Suspicions About Wall Street Local Doings and How They Arise

WOULD-BE economists, political orators and the general

By FRANCIS H. SISSON, President
Trust Company Division, American Bankers Association

OULD-BE economists, political orators and the general public make frequent positive assertions about the funcs of Wall Street without any realization of what constitutes Wall Street or what purpose it serves. Lack of knowledge breeds suspicion. Yet it is not difficult to understand the nature and function of Wall Street. Let us set down a few of the facts which account for the existence and place of business in the very near future. The interior of the Lancaster Sanitary Milk Company's station there is being remodeled.

The P. R. carpenters relaid the crossing near Wolgemuth's Mill the crossing near Wolgemuth near the cont tions of Wall Street without any realization of what constitutes nation-wide, as well as international, services of Wall Street.

Wall Street is the natural evolution of the forces of trade and finance. It exists because there is imperative of the business community. Other need for it in the nation's business. Wise they would inevitably soon be If some cataclysm should destroy the withdrawn. financial district of New York we would see frantic efforts to re-establish it so that trade and industry could continue. If the production and marketing of agricultural and industrial commodities did not need such a financial institution, Wall Street would not exist.

We depend upon the farmer to help maintain the general level of prosperity. Wall Street as a money mar ket is called upon to finance the growth and marketing of farm crops. Many Wall Street bankers were born and raised on farms. If they were not thoroughly familiar with agricultural requirements, they could not hold their present positions in the financial world.

In the period of deflation, Wall Street suffered proportionately as much as the farmer. The aggregate osses of Wall Street banks mounted to a staggering sum. Wall Street is not an independent institution, but an organic part of the country's busines system, necessarily reflecting the ups and downs of business.

Four Billion Dollars An approximate estimate of the main items in Wall Street's financial operations in handling farm crops shows that New York banks for the purpose of agriculture put out commercial loans to the value of one biltion dollars, hold bankers' acceptances for another billion, buy commercial paper such as cattle and sheep loans for a third billion and carry balances of country banks for a fourth billion Thus Wall Street furnishes a $4,000, 000,000 river of credit annually to pro-
