OWL-LAFFS

O. W. L.
 (On With Laughter)

A young chap out at Donegal told me that usually when a fellow lights a match to look into the gas tank to see if he has any gas, he usually finds that he has.

A certain woman in town told her neighbor that she bought such a very cheap piano. The lady asked her how much she paid and she said $3.00 a month. Then the lady said: "For how many months?" and the first lady replied: "Oh! I forgot to ask them that."

They tell me red-headed women make the good wives. Well I can't vouch for that but I do know that some of them at least make their husbands be good.

This is the best smoker I ever attended said Levi Dillinger as he watched a recent barn go up in smoke.

A fellow at Florin told me that there are two terrible tasks he'd like to overcome. Getting up in the morning and getting up in the world.

If you count the street corner loafers nowadays, the nation's standing army is sure getting large.

A fellow here asked his girl if she would marry him, and she said "No." Then he said: "Well for heavens sake don't tell Mabel that I asked you first."

More people choke by trying to talk and eat at the same time than for any other reason.

There's a certain business man who is in a heck of a fix. His wife has a baby girl and for the last two weeks he has had this sign in his window: "Boy Wanted."

So long as a fellow is holding his own he doesn't need a doctor but, Fred Baker says if he's caught holding some other fellow's own he's apt to need a surgeon.

They tell me that a Maytown fiddler claims he can extinguish a fire by fiddling. That may be true because when I heard him fiddle I wanted to go out.

Loud speakers may be all right but I know a man on Mt. Joy street who doesn't need one.

A Union Square shiek said to his girl: "You are the breath of my life." She replied: "It's a wonder you wouldn't hold your breath a little."

His friends here sent a recently married man the following letter: You are now entering the State of Matrimony.

Proceed with due care. Detour from all arguments as much as possible. The State of Matrimony has stretches of smooth going entirely free from jolts and jars, but also many rough spots. Go slow over these or you may get ditched. The State of Matrimony is strewn with many wrecks.

Don't try to hit the high spots as you did in the Single State—the two States are divided by a gold band. You may have tooted a loud horn in the Single State, but when the gold band comes your wife is the leader. If you hit the high spots she will put you out of the organization, and you will play a solo part before the Court of Alimony.

Love is the best fuel to use in the State of Matrimony. Don't be afraid of using too much. It can't be done. But go light on the gas. It gets tiresome and if you use too much she will dim your lights!

The aviator's wife was taking her first trip with her husband in his airship. "Wait a moment, George" she said. "I'm afraid we will have to go down again." "What's wrong?" asked the husband.

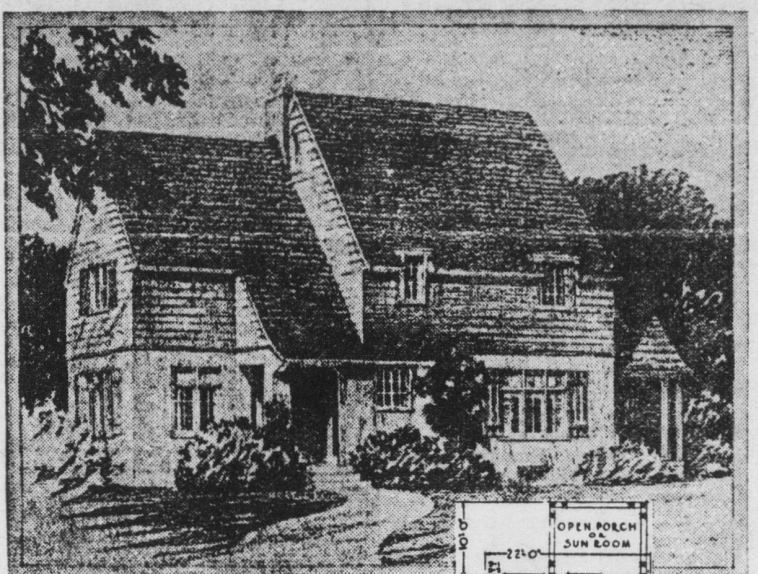

"I believe I have dropped one of the pearl buttons off my jacket. I think I can see it glistening on the ground." "Keep your seat my dear," said the aviator. "That's a lake."

At six o'clock she laid out his dress suit, shirt and studs. He did not appear. At eleven o'clock she laid out his pajamas. He didn't turn up. At three o'clock he came home. And then she laid him out.

