OWL-LAFFS

O. W. L.
(On With Laughter)

When the electric lights ceased to burn for a short time Monday evening, there was one grand scramble for kerosene lamps, "tallow dips," etc., in fact any old thing that made light. One fellow struck a match and held it to what he thought was a tallow candle. He almost took a fit when the light began running about the room, under chairs, over the table, here and there. He held the lighted match to the cat's tail.

The Pennys made one grand mistake in its excursion to Niagara Falls Sunday. They took the crowd to Buffalo but many returned without seeing the falls as they were unable to get out of that city. It would have required all the trolley cars in Western New York state to convey that crowd.

For the information of those who couldn't get there we would say that the place is "still running."

Did you notice how many of our folks had golfitis this summer. Believe me I've learned a thing or two. I know that a golf bag on the front porch means unpulled weeds in the back yard.

A young man from Milton Grove saw a lady slip and fall on a concrete pavement on Main street. He said: "Did you fall lady?" She said: "No, you darned fool. I just sat down to look for four-leafed clovers."

A certain chap in Florin told the writer that the things which most interest his wife are the ones he talks about in his sleep. Guess that's true in many other families, too.

We know of a certain congregation in which there is a wicked lady. The pastor was told to try and reform her. He's been calling there regularly ever since in an effort to save her soul.

The Assistant Pastor
The minister raised his eyes from the notes of his sermon just in time to detect his boisterous young son in the gallery pelting the congregation with horse chestnuts. While the good man was preparing a severe frown of disapproval, the young hopeful cried out: "You 'tend to your preaching, daddy. I'll keep 'em awake!"

It looks as if Kid McCoy is due for the biggest knockout of his life. After a bird has been married nine times and kills the tenth one he is after, it is high time to put an end to his career.

One of the youngsters in one of our grades was late the other morning. The teacher asked the boy the reason and the little fellow said: "Why the sign down there below the school house said: 'School ahead, Go Slow!'"

It do beat all. The other day a fellow who was absent from town for nearly two years and never missed, walked up to me and said: "Well I'm back again."

Monday while talking to a kid at school in our Second Grade I was thoroughly convinced that a child is the only thing on earth that can be spoiled and yet is always fresh.

An East Donegal man told me this morning that any husband on that avenue is free to go and come when he pleases—if he doesn't mind seeing his wife pout.

A couple fellows in town were in a deuce of a fix yesterday. They had no kids of their own and couldn't borrow any to take to the county fair so they stayed at home—no excuse.

A fellow out in East Donegal told me that women are like epigrams—only some of them are true. My advice to him would be to get a new hired man.

Did you ever notice that right here in Mt. Joy people will forgive anything except a secret and a walking stick.

If only our scandal mongers would keep their tongues off some of our people. Seems as though they just can't shut up.

The Point of View
"Love," said the spinster, hugging tight

Her darlings—kittens three,
"Is what I have for every man,
And no man has for me."

"Love," said the married couple, as
A flatiron struck the door,
"Is that which, parting, leaves behind
What Sherman said of war."

"Love," said the college man, "that is,
True love, is rare indeed,
What care I, since it's outward forms
Fulfill my every need?"

"Love," said the winsome gold-digger,
"Is quite a twofold art,
Primarily, of pocketbooks,
And second, of the heart."

"Love," said the poet, who somehow,
On bread and water thrives,
"Is that which I can make to
Rhyme
With either 'move' or 'grove'."

"Love," said the baby soulfully,
As on his bib he spat,
"Concerns me not at all as yet,
And thank the Lord for that!"

ALABAMA PLANTER SOLVES A TENANT-FARMING PROBLEM

A serious problem associated with the tenant-farming system, that of maintaining soil fertility, is being solved by a Bullock County, Ala., planter in a way which is proving satisfactory to him and his tenants. Some years ago, through a visit to the county made by the movable school which is a feature of Alabama's extension work with negro farmers, this planter, T. R. Martin, became convinced that conditions on his plantation would be improved by having the tenant boys and girls given some of the practical training in farm practices which the extension service affords, in order to help carry out a plan for more diversified farming. He is, accordingly, paying the expenses of two of the tenant children in attending the extension short course at Tuskegee Institute, each summer. Another feature of his plan was extending his tenants sufficient to become part owners of a small dairy herd, some purebred pigs, and a flock of standard bred chickens. These are to be increased with the tenants' ability to feed and care for them. Tenants and owner share, also, in the proceeds of a small fruit and nut orchard which has been established, as well as in the regular farm crops.

