DOPED CHERRIES USED IN MAKING ICE CREAM

Harrisburg, Pa.—Embalsmed cherries in ice cream is the latest doped concoction unearthed by the Bureau of Foods and Chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture. Samples of ice cream containing cherries impregnated with sulphur dioxide to preserve them from decay and to retain their firmness were collected in Philadelphia by Robert M. Simmers, general food agent in that city. Dealers selling the product found upon analysis to contain sulphur dioxide, will be prosecuted.

Field agents of the Department are now conducting a drive against adulterated summer drinks and foods in all sections of the State.
