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has sold on merit.

FOR OLD FRIENDSHIP'S SAKE

Old Mr. Brown Was Willing to Concede a Point to the Son of His Closest Friend.

Miss Millie Browne, the prettiest girl in the village, was blessed with a father who snubbed all young men who came to see her. One evening Charles Newton, a bashful young man, called. Mr. Browne and old Mr. Newton were close friends, but the boy had grown so rapidly that the old man did not recognize the visitor.

"It looks as if it might rain," the young fellow ventured, timidly.

"'Taint goin' to rain," was the gruff response. For about a quarter of an hour they sat in silence. Finally, the old man's curiosity got the better of him.

"Who are you?" he growled.

"Charles Newton, sir."

"What! Not old Tom Newton's son?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, well," said Mr. Browne, more kindly, "it may rain. It may rain."

TELEGRAPH POLE HIS ROOST

Tommy Climbed Up Without Trouble, but Getting Down Was Altogether Different Matter.

One afternoon a week or two ago writes a Prince Rupert (B. C.) reader to the Montreal Family Herald, a cat in a frolicsome mood climbed to the top of a telegraph pole 50 feet high on one of our main avenues. When Master Tom reached the top and saw the height he was from the ground, he took cold feet about returning to earth, and in spite of it being very windy and raining hard, he decided to stay up, which he did all that night. The cat's pitiful cries the following morning drew the attention of a lady living close by, who telephoned to the police station, and in a short time one of the municipal telephone linemen came along and rescued poor Tommy from his uncomfortable position. Although the cat was pretty well all in after the night of exposure, he soon recovered and has no doubt resolved to give telegraph poles a wide berth in the future.

Coincidence Almost Complete.

Two friends of mine, says a Newfoundland reader, were married May 24, 1878. The brides were both named Bessie. On April 1 the following year twins were born to both couples. The "H" twins were girls and the "M" twins boys. On the same date the following year, 1880, a boy was born to Mrs. H. and a girl to Mrs. M. On April 3, 1881, there came a girl to Mrs. H. and a boy to Mrs. M. After this there were several children, but the birthdays did not coincide. The two friends have died, leaving two widows and large families scattered over the world. Our reader says "I suppose, to carry the coincidence still further, I should have said that the twins married each other, but this never happened; the four twins are still single."—Exchange.

Brought His Companion Home.

Here is a dog story that is said to have happened a few weeks ago in Pickering, Ont. A family has two dogs, Jack, a large one, and Jill, a little one. Someone left the back gate open, and the dogs got out. Dogs are not allowed to run on the streets in Pickering. The family anxiously hunted for them, but could not find them. An hour or two later, Jack came trotting up the street carrying Jill in his mouth by the nape of the neck, as cats carry their kittens. Jill was yelping and kicking and trying to get away, but Jack held on until he had got her safely home, and the gate shut. Evidently Jill had been having a good time.

LONG AND SHORT OF IT.

"I wonder why it takes pay day so long to come around?"

"It only seems long when you're short, and the shorter you are the longer it seems."

Colt Minus a Leg.

There is an Albatross colt, about eight months old, that was born with only three legs. In spite of this handicap it is able to move about with perfect ease. There is no sign of a leg on the left shoulder and the colt is perfect in every other way.—Montreal Family Herald.

TEND TO STARVE THE BRAIN

Writer Warns of Pernicious Effects That May Be Exercised by the Stiff Collar.

We are once more threatened with the stiff, tight, pre-war collar. Doctors have repeatedly warned parents against the dangers of allowing their sons to wear collars of this type. It is pointed out that the wearing of high, stiff, tight collars retards the flow of blood to the brain, and thus starves the brain cells, says London Tit-Bits.

The result of this brain starvation is that the wearer becomes lethargic, and stupid and dull in his school work. His brain is not up to the tasks it is required to perform; he becomes indifferent to his studies, and will pore over his books in a semi-dazed manner. Often, too, he will take less interest in athletics, and this tends to reduce his vitality and mental activity.

Although the effect of wearing a high, stiff collar is not so noticeable in the case of an adult, it is not good for the general health, and also leads to colds.

The old-fashioned stiff collar with turned-down corners is still worn by Doctor Chamberlain, while for years Lloyd George has worn a kind of Gladstone collar, but without the gap at the throat.

