

It Always Pays to Trade Where Quality Counts!

The ability to stretch a dollar is especially valuable nowadays. But housewives who trade with us have learned that their Money Goes Further than elsewhere when they buy all their groceries in our Stores.

But even more important than the money saved is the guarantee of quality and the assurance of absolute square-dealing that is yours with every article purchased at an American Store.

RHEEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Martin W. Shearer announce the birth of a pleasant-faced daughter Thursday morning, February 5.

Church of the Brethren will hold their mid-week Prayer meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Enterline this evening.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Smith, of Rheems, celebrated their silver wedding day last Wednesday, February 4, with a number of their immediate friends.

Amos C. Friday, an ex-school director of West Donegal Township, spent last Tuesday noon at the Rheems school house.

Friends of Miss Martha B. Shank, assistant post-mistress, Rheems, will be glad to know that she has resumed her duties in the post office, where she was absent for several months.

Morris K. Enterline, of the Rheems Garage, spent last Monday at Philadelphia, driving the entire distance in a touring car with some thrilling experience caused by the intense fog.

Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Longenecker, of near Rheems, breeders of canary birds, made a special delivery of one of their best songsters out of a group of sixty birds to Manheim, last Tuesday.

The Elizabethtown physicians use manure sleds, farm sleighs and various other means of transportation to reach their patients throughout the country districts, where the roads are snowbound.

The Rheems Sewing Circle will hold their monthly meeting this evening in their sewing room at the Church of the Brethren here, for the purpose of making garments for missionary distribution.

Andrew Heisey, farmer on the Green Tree farm near here, while working on the north side of the barn, slipped and fell on the ice. He dislocated his left shoulder and is managing his affairs with one arm in a sling.

Phares E. Grove, who has leased the Rheems Machine Shop, is installing a steam heating plant throughout the large building, which is equipped with machinery equal to any shop in the county. He expects to abandon the old stoves in the near future on account of fire hazard conditions.

J. E. Hockenberry, a native of Perry county, comes to the front as a champion tobacco farmer of Lancaster county, on the Christian L. Nissly farm, near here, tenanted by Norman E. Garber, an ex-county farm agent. Hockenberry has placed the Lancaster County Cup in the Elmer R. Kraybill general store show window, which he was awarded for having the best seed leaf tobacco on exhibit at the Harrisburg Farm Products Show, with an additional purse of money. The following awards are beautifully engraved on the cup: John Benzof, 1922; Homer Graybill, 1923; Harry K. Reifsnnyder, 1924; J. E. Hockenberry, 1925. Hockenberry claims an average of 28 oz. of wrappers per lathe on a number of accurate tests.
