HOW PA. COUNTIES GOT THEIR NAMES

names of Pennsylvania is as follows: Adams county is the namesake of John Adams, second president of the United States. The county was organized in the year 1800, and it is recorded that about the time its name was to be selected, Adams, with a train of attendants and a military escort, traversed the county on his way to the then new seat of government at Washington. It was this incident largely that determined the name of the county.

Allegheny is of Indian origin. According to the Indian tradition, a tribe known as the Alligewi, a people of gigantic form, inhabited the territory between the Allegheny Mountains and the Mississippi River. They were vanquished by the Iroquois and the Leni Lenape, abandoning the country to their fathers and fleeing to the southward, never to return.

Armstrong county is one of a large number that were organized in 1800. It bears the name of Colonel John Armstrong, who commanded the forces that defeated the Indians at Fort Kittanning in 1766. He also served in the Revolution under Washington.

Beaver was named in honor of a celebrated Indian chief, Tamaque, the equivalent of Beaver in English. Bedford was so named for the English Duke of Bedford.

Berks county derives its name from the fact that Admiral Penn the father of the founder of Pennsylvania, owned lands along the Thames in Berkshire, England, and for this reason the descendants of William Penn, in 1752, named the new county Berks.

Blair county perpetuates the name of Hon. John Blair, Jr., an early resident who was prominent in the affairs of Pennsylvania.

Bradford county was originally called Ontario. At the suggestion of John Bannister Gibson, who when a young man, served as a judge of the district, the county was given its present name, in honor of William Bradford, who served as attorney general during the second administration of President Washington.

Bucks, one of the three original counties, was in some of the early papers designated as Buckingham, the name of one of the important shires of England.

Butler was named for General Richard Butler, of Carlisle, Pa. He won distinction as a soldier under Gates at Saratoga, Washington at Monmouth, Wayne at Stony Point, and Lafayette at Yorktown. He lost his life while leading a division of General Mifflin's forces against the Indians in Ohio in 1791.

Cambria county numbered among its early settlers a colony of Welsh, and when the county was formed, they were instrumental in having it called Cambria, the ancient name of Wales, which meant a land of mountains.

Cameron county came into being in 1860, when Simon Cameron was a dominant figure in Pennsylvania politics. He was for a short time Secretary of War in Lincoln's cabinet, and served as ambassador to Russia and was a United States Senator. The county was named for him.

Carbon is one of the group of counties in which anthracite coal is found, and this mineral, largely composed of carbon, supplied the name of the county.

Centre county derives its name from the fact that it occupies the geographical center of the State.

Chester, the town, was first called Upland. When William Penn arrived, Penn replied that it should be called Chester, and that when the land should be divided into counties, one of them should be called by the same name.

Clarion county was organized in 1839. According to Day's Historical Collections of Pennsylvania, the name was applied to the locality from the "Clarionlike echoes coming from the defeated Indians of the 'Complanter' tribe at the Battle of Brady's Bend."

Clearfield is by some held to have received its name from a comparatively clear field in which the buffaloes roamed. Others attribute the clearing of the field to the Indians.

Clinton derives its name from De Witt Clinton, the builder of the Erie Canal and a governor of New York. Columbia is a name for whose origin we must go back to Christopher Columbus.

Crawford was named for Colonel William Crawford, a soldier of the Revolution. His home was in Berkeley county, Virginia. At the request of Washington, he led a force of men against the Indians of northern Ohio.

Dauphin county was named in honor of the help France had given the Colonies in their fight for independence. Dauphin county was named in honor of the heir to the French throne.

Delaware county, like the river and bay, commemorates the name of Lord De la Warr, who is reputed to have anchored in the Delaware Bay when on his way to Virginia in 1610.

Elk, as applied to the county, is a name that will be easily understood, even by those who are not faunal naturalists.

Erie is an Indian name which meant panther or wild cat. There was an ancient tribe on the borders of Lake Erie that were known by this name. They were conquered by the Iroquois.

Franklin county was formed in 1783, and it was named for General Lafayette.

Forest county took its name from the fact that a hundred years after other sections of the State were well populated, the territory of this section was still a primitive forest.

Franklin county, organized in 1784, is one of the numerous namesakes of Benjamin Franklin.

Fulton was named for Robert Fulton, the inventor of the steamboat, a native of Lancaster county, Pennsylvania.

Greene perpetuates the name of General Nathaniel Greene, one of the most famous of Revolutionary soldiers.

Huntingdon is a familiar English name. The county is said to have been christened in honor of the Countess of Huntingdon.

Indiana county is a fertile region and was well populated by Indians, from whom the name originated.

Jefferson county was formed in 1804, when Thomas Jefferson was President of the United States, and it bears his name.

Junata is an adoption of a word of the Iroquois Indians which meant standing stone. The name Junata, as applied to the river, was made famous about a century ago by the song called "The Blue Juniata."

