The Produce and Live Stock Market

CORRECT INFORMATION FURNISHED WEEKLY BY THE PENNA. BUREAU OF MARKETS FOR THE BULLETIN

Egg Market Steady
The egg market in Philadelphia was steady today with extra firsts selling at 36c and firsts in new cases at 33c. Receipts on Tuesday totaled 4493 cases, of which number Pennsylvania furnished 316 cases, Virginia 508 and Maryland 92.

Delaware Grapes Weaker
Delaware grapes were plentiful on the Philadelphia market this morning and sold at lower prices, according to the State and Federal Bureau of Markets. These grapes are arriving in two, four and twelve quart baskets, with buyers showing a preference for the two and twelve quart containers. There were a few receipts of New Jersey grapes of poor quality, which moved very slowly. New Jersey peaches were in moderate supply and the market showed a stronger tendency, especially for the better grades. Receipts of Southern peaches were fully ample for the demand, as buyers were taking the nearby fruit. Apples continued weak and low, while Jersey cantaloupes moved well at advanced prices. Maryland cantaloupes were mostly of fair quality and sold at lower prices. Pennsylvania sweet corn was more plentiful and weaker. Tomatoes, peppers and lima beans were also weaker. The potato market was weaker and the demand slow.

Potato Shipments Lighter
Weekly shipments of potatoes during July averaged about 1,500 cars less than during the same period last year. Last week's output was only 600 cars less than the corresponding movement a year ago. Shipments were rapidly gaining in New Jersey, Long Island, Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado and Idaho, while the season was waning in Virginia, Missouri and Kansas. The total output for the week ending August 8 was 3,115 cars, including the first shipments from Maine, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. New Jersey took first place with 750 cars, and Minnesota ranked second.

Fewer Peaches Moving
California shippers are taking advantage of the lighter production in the East, and have forwarded about 60 per cent. more peaches than at the same time last year. With Georgia and Arkansas about finished and the movement from North Carolina, Tennessee and California decreasing, the week's output decreased rapidly to 2,865 cars, including the first shipments from Maine, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin. New Jersey took first place with 750 cars, and Minnesota ranked second.

Cantaloupe Market Improving
The cantaloupe market was stronger and the demand more active, according to the State and Federal Bureau of Markets. Moderate receipts and better quality stock were the chief strengthening factors. Peaches sold slowly and prices were a little lower. Pennsylvania and New Jersey sweet corn slumped under the heavy receipts. Tomatoes, lima beans and apples were weaker. Practically all of the New York State lettuce continued to arrive in poor condition and trading was only moderate at low prices. Western Iceberg lettuce sold slowly with a wide range in prices.

Potatoes on the Market
Pennsylvania round whites were quoted on the Baltimore market at $5.00 and long whites at $4.50 per sack. The Eastern markets were generally dull and weak, although supplies were only moderate. New Jersey U. S. No. 1 Cobblers ranged from $4.65 to $5.60 per sack. Similar stock sold at $4.50 f. o. b. The total shipments for the country on Wednesday amounted to 519 cars. Pennsylvania furnished 2, New Jersey 154, Long Island 74 and Minnesota 83.

Potato Market Slumps
The slump in the potato market was the main feature of the Philadelphia fruit and vegetable market during the past week, according to the State and Federal Bureau of Markets. The chief weakening factor was the increasing shipments of potatoes from the late crop producing sections of Pennsylvania, Maine, Michigan and Wisconsin. This slump was general in the other Eastern markets. The peach market was held steady, although the demand on Tuesday was slow. The market closed stronger with a more active demand. Offerings of apples have been heavy and the market weak, due partly to the hot weather. Lettuce has been largely of ordinary quality and has sold at low prices. Supplies of New Jersey green vegetables have been heavy. Lima beans, egg plants and tomatoes have been plentiful and weak.

Mill Feed Market Steady
The mill feed markets are steady with offerings of wheat feeds and corn feeds plentiful. Oil meals are rather scarce but new-crop offerings are increasing. The interior demand is light except in some sections of the Southwest. There is little speculative interest noted in the markets.

MARKET: Fairly active market, yards showing good clearance. Beef steers steady with Monday's decline of 25c to 40c lower than week ago. Medium grade Virginia grassers predominating, top $9.80, average weight 1220, several loads $9.25 to $9.50, bulk $7.75-8.50. Fat heifers showing weaker tendency. Cows, bulls and canners sold slow but about steady throughout the week. Stockers and feeders closed fairly active, receipts mostly medium grades to sell at $5.25-6.25, few up to $7.00 and above; practically no demand for feeders over 800 pounds. Calves steady, top vealers $13.50, few selects $13.75.

HOGS: No receipts since Monday's market. Receipts for Saturday's market: Cattle 41 cars; 20 Virginia; 7 Tenn.; 5 St. Paul; 2 North Caro.; 2 Chicago; 1 West Va.; 1 Kansas City; 1 Iowa, containing 1174 head; 8 head trucked in. Total cattle 1182, 43 calves.

