An Interesting Western Trip

(From Page One)

Corn and oats are the main crops. Many cattle are also raised in Iowa. From Iowa, they went to Kansas, by way of Omaha, Mahattan, Abeline, visiting in different homes in Kansas, among them being in the home of Ira Zercher, formerly of Mt. Joy. The farmers were threshing wheat and oats in the vicinity of Abeline, and further West thousands of acres of wheat were being cut. They saw the combines at work, ruttng and threshing at the same time. It was very warm in Kansas, but they all enjoyed the visit there. They went through "as, by way of Russel and Salina, on to Colorado, through the Salt regions. They spent about four days in Colorado, camping at Colorado Springs, near the mountain. The scenery is wonderful in the Rocky Mountain region. They visited Pike's Peak, which is covered with snow. Its elevation is 14,189 feet. At Ester Park they saw snow-covered mountains and fields of beautiful flowers. They also visited the Garden of the Gods, the Petrified Forest, Cheyenne Canyons, Seven Falls, Thomas Canyon, and on to Love Land. The scene is all wonderful. From here they went to Denver, through Fort Collins to Cheyenne, Wyoming, and east thru Nebraska, where there are many beautiful, large trees, good roads, good farming land, and fine cattle and horses. They went east thru Nebraska on the Lincoln Highway, crossed river at Omaha to Iowa, spent some time there, and then came on east to Chicago, stopping again near Sterling. The heat was intense in Chicago, where they visited at the Brethren in Christ Mission, the Zoo Slaughter House, and Montgomery Ward and Company. They left Chicago for Michigan, driving for miles and miles around Lake Michigan, which is a lovely drive. The Great Lakes are also beautiful. They went north in Michigan, 12 miles beyond Gladwin, visiting in the home of Elder Henry Heisey, formerly of Pennsylvania, several days. Elder Heisey is engaged in mission work. They came home by way of Lansing, and Saginaw, to Detroit, crossed the St. Clair river to Canada. Canada is a lovely country with good roads. They visited in the home of L. Shoahts, stopped at Welland, and then came on to Niagara Falls. The falls are wonderful. They then came to Buffalo, on to Williamsport and Sunbury, crossed the river at Clark's Ferry, on to Harrisburg, and then home.

All enjoyed the trip of 6000 miles, and made the trip without an accident or sickness.

Particulars of A Soldier's Death

He was with me in two of the greatest battles of the war in Europe, one of which will go down in history as the beginning of the great end.

These fights were the second great battle of the Marne and the other was the battle of the Aire Argonne Forest.

The second battle in the Aire Argonne Forest is where Private Krall met his fate, on Hill No. 245 called Shen-Toudu. This famous hill which the second Battalion of the 111th. took from the Huns.

Under very violent Artillery and machine gun fire he was with me and although it was "after we had taken the hill and were making a stand to defend it.

The Germans made a counter attack which we repulsed after killing all Bochs that came over the top.

We made a wonderful record that morning.

Following this we sent out Patrols which Private Krall wanted to go with and while he was on his patrol he was fired upon by the German machine guns and instantly killed. Under cover of darkness I recovered his body and our Chaplain buried him in a good place and services were held.

Your dear boy was laid to rest with some of his soldier friends who were killed in the same battle. He gave his life for a good cause, but sometimes one thinks it is awfully hard to lose such men.

It not only hurts his dear parents but the Army as well, as I have been through every battle the 111th infantry has been in, you cannot begin to realize the responsibility that has been bestowed upon me as a Commander of this unit. I am ten years older for the time I have spent on the lines from June 28th, to Nov. 11, but I was always proud that I could be in command of a company of men the caliber of these and when I would lose one I could not replace him.

As a soldier Private Krall was excellent and was up for promotion. As a man among men he could not be more perfect. He was well liked by the whole company as well as his associates throughout the Regiment and I certainly thought a great deal of him.

Francis was a good Christian and his parents can feel proud of him. He will be remembered with the dead but his spirit will be in Heaven.

I hope you will appreciate what I have told you and I hope this letter reaches you soon.

Respectfully Yours,
J. C. Boden,
Commanding Officer Co. 111th. Inf.

Get Ready For An Old Time Winter

decline with resulting lower temperatures and revolutionary changes in the life of our planet."

The British expert, Sir Napier Shaw, while more cautious, still admits that solar radiation in the last two years indicate "radiation has been less and less each year."

