EDITORIAL

RADIO ON THE FARM
According to estimates, one-fifth of farm homes in United States have radios. Twenty-five per cent of farmers prefer music; 24 per cent make use of weather and market reports. Forty-one per cent of far women prefer home-makers programs; 31 per cent, musical programs; 8 per cent, lectures; 3 per cent, church services; 1 per cent, garden and service talks. Ninety-five per cent of farmers consider their radio a utility as well as an amusement device, according to a recent survey, as radio brings them market reports 24 to 48 hours earlier than obtainable by other means.

LET'S "DOLL UP"
On Saturday, May 29 is the day set for the first annual reunion of the Legion of Postmen of Lancaster County. This reunion will be held in Mount Joy. On that day the dedication of our Legion Home here will also be held. These two attractions will bring many strangers to our town.

Now why not have Mount Joy look her very best on this occasion. Let's "doll up." Paint, white wash clean up about your premises. See what a big improvement it will make.
Let every visitor leave town that day under the impression that Mt. Joy is one of the nicest, cleanest and most progressive looking towns not only in the county but in the state.

A LESSON TO OTHERS
In the Cumberland county court at Carlisle last week, Harrison Hipple, of Bainbridge, was found guilty of shooting and killing Jacob Fry, also of that village, mistaking him for an animal.
The deliberate shooting of a man in mistake for anything is pure carelessness. No hunter should shoot at anything until he first sees what it is. There was a time when there were many of these kind of mishaps every hunting season, but since the new state laws have been made more careful.
This should be a lesson to all hunters who are in the habit of shooting at moving objects while in the woods. Don't shoot and then see what you've done. Look first and then, if you see proper, shoot.
We hope this will be ample warning.

THE SOOTY CHIMNEY IS DANGEROUS
Chimney sweeps long ago went out of fashion, in this country at least, which may be considered unfortunate at the present moment in view of the need for their services to overcome the effects of the hard coal burning.
This is especially true in the Northern Atlantic States where during the past winter, thousands of tons of soft coal were employed for the first time in heating appliances not designed for its use. Furnace-fire-boxes proved too small for proper combustion, as did chimneys, and the outcome was heavily sooted flues, plus numerous fires.
Cleaning smokepipes and flues at least once a year is decidedly necessary, even in regions habitually consuming hard coal. Unless they are looked after before the fall, there will be a regrettable number of chimney fires next winter. A rag-wrapped brick lowered inside of the chimney and scraped up and down will accomplish excellent results.
The smokepipe running from the furnace or stove to the chimney should be taken down and smartly rapped with a stick to dislodge its incrustations of soot. If it has become badly rusted it is dangerous and should be replaced.
Such carefulness will furnish its own reward in the form of better draft and much greater fire safety. Now is the time to act.

Disc Asparagus Bed

The disc harrow should be run over the asparagus bed before cutting season starts to loosen the soil and to help destroy the small weeds that will be starting at this time. Plantings, that have not yet reached cutting age, may not be fertilized early in the season, but for the older plantings it is preferable to wait to apply the commercial fertilizer until the close of the cutting season.
