PEDESTRIAN ALSO GUILTY It is generally agreed that the pedestrian has the right of way but this does not mean that he has a monopoly of it. On the contrary, he must give the motorist all that is the him. is due him. The pedestrian has the right to cross a congested thoroughfare, but he has no right to jepor-dize his own safety or the safety of others in doing so. There are safe ways in which he may cross and there are ways that are unsafe; if the pedestrian disregards the rules of safety then he becomes the object of criticism and blame and there are many pedestrians who are not as careful as they should be.