An American scientist, Dr. Charles G. Abbot of the Smithsonian Institution, recently presented substantiation of the theory that the sun is a variab star meaning that this central fire of the planetary system does not glow with steady heat, but flickers from day to day, and year to year, and the vagaries of our weather must depend at least partly on the sun's variations. Dr. Abbot found new support for the theory in evidence produced by a new system he has devised for measuring and recording the changes in the energy reaching the earth from the sun.

Among the "revolutionary changes in the life of our planet" forecast by the aforementioned Scandinavian scientists are a fall of five degrees in the average temperature, movement of the polar ice cap further south to beset Atlantic steam-routes with icebergs and a much later spring, affecting the production and cost of food. It is predicted that the wheat-growing belt will have to move much nearer the equator, possibly hurting the prosperity of the United States.

It is stated furthermore that there never will be another heat wave in this country to compare with that of 1876. Not because of a decline in solar radiation, however. "Farmer" Dunn, famous U. S. weather forecaster, explains why.

"Since 1876 irrigation of the arid lands in the west has been gradually spreading. Today more than 19,000,000 acres of land are kept constantly moist. That process, combined with the intense heat of the southwest, has made a new breeding place for storms and so changed their development and movement that a modification of climatic conditions is becoming more and more apparent."

"Constantly expending irrigation has caused the seasons to gradually blend one into another so imperceptible as practically to have obliterated; atmospheric boundary lines. With but one or two exceptions our winters have become mild and our summers but a lingering spring."

Nissly Farms In E. Donegal Sold

is erected a two-story brick dwelling house and other outbuildings. The farm is tenanted by Lewis Shuman.

The sale, held under the direction of John Hertzler, trustee in bankruptcy of the Nisslys, was well attended. C. S. Frank was the auctioneer.

Three more properties fell under the auctioneer's hammer at the Florin Inn yesterday afternoon.

The "Hostetter Farm," situated in East Donegal township, and containing 90 acres, 83.2 perches, was purchased by Irvin Musser at $227.75 per acre. This price is the best yet received by the trustee of the estate for any of the farms sold.

Aside from a two story stone house, the property contains large number of outbuildings.

Henry W. Musser and Martin S. Musser, who trade in East Donegal township as Musser Brothers, purchased the "Charles Farm," adjoining the "Hostetter Farm," for $131 per acre. The farm contains 88 acres, 24 perches. A two story brick dwelling house and outbuildings are erected thereon.

Thirty-three acres of pasture land situated in Mt. Joy township, near Elizabethtown, were purchased by Walter A. Herr at $19.35 per acre. Auctioneer C. S. Frank officiated yesterday.

trustees, against Samuel H. Bijur and Nathan I. Bijur, surviving partners of Samuel H. Bijur and Nathan I. Bijur and Benno Rosenwald, a partnership, trading as E. Rosenwald and Brother.

E. Rosenwald and Brother bought of John Hertzler and Chas. F. Hager, as assignees of the Hoffmans, 119 cases of Gebhart wrappers and 256 cases of Gebhart wrappers, reswett, for $26,381.12. This tobacco, according to plaintiff belonged to the Hoffman Leaf Tobacco Company, at the time the deed of assignment was made.

After the tobacco was sold and delivered by the assignees to E. Rosenwald and Brother, at Dayton, Ohio; M. R. Hoffman notified E. Rosenwald and Brother not to pay for it, stating that the tobacco belonged to his brothers, B. F. Hoffman and N. R. Hoffman, and not to Assignee Hertzler and Hager.

Under these circumstances E. Rosenwald and Brother notified the trustees that they desired a guarantee, to insure them against a law suit, whereupon the trustees bring this action to obtain judgment against the defendants and have the amount sought in this suit, paid into court, pending settlement of the question of the original ownership of the tobacco.

Base Ball Notes During the Week

LOCALS BLEW IN THE SEVENTH AND VICTRIX SCORED AN EASY VICTORY OVER MOUNT JOY 11 TO 7

Coming from behind in a strong batting attack, the Victrix A. A. turned defeat into victory, and handed the Mt. Joy team an 11 to 7 lacing on the Steel Products diamond at Lancaster.

Trailng by two runs, the Victrix team launched an attack in the fifth inning that could not be stopped before seven counters had slipped across the plate.

Hitting the ball hard, the Victrix team was not to be halted in their dash for honors. Throughout the entire fray they had been crashing out base blows at frequent intervals, and they totaled seventeen when festivities halted. In that seventh, they were able to bunch their hits when they most needed them.

The Mt. Joy team were likewise hitting the ball hard, but they could not compare with the attack of the locals. They could collect but twelve hits.
