MR. AND MRS. L. C. SPRECHER ON AN AUTOMOBILE TRIP TO CALIFORNIA AND OTHER WESTERN POINTS

We are in receipt of the following from Mr. L. C. Sprecher, west of town who with his wife and two sons are enjoying an extensive automobile trip since last June.

3203 ANDRITA St., Los Angeles, Calif.

My dear Editor:

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Sprecher and sons, Norman and Arthur, touring United States. As many of our eastern friends are desirous of knowing about our travels, we pen these words for their kind interest. Early in the morning of Tuesday, June 23, 1925, we left our home at Mount Joy, Penna. Traveled in Baby Grand Chevrolet touring car, carrying regular camp equipments. The first day we went 184 miles, going by way of Harrisburg, McCombsburg, Bedford and Kingsford. In crossing the Allegheny Mountains, we enjoyed the scenery. When we began to descend from the Summit I throttled the speed of my engine to five miles per hour. The purpose of this was for safety. On Thursday at 9:30 A. M. we were in Ohio state, visiting Paragon Cave and Museum. The road signs are shaped like the Ohio map. As we got into a heavy rain in the afternoon, which made it too wet to pitch our tent, and being in a rural district, we were fortunate to obtain shelter with Amish people. Next day we went to Findlay, Ohio, and called on John Longenecker, who formerly lived at our Mount Joy home. We attended church at Fort Wayne. Passing thru Goshen and South Bend, Indiana, we entered Illinois on the following Monday. Near Chicago Heights, we viewed a model stretch of Lincoln highway, double width. From Fulton, we crossed the Mississippi river into Lyons, Iowa. Belle Plaine, Dennis, Missouri Valley, and crossed the Missouri river. Entered Fremont, Nebraska, on July 4th. At their camp, we found Mrs. Benj. Mellinger and family, formerly of Witmer, Pa. After we passed Okmala, Missouri, we crossed over high plains. From Bushnell, Nebraska, we crossed into southeast Wyoming, reaching Cheyenne, on July 8th. Further on, we see large herds of cattle, and call to mind the Scripture which speaks of the cattle upon a thousand hills. Some distance north of Casper, we came to Hell's Half Face or Acre. Before the white man came to Wyoming, the Indians used this hole as a trap to drive the Buffalo into, and where they would capture them. Next, we entered the Caoyon Wind river (Turn to Page 6)

Local Doings Around Florin

PERIS MANUFACTURING CO. LEASES J. D. EASTON BUILDING—MRS. WM. WEIDMAN WAS 83 ON SUNDAY

The Peris Manufacturing Company, extensive local peanut roasters and shippers, and the most rapidly growing concern that has ever started in this town, has rented the entire frame building and basement of the John D. Easton property here, and will occupy same as soon as the owner can give them possession. To date this concern was located in the John Gull building, but they have outgrown these quarters. This spacious building, formerly the Florin Shirt factory, will enable Mr. Peris to expand his ever-increasing business to several times its present capacity. The plant will be located in the Easton building not later than the latter part of March.

Closing Out Sale

Having rented his building to the Peris Manufacturing Company, Mr. John D. Easton, who was extensively engaged in the antique furniture business, will close out his entire stock of new, second-hand and antique furniture at a public sale on Wednesday, March 17. Watch for full particulars about his sale in next week's Bulletin.

Mr. Easton will erect a frame building on the north side of his present building, which he will use as a barber shop and garage.

Deputy Coroner Dr. M. M. Denlinger, of Strasburg, conducted a complete investigation and, after receiving reports from three witnesses, absolved the driver, Francis Kegel, 59 Locust street, Lancaster, of all blame.

Harry, a first year pupil in the Landisville public school, was head of for home at the time of the accident. He lived with his parents on the F. N. Mumma farm on the outskirts of the borough.

According to Kegel, the lad ran swiftly from the north to the south side of Main street, apparently failing to see the approaching truck. Witnesses say the truck was not speeding.

The driver of the automobile struck the little boy and dashed him to the street. The machine passed over his body but none of the wheels are believed to have passed over the lad.

Giles B. Anas, 720 Reservoir street, and George Shoemaker, 732 West Walnut street, occupants of a car following Kegel's truck, told Coroner Denlinger the boy ran directly in front of the car.

Kegel picked up the victim and carried him into the restaurant of L. H. Mease and Son. In a few minutes, the father and Postmaster Shneck started for Lancaster with the boy.

It was found to have died from a fractured skull and broken jaw. Kegel later was released from all blame by the testimony of the two Lancaster witnesses to the accident.

In addition to his parents, Harry is survived by one brother.