The results of this plan are apparent in the well-kept appearance of the plantation and the flourishing crops in the fields. All of the tenants' indebtedness has been paid, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, and both tenants and land owner are receiving a comfortable living and fair profit from a plantation steadily improving in soil fertility and productiveness.

MOTOR TRUCKS BRING BULK OF CITIES' MILK SUPPLY

The motor truck is now the most important agency for transporting milk from producer to city distributor, according to the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture. The bureau has recently completed a survey of milk transportation for eight large cities and has found that the motor truck, which first entered the field in 1913, when most of the milk was transported by rail and the remaining portion by wagon, is now the major factor in the field.

Of the total amount of milk delivered to the cities investigated the amounts delivered by motor truck were as follows: Baltimore, 45 per cent; Philadelphia, 20 per cent; Cincinnati, 97 per cent; Detroit, 88 per cent; Milwaukee, 87 per cent; St. Paul and Minneapolis, 94 per cent; and Indianapolis, 94 per cent.

This form of transportation has been of great benefit in developing new milk-producing territory for growing cities and has given the farmers a more satisfactory means of delivering their product. The milk moves directly from the farmer's gate to the city's bottling plant instead of being delivered to the steam or electric railroad station, hauled by rail, and then delivered from the city terminal.

In the Baltimore area a farmer's cooperative trucking association has been organized with a city warehouse, where the milk trucks call for a return load of farmers' supplies.

A wool grower of Perrinton, Mich., reports to the United States Department of Agriculture that use of the Federal wool grades saved him $75 in a single sale. Many similar reports are being received by the department.

Christians Lead

Close to 600,000,000 people in the world are living under laws based on the Christian religion, and this is greater than the number of people following any other religious belief. There are about 138,000,000 Buddhists, 300,589,000 Confucians and Taoists of China, 221,825,000 Mohammedans, 211,000,000 Hindus and approximately 12,000,000 under Jewish belief.

MANAGES BASE BALL TEAM BY TELEPHONE

John McGraw, Manager of New York Giants, Directs Team From Office.

"MUGGSY" McGRAW.

Seated in his office which overlooks the field of play John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants Base Ball Team, recently directed his players to victory by telephone. Being physically disabled the manager had been prevented from accompanying his team to the field for quite some time. Determined to give his players the advice he knew they needed while they were playing on their home ground the master mind manager, as he is called in base ball circles, had a telephone line installed from his office to the players' bench in the dug out. This enabled the manager to direct his team both on the offense and defense. His orders were received at the other end of the line by his assistant, who, in turn, signalled them to the players.

COMMON LANGUAGE DUE LARGELY TO TELEPHONE

Engineers Report Language in the United States Largely Free From Dialects.

Travel, inter-locking business interests, and in no small measure the use of the telephone have created in the United States a common language remarkably free from dialects. It is reported by telephone engineers in an area of three million square miles, according to the same authority, communities are brought in closer contact with each other and common ideals and a single language result.

From the fruit growing sections of California to the Eastern market, from the grain raising lands of Kansas and the "hog" counties of Iowa to the markets of the east and south, business interests and necessary communication make the use and understanding of common terms a necessity.

In France, Germany and even in England, communities are isolated because there is no common means of communication as widespread as the use of the telephone here in America. Telephone amplifiers, microphones and miscellaneous telephone equipment in connection with both wire and wireless communication enable the smallest town or village to think and speak in the same terms as do other communities.

REPAIR MAN BATTLES WITH COPPERHEADS AND RATTLERS

The Spoils of War.

It was fought without the romance of the roll of the drum, but it was a great fight while it lasted. C. E. Edler, Bell Telephone Repairman of Williamsport, Pennsylvania, found these snakes when he was looking for trouble on the Lock Haven-Remova telephone line which passes through dense forests in central Pennsylvania. He gave battle with a club and gathered up five rattlers and three copperheads when the war was over.

Telephoning in Russia.
The telephone is said to be unpopular in Russia, and that is not to be wondered at. Fancy a man going into a booth and shouting:
"Hello! Is that you Dvissastkmar-tivich?"
"No, it's Zellemschoukanoff. Who is that speaking?"
"It's Seminschoukanoff. I want to know whether Diferomanskipoewelber is still stopping with Dvissastkivofjuwe-holszski?—Exchange.