Marketing Hints for Housewives
Fresh New Jersey peaches are now one of the most attractive "buys" on the market. August is the month, when this fruit is most plentiful and prices the lowest, according to the State and Federal Bureau of Markets. The Carman variety is one of the most abundant of the nearby peaches. It is a white fleshed peach of fair quality, and is desirable for spicing, for jams and jellies. The Champion is also plentiful and fully ripe is one of the sweetest peaches grown. Both this variety and the Carman belong to the semi-free stone class and separate from the stone more readily than the full cling.

Jersey freestone varieties have begun to appear on the Philadelphia market in moderate quantities but will be more plentiful later in the month. The Hiley Belle is the first of these to arrive. It resembles the Georgia Belle since it is white fleshed and free, but it usually matures about a week earlier. A little later the Elberta comes in to the market and this is the peach that is so popular for canning. The Hiley, the Belle and the Elberta are all very desirable for this purpose and it would be hard to say which is best. New Jersey peaches are usually marketed in five-eighth bushel baskets and housewives will find it economical to buy in this package for canning purposes.

Southern peaches are also on the market and the supply is fairly liberal. As the New Jersey season advances they are gradually being replaced by the homegrown stock. They are shipped in six basket crates or carriers. Each basket holds four carriers, with the number of peaches in the basket varying with the size. The dealer buys in the crate and retails the small baskets. This is an efficient method of marketing since he does not have to go to the expense of measuring and sorting each order. This enables him to handle them on a small margin of profit.

Apples are another fruit that New Jersey farmers are shipping. There is an abundant supply and a wide assortment of varieties and grades. Prices are unusually low for this season, especially on the smaller sizes. Grapes from Delaware are becoming more plentiful and wholesale prices are falling. Watermelons from North and South Carolina are abundant and sell very slowly on the Philadelphia wholesale market.

Poultry Y. M. C. A.
In order that the cockerels may be cared for properly there should be a "Y. M. C. A." on every farm. This "Y. M. C. A." for the "young bloods" of the flock should consist of a luxurious range with trees for shade, a fence for restraint, and good grass on which to feast.

Correct Data
Carefully measure or estimate yields and acreages at harvest time so that entries in farm records will more nearly tell the correct story at the end of the year.

Can Wheat Be Made To Pay
As long as farmers in Lancaster County grow wheat at all, their efforts should be directed to growing the best crop possible at the lowest cost and any experience in bettering the crop should be interesting.

The bits of truth in this article are not to be considered as boastful but are related in detail with the hope that others may benefit and that if they do so, they will be even more successful. J. F. Weaver, a native of Lancaster County, bought in April 1924, twelve acres of land along the old Philadelphia Pike, east of Lancaster. His neighbors freely advised him that the land was not good, had not been cared for for years and that farming it would prove a failure. It was too late in 1924 to do anything but try to clean up the place, though Mr. Weaver did succeed in breaking up and planting four acres in tobacco. He had no manure and depended entirely upon commercial fertilizer. The four acres were divided into nine plots, each receiving a different amount of fertilizer to which, for certain plots, an increased amount of Nitrate of Soda was added to bring the mixture up to 7-8-5 standard. This was done to learn the value of different amounts and the most profitable amount to use.

The result was a surprisingly fine crop of tobacco, going as high as 2140 pounds to the acre with an equivalent of 2000 pounds of the 7-8-5 was applied and dropping to 975 pounds per acre where no fertilizer at all was used. It is fair to assume that the difference, or 1165 pounds of tobacco, was produced by the fertilizer which cost about $40; in other words, that the fertilizer made tobacco at a cost of less than 3 1/2c per pound, making a nice profit on turning fertilizer into tobacco.

BAINBRIDGE

Mrs. Ella Wagner visited her daughter, Mrs. Kelly, at Highspire. Miss Dorothy Long is visiting her grandparents, at Hanover. Carl Smith, of Steelton, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Newton DeWeiss of Cleveland, Ohio, spent the week-end with friends. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Good have returned from a visit to Philadelphia and other places. Miss Margaret Beam, of Gettysburg, spent a few days with Mrs. B. F. Hamer.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Reigle, of Harrisburg, were in town several days, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Hawthorne. Conditions are brightening about the J. E. Baker Company quarries, and almost daily more men are being added to the pay roll. Thomas Moran has returned to his home in Philadelphia, after being on a visit, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Eddy several days. Mr. E. B. Toppin, who recently returned from Cuba, spent a few days here with his wife who is a guest in the home of Mr. Benj. Myers.

Many farmers are threshing their wheat in the fields, to save the handling of the grain and the straw twice. More excellent crops are being reported this year than for many years. The quality of the grain is good, it is of large size, and in many instances the yield will average from 23 to 32 bushels to the acre.