Bernard Shaw has always denounced the starched collar as an abomination. Many other famous men, especially literary and artistic celebrities, have worn soft collars. Byron always wore a style of his own—soft, wide open.

JOYS ARE BUT TRANSITORY

Delicious Perfumes Will Not Gladden the Prisoner in Cleveland County Jail.

Attar of roses and sweet scents of Araby! There's an electric perfumer at the county jail. It casts all kinds of sweetness on the prison air. Just turn the button and the jail becomes a garden of roses or fragrant with the scent of orange blossoms.

The other day the atmosphere of the jail reflected the aroma of the forest cedar. It might have been Norway pine, sassafras, crab apple blossom, but it just happened that the perfumer was charged to dispense an aroma tinged with forest cedar.

The machine has possibilities, the sheriff believes. It might be employed to awaken the prisoners each morning with scents of violets and soothe them at breakfast with odors of ham, eggs, and country huts until one clever designer conceived the idea of making a lacework of fine linen tape and using it as a collar or sleeve trimming on dark silk dresses.

Novelties in coatings constitute a large proportion of the fall woolsens, as shown this far, and in all the lines which include fancy cloths there is a distinct emphasis on the sport idea. Fancy backs, whether they are plaid, block checked, or solid, are much in evidence, and for topcoats and sport capes there are the largest plaids, in black and white. Chin-chillas are shown plain, with plaids, and with fancy backs.

Extensive use is made of nub effects, both in the plain cloths and in the rather neutral grounds of the plaids. The pile fabrics are represented in great numbers, and there are some coatings with very smooth lustrous surfaces.

Kasha appears again for suits, and a number of novel French fabrics, which include interesting adaptations of perline, Chinchilla in sulking weight is a domestic offering, and both the broadcloths and poret twills are represented in new numbers.

In the tweeds there are very attractive color offerings for fall, and velours have strong representation in familiar and in new numbers. Many of the effects of the woven cloths are reproduced in the knitted, and those with the fleecy surfaces particularly are almost indistinguishable.

No colors stand out very prominently, and, as it is to be expected, most of the new colors are evolved in the red, brown and gray ranges.

Storing Furs. Furs should be well whipped and beaten, freed from all dust and lint before storing. If inadvertently a moth has been allowed to enter and make its nest, combing with a coarse, long-toothed comb will generally dislodge it. Lay the furs in a warm, bright place for a while, then wrap in newspaper and sprinkle well with black pepper, camphor or tobacco (the first preferred), and put them in a cedar chest if you have one; if not, put them in a cool, dark closet or other place where the moths will not penetrate.

Let Me List It. The fall season will soon be here and any person having real estate to dispose of should notify me by phone or card. I will list it free, advertise same and if not sold this work costs you nothing. What could be fairer? No matter where you're located, call phone or write, Jno. E. Schroll, Realtor, Mt. Joy.

CAPE-BACK FROCK

Style Employed as Means of Diversifying Straight Dress.

Hand Work Done on Material Characterizes Many of Present Season's Latest Models.

The cape-back is well liked this season, and is frequently employed as a means of diversifying the simple straight dress, observes a fashion authority. In afternoon and evening frocks the cape-back sleeve is often seen. It is worked out by means of a straight piece of lace, or the fabric from which the dress is made, that goes across the back in the form of a cape and extends along the length of the arms to the wrists, where it may be partly held in by means of a band.

An important model of this sort is of navy blue crepe marocain embroidered in a matching color.

Intricate detail in the form of hand work done on material characterizes ever so many of the new models. Tiny folds and appliques of self materials are used.

On many models of georgette and chiffon fine plaitings replace tucks as trimming. So fine are these plaits that at a distance the effect is that of cording. White chalk beads worked into fanciful designs are the means of ornamenting models of white silk or chiffon. A very unique trimming seen on one white frock consists of rows of iridescent bubbles. As the dress is dead white and the trimming shiny the contrast is effective.

Linon tapes have been widely taken up by dressmakers and milliners, but their use was confined to wash dresses and country hats until one clever designer conceived the idea of making a lacework of fine linen tape and using it as a collar or sleeve trimming on dark silk dresses.
