istin Stack, minister of home afs in the former cabinet of Eamonn dera, tells of some of the curious ssions regarding life in the ed States still prevailing among eans. "Among other curious 's is that every one who lives in ica, particularly in the Western , must be a cowboy. I find that people habitually refer to resiof the Far West as 'cowboys' in urative sense, and I suppose that nts for part of the notions that Stack recounted a story told to by a friend from Butte, Mont., was entertaining a visitor from Europe. The visitor expected to see the streets of Butte built and peopled along the lines shown in the erstwhile popular western movie, and his lest noticed that he seemed to be constantly on the lookout for some one or something. "Finally," Mr. Stack said, "the visitor turned to his host and asked: 'But where are all the cowboys?' "'Oh, they are never seen in the daytime,' the other replied. 'They are very shy. They only come out at nights, like the fairies."" And the visitor believed it. Mr. Stack claims.
