MANY LEAVE TELEPHONE RECEIVERS OFF HOOKS

In Nine Months More Than 250,000 People Forgot to Replace Them. During the first nine months of 1923, more than a quarter of a million receivers were left off the hooks by telephone subscribers in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware.

There are many ways in which telephone users are guilty of this negligence, but in each case the result is the same. On receiving no response to her "Number, please" the operator reports the line out of order. The "Howler" is then placed on the line at the central office end. This is a device which sends a shrill, whistling sound through the telephone of which the receiver has been left off the hook. If someone hears the noise and replaces the receiver the error is remedied.

If the howler fails to attract attention, service is discontinued from the telephone in order to put out the light before the operator. Then a repairman is sent to correct the error by placing the receiver on the hook or asking the subscriber to do so. An average of twenty minutes is required to correct each case. This approximately 84,000 hours of telephone service were lost by these subscribers because they forgot to hang up their receivers.

TWISTED TELEPHONE CORD CAUSES TROUBLE

The most common cause of telephone trouble is the twisted telephone cord. Many people have the mistaken idea that there is but one wire inside the insulation. As a matter of fact, the telephone cord is composed of many tiny copper wires made up into a single strand. A strand of small wires has been found to be much more satisfactory for the transmission of speech than a single wire would be.

It is a common occurrence for the telephone cord to become twisted. If the twists and knarls are not removed from the cord, the small wires will eventually break. Each time one of these wires breaks means that the efficiency of the telephone cord is impaired, and if the time should come that all of the wires become broken, then the entire cord would be worthless and service from that telephone cut off until the cord would be replaced.

The knots and twists should be removed from the cord by untwisting, hooking and pulling to straighten the cord oftentimes causes loose connections, and that puts your telephone out of service until a repairman can come out and repair the damage.

The telephone directories used in the Bell System have a total annual circulation of 25,000,000 copies, to print which requires more than 30,000 tons of paper.

TELEPHONE COMPANY SPENDING $30,000,000

Largest Construction Program Ever Attempted in Penna.

The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania is making a series of advertisements in which interesting figures are given relative to the enormous construction program in the company has planned for this year.

The constant demand for telephones has brought about the largest telephone construction program ever attempted in one year. At the beginning of this year the company planned to spend $25,000,000 for new facilities in Pennsylvania. But the rapidly increasing demand for telephones has made it necessary for the company to increase the amount to $30,000,000.

New buildings, together with large additions to other buildings, is one phase of the program. Ten millions of dollars' worth of new switchboards and 73,000 new telephones are to be installed. Half a million miles of wire, which is enough to reach the moon and back again with enough left over to wrap around the earth, will be used.

All this equipment is being added to meet the demand for telephone service in Pennsylvania. These figures show the great extent to which the Bell System in this State is growing.

FASHIONS CHANGING PETROVA ASSERTS

OLGA PETROVA, in Dashing Parisian Costume. CORSETS are absolutely essential to the woman who would follow the latest Paris styles, according to Olga Petrova, the noted dramatic actress and playwright, who recently returned to New York from Europe, where she spent the summer.

"The styles in Paris are ever changing," said Petrova. "One marked change is the general appearance of the silhouette. It would seem that corsets are to continue to hold sway. Paris says 'A waist line and a bust.' How shall this be achieved for the ordinary mortal without corsets?" Petrova is to appear in her new play, "Hurricane," this season.

MAYOR OF LYONS ADMIRES AMERICAN BUSINESS WOMEN. M. EDOUARD HERRIOTT, Mayor of Lyons, France, who arrived in this country recently and is making a speaking tour of the principal cities, has registered his admiration for the American business woman in a letter to the American Committee for Devastated France.

Through you I am venturing to offer my greetings to all those noble American women," said the letter to the American Committee, "who are earning their own living through their own efforts. I have the greatest admiration for the American woman in business. She is dignified, diligent and thrifty. I am certain those women will be of great aid in developing between our two peoples closer material, intellectual and moral relations. They seem to have inspired our French women, who, more and more, are helping and even replacing the men lost. One million or more of our people are dead in a population of 40,000,000 in an abyssal loss."
