

Why Farmers are Turning to

In 1922 Chevrolet jumped from seventh to second place in sales of all cars, and to first place in sales of fully equipped modern cars.

Purchases by farmers were the chief factor in this remarkable development.

Farmers want automobiles not only of low first price, but also of low later cost for operation and maintenance.

They want room, comfort, and the ability to stand up under hard conditions.

They find that Chevrolet, fully equipped as sold, is the best value per dollar in the low-priced field, and neighbors tell them it costs less per mile to operate.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine
Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and Blood Purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions. All druggists. Circulars free. V. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio.

STATES VIEW FOR LEADERSHIP IN IMPROVING LIVESTOCK

Three States—Ohio, Kentucky and Virginia—are close contenders for first place in improving their livestock under the butter-sires plan, according to a report just issued by the United States Department of Agriculture. The statement shows the status of the work up to July 1, 1924.

During the three-months' period preceding this date 865 livestock owners placed their farms on a strictly purebred-sire basis, having signed pledges to breed their female animals of all kinds and classes only to purebred sires of good quality. This number compares favorably with 806 for the preceding quarter. The pledges are filed with the Department of Agriculture, which assists the signers by supplying helpful information on breeding, feeding, and management.

Since this method for hastening the improvement of livestock began, October 1, 1919, the number of farmer participants has reached a total of 14,369, owning well over a million and a half animals and fowls. Ohio holds first place in the list of States, with 2,874 participants. Kentucky and Virginia follow closely, with 2,589 and 2,258 members. Kentucky, which was in third place three months ago, made a gain of 471 members, displacing Virginia for second place and becoming a close contender for leadership.

While the friendly rivalry adds interest to the progress in livestock improvement, the chief result is the benefit which livestock owners and their communities receive. From an economic viewpoint the decision of farmers to use purebred sires means a rapid improvement of herds and flocks. Experience has demonstrated that well-bred animals obtained by the use of purebred sires have a utility value about 40 per cent greater than that of common stock.

Department records show that 35 counties now enjoy the distinction of having more than 100 persons who are breeding all classes of their stock—horses, cattle, swine, sheep, goats, and poultry—to purebred sires.

WEATHER BUREAU BELIEVES IN LIGHTNING RODS ON FARMS

For more than 30 years the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture has been an earnest advocate of the protection of buildings and other property against lightning by suitable rodding. The bureau is frequently called upon to advise inquirers concerning the proper methods and materials to be employed. Occasionally plans are drawn up in detail for the protection of Government structures. In 1910 the White House was rodded after plans and specifications prepared by Professor Marvin.

To determine the relative liability of farm buildings to fire damage by lightning, a study of lightning fire losses was made recently by the Weather Bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture. The average annual loss for the whole United States is a little over $12,000,000 which is probably a conservative figure. Illinois has the unenviable first place, with an average annual loss of over a million dollars, part of which may be attributed to industrial sections. Texas is next in order because of its large area and the presence of highly inflammable oil-storage tanks. New York is third, for reasons similar to those affecting Illinois.

In the highly developed agricultural States of the North heavy losses are suffered, especially through destructive cyclonic thunder-storms. If the inner number showing relative liability of farm buildings to damage is small in one State when compared with another having equally destructive and frequent thunder-storms, it is quite probable that protection against lightning is more general in the former State. Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa are States where it is estimated that somewhat more than half of the farm buildings are protected by rodding.

WEEKLY LETTER WRITTEN EXPRESSLY FOR THE BULLETIN BY DR. DAVID H. REEDER

FOOLISHNESS: Once in a while one is apparently justified in telling another how many kinds of a fool he is, but if one considers his own actions he is inclined to be cautious about what he says of the other fellow.

Dr. Lee says that we pay the miller to take the bran out of our wheat and give us lifeless starch out of which to make our bread. We then pay the doctor for telling us to eat bran and then we buy the bran from the miller at a high price.

Now I call that foolishness. Now look at our actions from another angle.

We buy an endless quantity of clothing and wear it on our bodies. This shuts out the most powerful therapeutic agent in the world, sunshine.

We also build costly houses of brick, stone and wood. We keep ourselves shut up in these, not only away from sunshine, but from good, pure, fresh air.

Again we go to the doctor and pay him for telling us to get out into the air and sunshine, to live in the open, take sunbaths, and use more water, externally, and internally. Now all doctors will not be so honest as to tell us to get out into the air and sunshine and eat our foods as nature produced them, but the number who will is rapidly increasing.

We grow delicious fruits that contain all of the natural elements required by our bodies to keep us in health and instead of eating it as nature provides it, we pay some one to denature and destroy the best of it and serve the rest cooked up to jam, jelly, preserves, stew or sauce and in order to cheat ourselves into thinking it tastes good we put into this cooked product another denatured food which we call sugar.

And sometimes we add cream in order to get back a portion of the delicious taste that was in it originally.

Many vegetables that are wholesome and nourishing as well as appetizing are valueless for food after being cooked. They must be highly seasoned in order to be eaten at all. The seasoning stimulates an unnatural appetite and we over-eat of the valueless, denatured food and are distressed with indigestion, yes, constipation, ulcers, and piles.

Again we go to the doctor and pay him to operate and try to cut out the pains, but it can't be done. They are there just the same and perhaps worse after the operation. Many times people have come or been brought to me after they had been told that their days were numbered, nothing more could be done, no medicine would cure them. A month, possibly six months, or a year at the longest, but the end was in sight.

Of course, I instantly agree about the medicine although now some physicians agree that the right food is the best medicine that can be prescribed.

Sometimes these patients tell me they can't eat a thing, everything causes such terrible distress but the doctor said that they must eat certain things to keep up their strength.

When I tell them to not eat anything for a week but fruit juices, they are ready to drop with horror. They are quite sure they will starve to death in much less than a week.

Some of them cheat and then they must pay for more service. When I get them to eat just what I tell them to and nothing else, I can usually work them back into normal health before the time set for the final act.

Three years ago a consultation of five physicians at a hospital agreed that a certain patient was through and gave three months as the limit. He was at work in two months and at the end of a year in better health than for twenty years. Yesterday I learned that he wanted to rent a farm. He was nothing but skin and bones but I started his treatment with a fast of two days, nothing but water, but lots of that. Fruit juices, a little milk and plenty of water for six weeks and he gained 25 pounds in the following six months.

Are you wise or foolish? Come over and take dinner sometimes, you won't go away hungry, but you may find it different.

Use Better Food
Over 31,000 negro farm homes used better selected food during 1923 as a result of cooperative extension work, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture. In many cases this was accomplished by growing more home garden products and keeping pigs, poultry, and dairy animals for which sufficient feed crops were produced on the farm.