Sunday I took a little auto ride and after following a flivver for several miles, I pulled up beside him and yelled: "Hey, there can't you go a little faster?" "He replied: "Yep, but I don't want to leave the car."

A man at Florin claims that—Women are like automobiles—It takes a lot of money to run one. The faster they are the more money it takes. They go faster when warmed up. A little paint does a lot for both.

Old World Charm Meets New World Conveniences

PLACING your house according to your lot is the privilege of the person who builds this practical dwelling of the English farm house type. The entrance is so arranged that the house may either be placed lengthwise for a thirty-foot city lot or crosswise for a 90 or 75 foot lot.

The design here calls for a combination of stucco and stained siding with roof of dark weathered shingles. The pleasing features of the living room include its windows on three sides, open fireplace and built-in book shelves. The open porch or dining room may open off from either the living or dining room. The kitchen has all the details that delight the housewife—cupboards, broom closet, breakfast nook and double windows over the sink.

The three bedrooms all have double exposures and are well provided with clothes and linen closets. The bathroom is so placed as to be equally accessible from each bedroom. The attic is ventilated and makes a serviceable storage or playroom by sheathing the rafters and sides with celotex, which serves both as a wall-board and insulating material.

This small home so light and spacious, yet compact and adapted to doing without a servant, is a typical 1926 product. The poky, dark and poor planning would be scorned by the modern housewife who has learned to expect comfort built right into her home and to have everything planned for her convenience in working. Cold, draughty houses are also out of date. All well built houses, are insisted as this one is, with celotex sheathing on the exterior walls under the stucco. This effects a great saving in fuel in the winter and resists the intense heat of the sun in summer.

THE STORMING OF THE GATES

This picture is typical of many such scenes enacted daily at the main gates of the Sesqui-Centennial International Exposition in Philadelphia where the 150th anniversary of the signing of the Declaration of Independence is being celebrated. The "shot" was made from outside the gates and shows the long sweep of historic Broad street, the main artery of the exposition. To the left can be seen one of the capstons of the Palace of Liberal Arts and Manufactures which covers nearly eight acres of grounds and which houses some of the finest exhibits ever seen. The Exposition will continue until December 1.

Celotechnic Institute Studies Home Builders' Problems

THE Celotechnic Institute of America was recently established, with headquarters in Chicago, to study the problems of American home builders and to place at their disposal the latest discoveries in scientific construction.

It is the aim of B. G. Dahlberg, its founder, to delve into all home building problems and to give to the American public the benefit of its research work and to supply the very latest data on most modern building practices.

It will be a veritable laboratory of building facts including structural problems, modern plans, roof and floor insulation, building trends, analysis, laboratory tests, experimentation in refrigeration, sheathing and interior finishes.

"Important discoveries are constantly being made which practically revolutionize previous home building methods," declares Mr. Dahlberg. "In all the facts we give the public we will have an eye on economy, as well as utility, comfort, health and beauty. It is the aim of the Institute to help the home builder build better homes without any material increase in the cost of construction. It will be a real service bureau for the home builder."

B. G. Dahlberg. Mr. Dahlberg is among the youngest of America's captains of industry. Born in Sweden, the early part of his life in America was spent in railroading, a good portion of it as an associate of the late James J. Hill, the great empire builder of the Northwest. In more recent years he has been prominently identified with a number of large construction projects. A vision of great efficiency and economy in building, growing out of his experience, finally led to the decision to establish the Institute.

The combined circulation of America's 13,400 newspapers is 45,000,000 copies.

The heavy slow ones are used for work, not speed. They need a guiding hand. Each year the new models are faster and snappier.

If too many ornaments are put on, they look cheap. If run too fast they are liable to burn up.

How times have changed. Years ago women put crimps in pie crusts and today they put them in auto fenders.

There was also a time you could get twenty miles to the gallon and now they go to heaven on a pint.

HEAT FOLKS

Every winter you promise yourself that next season you'll put that coal in early.

Summer's here now. Winter's coming just as surely, and Christmas time get your coal in now, and for not roses.

Send to the Heat Folks, get your coal in now, and for get your heating problem for the rest of the year.

Call the HEAT FOLKS for good, clean coal

TO A MAN UP A TREE it would seem that if the Italian who patented a flying motorcycle that he could serve humanity by persuading Henry Ford to make flivvers fly—people could stand a better chance of getting across the street alive. It doesn't pay to take chances when buying tires for your car. Good tires will always give good service. Let us suggest DUNLOP tires as the superior type.
