EDITORIAL

THE TOWN'S REPRESENTATIVE
Lots of men and some business men do not appreciate their local paper as a thing of value except to the owner of the paper, and that is where their vision needs doctoring. The newspaper travels, and is the town's only representative that is always working at the job.

CHRISTMAS ADVERTISING
This is a good time to make your plans for Christmas advertising. It is better to have your campaign mapped out in plenty of time. Advertising prepared ahead, with more thought and care as to layout, copy and illustrations will prove more satisfactory and resultful to the advertiser. Christmas displays of merchandise and advertising have an important place with December business and the more time given ahead for preparation the more interest and attention will be directed to your efforts.

LET'S FORGET IT
The election of 1924 has passed into history. A lot of people are pleased, some of them naturally are disappointed. The serious disappointments may be fewer than usual, because this year more than usually the result was pretty thoroughly forecast and even a lot of the politicians who were valiantly proclaiming their coming victory were not so sure down in their own hearts.

But now that the votes are cast and counted there is nothing the country needs quite so much as for the people to forget about politics and get back on the job. Election campaigns constitute a very considerable disturbance to the orderly progress of the country. Money invested in business is a cautious sort of a thing. Its owners want to know what they may expect in the way of laws and working conditions.

Most of us are glad that election day is over, and when we accumulate a little of that lost sleep we are going to get busy on our normal affairs and forget all about politics. Then business will start to improve.

COMMUNITY INTEREST
Figure as you will, you can't get away from the idea of community interest. We who constitute the local community are intensely dependent on one another. When we buy our merchandise from out-of-town concerns, we take that much business away from local business firms. If enough business is withdrawn from them, they'll eventually have to quit. Then Mt. Joy would shrivel up. Clerks and laborers and tradesmen would have to move away. That would directly affect the value of our homes and farms. Then, who would pay the taxes that support our public institutions, build and maintain our streets and roads and pay the interest on public indebtedness already incurred? Our self-interest, the safety of our property investments demand that we trade at home and support our local business men. If anyone thinks he can refute this argument, I will give a year's subscription to the Bulletin for a logical argument in favor of trading with the mail order house.

LOCAL ROAD QUESTION
The County Commissioners have turned over to the Supervisors of East Donegal township, the Mount Joy & Marietta turnpike. They have also promised to build a new bridge over the Donegal creek at Wolgemuth's Mill. The Supervisors claim it will cost $25,000 to put this road in proper shape and that by doing so it will most likely increase that township's road tax.

The Bulletin has always been an advocate of good roads and if that amount or more is required to put this particular road in good shape, it should be spent, even if the road tax is slightly increased, as every resident of the township and the traveling public would be greatly benefited.

There are however, many who are of the opinion that inasmuch as this thoroughfare has an excellent stone road bed, that by scarifying it, then apply fine stone and oil, it would put the road in excellent shape and at a very nominal cost. This could possibly be done without any increase in the tax rate.

The Bulletin's suggestion is: Make and maintain good roads and the people will cheerfully defray the expense.

Light Warns Motorists
An inland lighthouse has been erected on a dangerous hill between Birmingham and Manchester, England, for the guidance of automobiles.

REPORT ON ANALYSES OF 1136 FEEDS IS ISSUED

A report covering the work of the State Department of Agriculture in the analysis of feeds for 1923 has just been issued. Dr. James W. Kellogg, Chief Chemist, states that during the period covered by the report, registrations were received from 972 manufacturing and importing firms for 3,233 different brands and kinds of feeding stuffs for which 1,204 licenses were issued for sale. The special agents of the Bureau of Chemistry visited 326 cities and towns and 57 counties during the year and obtained from selling agents, 1,648 official samples which were forwarded to the Bureau. These samples which represented 1,336 different kinds and brands of feeding stuffs manufactured and placed on sale by 467 firms, were carefully analyzed. It was found that 12.3 per cent of these samples were deficient in either protein or fat.

A total of 110 prosecutions were reported against selling agents, the report states, because deficiencies and false statements of composition were found and because some failed to register brands of feeds.

This report gives the name and address of manufacturer or importer of each feed and brand name, also the actual results of the State analysis. Since Pennsylvania farmers buy approximately 1,000,000 tons of feeding stuffs valued at $50,000,000, the importance of having a check-up system which will keep manufacturers on the alert as to the proper mixing and branding of their products is evident. This complete report is sent to all manufacturers and dealers in feeding stuffs in Pennsylvania and to all farmers upon request.

UNSANITARY EQUIPMENT COSTS BUTCHER $175
A butcher in Pennsylvania was recently prosecuted and fined $175 for maintaining and using an unsanitary slaughter house. A field agent of the State Bureau of Animal Industry found this man slaughtering animals in an old dilapidated barn having no facilities for keeping it clean. About 30 head of stock were butchered each week and hauled to retail stores from the country by night.

Dr. W. S. Gimper, who is in charge of the State's Meat Hygiene Work, ordered this slaughter house closed. Upon receiving the order the guilty party apparently took it as a joke and moved to another premise, using an unsanitary basement of a barn for his butchering. Upon discovering this move, Dr. Gimper ordered the man prosecuted. Realizing that the State was in earnest and expected compliance with the orders, the butcher then built a slaughter house and equipped it in a sanitary way so that it passed the State inspection.

During the past three months Dr. Gimper states that a total of 250 slaughter houses in different parts of the State were found defective, unclean and unsanitary, many of these being in rural districts outside of city or town limits. At least 60 slaughter houses were ordered closed by the State during August and September because of the filthy condition found existing in them.

APPLE WEEK WIDELY OBSERVED IN PENNA.
From October 31 to November 6, apples were the most-talked-of fruit in the United States. These days were set aside as Apple Week and attention was centered upon the health value of this fruit in the daily menu.

While Apple Week is an annual national event, more interest is taken in it by Pennsylvania fruit growers, consumers, fruit distributors and other agencies this year than ever before. Local fruit associations in Chester, Lycoming, Luzerne and Cumberland Counties planned apple shows and other features of public interest.

The State Bureau of Markets cooperated with the Horticultural Association of Pennsylvania in getting information before the public on Pennsylvania's leading fruit. They tell which varieties of apples are best for the many different uses in cooking and baking, and in what months these varieties can be found on the market. It is also explained that apples are cheapest when purchased in quantity.

Hall's Catarrh Medicines
Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a "one and Blood Purifier," and it acts on the body, thus restoring the system to its normal health. It is a "one and all" remedy, and it is the only medicine that is apt to be able to get to the source of the trouble without being called to.

One Advantage of going out to dining room is that you are apt to be able to get to the source of the trouble without being called to.
