OUR CHRISTMAS TREE
Burgess John A. Bachman is again to be commended for the Christmas spirit shown by the erection and illumination of a very beautiful tree in our park. It surely shows the proper spirit and we feel certain that its presence has instilled many yuletide thoughts into the grownups and gladdened the hearts of many of our kiddies. We sincerely hope the practice of erecting a community tree will be continued for years to come.

NINETEEN TWENTY-FIVE
Tomorrow, Thursday, we start a new year. It is quite probable that many of you have made numerous New Year resolutions. Remember many of us make resolutions but how many of them are kept? It isn't a question of making them but breaking them. One made and kept is far better than dozens made and broken. Let us all try and do just a trifle better than we did last year and we feel certain the approaching New Year will be better to us.

KEEPING BUSINESS AT HOME
No town can be permanently prosperous in which the citizens and tradesmen dependent on each other do not patronize one another. The fact is, but little is ever made in going away to trade, if it can be secured at home, and often there is a loss. Show us a town in which the people make it a rule not to send away for anything they can get at home and we'll show you a town in which business is lively, and everybody buys, and trade is centered from abroad. Prices are low and the tradesmen patronize each other, having no suspicion that confidence will be abused. Let it be understood that when business men of any town get in the habit of sending abroad for purchases the business will languish. Confidence in each other how can they expect others to have confidence in them? No, that's not the way to build a town. Patronize each other, and keep your business at home.

HEALTH
There is too much ill health, too much catching of everything, including the lagrippe, that happens along. Not a deciple of the spiritualist or even the cult, "better and better," we are, however, a firm believer of not lying down in the road and letting the stylish or prevalent vehicle or disease run over us.

There are simple rules to follow. Have a clean conscience and open bowels. Take a bath at least twice a week, whether you need it or not. Let a little fresh air in the house. Do the Daily Dozen exercise every morning. Don't worry and remember your stomach needs about as much care as the furnace. When the latter is clogged up, you have gas, clinkers, soot and no heat. In such a case what do you do? Poke it, shake it up, stir it up, just physical. Did you ever stop to think that your stomach and bowels need poking, shaking up, get out the clinkers, "grip" and several more of these relations? Don't be so darn physically lazy and don't go gunning for "grip"—you might hit it.

THE CONSISTENT ADVERTISER GIVES BETTER VALUES
Advertising and turnover. These two go together in good store management. And turnover may be defined as a policy of merchandising which says, "Sell at a small profit, and carry as little merchandise over from year to year as possible."

This policy spells success for the merchant because it creates hundreds of satisfied customers. The merchant who follows it, advertises steadily. He must use advertising to move his merchandise off his shelves. And to get results from his advertising, he must offer the public better values and better lines of goods.

Thus the policy of advertising and getting rapid turnover benefits you, the buyer in two ways. It means lower prices.

It means more reasonable merchandise. You are not sold stuff that has been hanging around on shelves from the year before.

This makes it look as though there is no common sense back of the old idea that the advertiser puts the cost of his advertising in the price of the merchandise he sells.

The merchant who doesn't advertise is a fool. He is a fool because he is making a mistake. He is making a mistake because he is not getting the best of his advertising. He is not getting the best of his advertising because he is not advertising. He is not advertising because he is not getting the best of his advertising.

chandise when he needs it to buy new stocks. He suffers a real loss in carrying old stuff over from year to year, and this loss has to be made up by the public. So patronize the merchant who advertises. It pays.

HEREDITY AND THE DEAD BEAT

The will to pay is heredity, just as red hair or buck teeth. It is a common fallacy that a man pays his debts because he has money. This is not necessarily true. On the contrary, the matter of paying has only a remote relation to money.

On the one hand is your friend with abundance of money, who can not be ejected, threatened, beaten or gassed into paying the most ordinary debt.

On the other hand, the poor fellow without a visible dollar—you know him—who is Johnny on the invoice. Money has little to do with either case. It is the breed of the man.

The man who pays is the man who thinks in advance. He never flashes a roll; he does not drive a car and carry a mortgage at the same time; he does not hang up the butcher, or the grocer, for food that he can not afford to eat; he never lights the fire without wondering where the coal man gets off. He never throws the Bull, nor pitches the Bull, nor gives notes nor writes checks dated tomorrow, but when the bills come in, he is there with the coin of the realm. God bless him.

Sometimes he feels sore at the rest of us. He does not see that he gets on any better than the fellow who skins as he goes. Still he goes on and on, pays and pays, simply because it is in the breed.

And after all, the World does think a lot of his breed. The man who pays is the bulwark of Society. He is the balance wheel of civilization. He is the mainspring of Commerce. Business blesses him and he has honor among men for all time.