Lackawanna is also an Indian name, signifying the meeting of two streams.

Lancaster, the fourth county to be established in the State, later furnished the territory out of which were carved a dozen other counties. It is the namesake of an English county.

Lawrence was formed in 1849. Many of the men of the county had participated in Perry's famous battle on Lake Erie. The name of Perry's flagship, the Lawrence, gave rise to the name of the county. This ship had been named in honor of Captain James Lawrence, the hero of the Chesapeake.

Lebanon derived its name from the far-famed Lebanon of the Bible. Lehigh is derived from the Indian word Lechau, meaning the forks. The name was first applied to the river Lehigh, a branch of the Delaware.

Luzerne, one of our most historic counties, is named for Chevalier de la Luzerne, ambassador from France to the United States. Luzerne formed a part of the territory which in the early history of Pennsylvania was settled and claimed by Connecticut.

These "invaders" organized a county which they called Westmoreland and which was attached to Litchfield county, Connecticut.

Lycoming is an Indian name which signified the place of a sandy lick.

McKean county was organized in 1804. Thomas McKean, who was born in Chester county, was then governor of the State, and the county bears his name. Prior to his election to the governorship, McKean was for twenty-two years chief justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania. He was a Scotch-Irishman and knew how to behave like one when the occasion demanded.

One of the stories preserved concerning him is that while he was presiding in court at Harrisburg, a mob outside disturbed him, and he ordered the sheriff to disperse them. The sheriff replied that he was not able to do so. "Then why do you not summon your posse?" ordered the judge. "I have summoned them but they are ineffectual," said the sheriff. "Then why do you not summon me?" asked McKean. "I do summon you," said the trembling officer. Not waiting to discard the robes of his office, the chief justice rushed out, seized a couple of rioters by the throat, and the rest beat a retreat.

Mercer county is named for a Revolutionary hero, General Hugh Mercer, who was born in Scotland. He was with Braddock in the expedition against the Indians in Pennsylvania. He commanded a brigade in the Revolution and was mortally wounded at the Battle of Princeton. Mercer county, New Jersey, is also named in his honor.

Mifflin county also perpetuates the name of a Revolutionary general. Thomas Mifflin, who was of Quaker parentage and was born in Philadelphia. He was long prominent in the political affairs of Pennsylvania and was the first governor under the Constitution of 1790.

Monroe is, of course, named for James Monroe, the fifth President of the United States.

Montgomery county is claimed by some authorities to have been named for General Richard Montgomery, who died at Quebec. Others assert the county was named for General John Montgomery, who commanded the Pennsylvania militia at Brandywine and Germantown.

Montour is a name that figures largely in the Indian affairs of Pennsylvania. One writer of reputation says the county was named for "Madam" Montour, widow of Roland Montour, a Seneca Indian chief. Another version has it that the county bears the name of Andrew Montour, who was partly of Indian blood.

Northampton was named after Northamptonshire, England.

Northumberland also took its name from an English county or shire.

Perry county was named in tribute to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, the hero of the naval exploit on Lake Erie.

Philadelphia is a Bible name meaning "Brotherly Love." Pike commemorates the name of (Turn to page four.)

Railroads The Promoters of Progress

THE HERALDS OF PROSPERITY

Did it ever occur to you how necessary the Pennsylvania Railroad System and other railroads are to your well being?

How essential to the convenience and comfort of yourself and family?

Did you ever stop to think of what the railroads have done to facilitate your business prosperity or enhance the development and growth of your community, in its relations to other sections of the country?

Did it ever occur to you, that every dollar expended in the purchase of transportation is an interest-paying investment, yielding abundant returns in better railroad service, greater prosperity, growth, and development of every interest?

As the irrigation of the ground makes fruitful the soil, so the success of the railroads radiates progress and prosperity.

What Your Co-operation Means

Railroads cannot expand alone. They require your help, your co-operation, your friendly attitude to attain the aims they have in view—to achieve the best results for the people—the highest type of transportation service.

Without your co-operation, progress is shackled and the best efforts of the railroad come to naught.

VELIE VALVE

THIS SEASON'S SMARTEST SEDAN $1795, at Factory

Velie's following among car owners is as distinctive as the car itself—an unusual class, desiring a little more in comfort and luxury than the ordinary; ready to pay a little more for a greater margin of surplus power, greater flexibility and ease of handling, less trouble risk, less upkeep worry; wanting a little more in the final details that mean unalloyed satisfaction.

Yet strangely enough, the Velie purchaser pays no more for these things. And in the instance of Velie closed cars, actually pays less.

This Velie 5-passenger Sedan, mounted on the Model 58 chassis and powered with the vibrationless, automatically lubricated Velie-built motor, is specially equipped down to the last detail of silvered flower vase, vanity case and smoking set.

Sixty per cent of all Velie cars are sold to Velie owners—a positive proof of Velie value.

Every time we sell a car we make a friend.
