EDITORIAL

Trade at Home
Communities grow in proportion to the support given them by their residents. You cannot boost Mount Joy, Penna. by trading elsewhere or placing business in other localities that could be placed at home.

Folks who try to save pennies often times lose dollars. The home merchant is generally honest and offers honest values for your money. He can't afford to be otherwise. He depends for his living from the community and must give the community what it wants at a fair price.

When you are tempted to trade outside and purchase "just as good merchandise" at greatly reduced prices, you should think twice before buying. If you are "stung" by your home merchant he will no doubt be glad to make an adjustment. The out-of-town merchant is not personally interested in you. He is intent on selling you this once and probably does not expect to sell you again. He does not have to take great care in preserving your good will.

More than owing it to your community to trade at home, thus keeping your money at home, you should give the home merchant first opportunity to serve you, from a sound economic standpoint.

The Highest Tax
Within a short time the retail price of granulated cane sugar has risen from a level of about six cents to nine cents and eleven cents, or 50 per cent. Except for the brazen announcement that "because of a threatened shortage prices will be," and so on, no explanation is offered, and the commissions and fact-finding committees which are paid to keep a word to say.

Sugar is one of the most staple of foodstuffs. With an unlimited field of production, there is no danger of any shortage from natural causes. The charge has been made with truth that even in the midst of the World War, there was not a moment when the Sugar Trust could not have supplied the world needs at normal prices and made a handsome profit.

The hypocrisy of the Sugar Trust is exposed by the Oak (California) Observer, which quotes the announcement of the monopolists as stating that certain branches, including those on the Pacific, would not raise prices at present, but had no sugar for sale. It is declared that the warehouses in California are filled to capacity.

A tax levy approaching a fraction of the new sugar rate would cause a revolt powerful enough to retire an administration. Many families will pay a bigger tax on their sugar than the collector will ask on their homes.

The Age of Wonders
We are living in the age of wonders. Where ten years ago folks would scoff at a new idea and say, "Impossible," they now consider it seriously and admit "Well, that might be done. Nothing is really impossible."

Especially does this seem true of the wireless. The latest discovered use of wireless is its ability to make the deaf hear. Many people who have never heard any sound, have listened to music and the human voice for the first time in their lives, because the ear drums were affected by the finer vibrations of wireless when the ordinary tuning fork vibration made no impression.

In a most remarkable book, "A Dweller on Two Planets," dictated by Phyles, one who lived on this earth 12,000 years ago, through the medium of automatic writing, we learn that wireless development beyond our present conception is a civilization far superior to the generation of our day. In ancient times an instrument called the "natm" enabled one to see distant objects as they transpired and to see a face to face with friends, though thousands of miles separated their physical bodies.

It is about to rediscover this remarkable wireless mirror. At the same time, Edouard Belin, distinguished French scientist, is working on an invention which he calls "natm" photo device, that when perfected will equal the "natm" product of a forgotten civilization.

Nikola Tesla, American electrical wizard, is also experimenting along the same line, and says that the means of seeing by wireless as well as hearing can and will be accomplished within a short time.

Imagine sitting in your home and seeing some world event take place as vividly as if you were actually present, even to the hearing of the things that transpire. Distance is no barrier. The device will work at a distance of five thousand miles as easily as five miles. The vibrations will pass through the earth's surface unbroken.

This is a subject which would fill columns of writing and not cease in interest. We are not making another worn expression of the future possibilities of our day. "Will wonders never
