General News for Quick Reading

A bus carrying passengers between Ligonier and Somerset had to stop to prevent running down a herd of eight deer.

An interesting reading was given Sunday morning in the United Brethren Sunday School on Temperance by Mr. Merle Hoffer.

Because he married out of his father's faith, Henry Adlesteyn, of Harrisburg, whose estate was worth $16,800 willed his son only $5.

Mr. Myers Wenger moved his family and household effects from the Hostetter property on South Barbara street to Manheim, on Friday.

Mr. Kurtz Burkett moved his family and household effects from Perry county to the Jacob Williams farm in East Donegal township, on Friday.

The Dorcas Society of the U. B. church held a package party, Thursday evening, at the home of Mrs. Albert Myers, on New Haven Street.

Easily Satisfied

Thomas did not like mathematics. He had been absent when long division in algebra had been developed, and on his return to school, had been unable to grasp the subject.

The day for the test came, and sure enough there was a problem in long division. Thomas copied it, studied it thoughtfully for a few minutes and without the least attempt to solve it, wrote underneath it the following note: "Dear Teacher--If you will give me five on this problem I'll be satisfied. Thomas."

Boys' Week Will Be Observed Here

possible have some marching music, a boys band, a drum corps, anything that will help put life into the parade.

We have already engaged the Loysville Boys' Band of thirty five pieces, but we need a lot of boys music.

Get into the spirit of this affair and help put it across big. We need your help to bring out your boys. Won't you personally take hold and put it across.

Send any information to H. M. Stauffer, chairman Parade Committee.

Ralph Eshleman's Message

Just to remind you of Boys' Week which will be held the first week in May starting April 30th and continuing to May 7 and to tell you a little more about the hobby fair. Of course there will be a parade and a number of Boys' Bands and a lot of other things, but in order to make the Hobby Fair a real success we'll all have to get to work early and get our birdhouses, boats, automobiles, engines and what not ready, so that when the time comes to display these things we will have them. And prizes,— Oh Boy, there will be ten prizes and just to set all the boys right about this let us say that all boys going to school and those boys not yet twenty years of age in or out of school are invited to join. This is National Boys' Week and every boy in our town and community is asked to help. As we were saying there will be ten prizes, two to each age group and they will be real prizes too, well worth working for. See Ralph Eshleman for your entry blank, he will tell you anything you want to know about the Fair or any of the assistants he has named. They are Elmer Herman, Nelson Newcomer, Dan Light and Buddie Longenecker.

Let us remember any boy who goes to school, no matter what grade he is in can get to work and make something to put on display or if you have drawings, maps, pressed flowers, butterflies or anything that you have either made or collected, this will be taken care of. Call and get your entry blank and see if we do not have a grand old time, this first Boy's Week for Mt. Joy.

Aside from the parade there will be a day of athletics. Doc Snyder has charge of this, see him for information. Doc Garber is general chairman and will be glad to answer any question regarding the great event for the Boys of our community.

The Boys' Week program is being sponsored by our local Rotary Club.

A Touchstone

The vitality of a translation, so far as it is a translation, is necessarily limited by the primary vitality of its original. —Virgil and Lovace are among the immortals, the classics, not of one age or country, but of all time and all the world. Each one rediscovered and reinterprets them, and no translation can interpret more than one phase of their complex quality, their multifarious significance. The attitude of any period towards poetry, the meaning that poetry has for any period, may be partly gauged by observing what it found in the classics, and what, therefore, it expressed in its translations.—J. W. Mackail, in "Studies of English poets."

Belong There

An old lady was out riding with her son and his wife. Presently they came to a group of buildings surrounded by a high stone wall.

"What is that, son?" she asked, pointing to the buildings.

"That is the state insane asylum, mother," explained the son.

Next they came to a golf course, adjoining the asylum, which was well populated with the Sunday crowd.

"Oh, isn't that nice of them to let the poor crazy people out into the pasture?" exclaimed the old lady. "But they do not queer, don't they?"—Los Angeles Times.

Real Speed

Gingerly the passenger clambered out of the two-seater sports car and breathed a sigh of relief as he found himself on firm ground once again.

He proffered his cigarette case to the driver.

"Very kind of you to give me a lift," he remarked at length.

"Only too pleased," said the motorist.

"You drive rather fast, don't you?" asked the other.

"Fast?" exclaimed the motorist.

"That was nothing. You ought to be with me when I'm alone."

Crab Finds Rich Oil Field

Oil recently found on an island off the coast of Honduras was discovered by the aid of a land crab, after man had searched for years for the petroleum. The region is infested with the crabs, which burrow into the soil. One of them dug into a marsh beneath a cottage. The next day the owner of the house smelled the odor of oil, and soon found a high-grade flow. He had been searching for oil for years without success.

A Long Wait

"And what cemetery is that?" asked the Palestine tourist pointing toward an expansive hill entirely covered with graves.

"Oh, that's a family cemetery," replied the guide.

"A family cemetery?"

"Yes, that's where all Methuselah's nieces and nephews who passed away waiting for their rich uncle to die are buried."—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

World Always Good to Man Who Laughs

The mere fact of laughing heartily does one good. It makes the world seem a kindly place and it draws one closer to one's fellows. To be entirely engrossed in oneself and one's problems induces a morbid state of mind, but as long as one can laugh with others and thus blow away the cobwebs from one's brain, one is safe from the isolation of despair and egotism. Of course I mean laughing that is free from either superiority or bitterness, which is certainly a tonic to the whole spiritual system. Laughter clears the air, and the very fact that a man can laugh heartily is a sign not alone that he can enjoy life but that he has a sense of proportion about life. The capacity to laugh is much more than a capacity to see the funny side of things. It is really a sign of sanity. People who take themselves too seriously cannot laugh simply; people who are too overwhelmed by existence cannot laugh naturally. To laugh is not to be callous, it is to be balanced. And true laughter, being the expression of a simple emotion, is thoroughly healthy and sound. It is the outcome of a sense of humor, and a sense of humor arises primarily from a sense of values.—Exchange.

Monarch Mixture of Courtier and Buffoon

Of the famous manners of George IV of England many stories are told. Once when riding he happened upon a man pilloried for issuing a libel against the ruler and wrote an apology "for the seeming indelicacy" taking advantage to view him. Again he took the old Lady Clermont to his carriage and begged her to take him time and not hurry, for gallantly she said: "If you tumble, I shall tumble with you." The ruler, who achieved more by charm than character, in the estimate of Shamo Leslie, a recent biographer, also was a famous mimic. On a journey to Hanover he convulsed the sovereign of the Netherlands by mimicking the old Stadtholder during his visit to Carlton house. The "Granville Papers" give a peep behind the scenes of 1805 when he was prince of Wales: "Lord Abercorn is furious with the prince. The prince takes him of remarkably well lying along the bench with his arm across looking very fierce and stretching out his legs as though he was trying to kick Lord Granville."

One Thing to Live For

Mrs. Nagger had married a wealthy husband and as a consequence had spent much of her married life in travel. At home she had had her every wish gratified almost instantly. In fact nothing interested her any more. She was bored with life.

"Sometimes," she said one afternoon to Mrs. Holland, who had dropped in for tea, "sometimes I feel I have nothing in the world for which to live."

Mrs. Holland shook her head sadly, then suddenly brightened.

"Well, there's spite, my dear, there's spite."

Value of Courtesy

Courtesy is the one medium of exchange that is always accepted at par by the people of every country on the globe. Courtesy radiates a spirit of good feeling and suggests that we are not returning entirely for the material returns of work, but for the friendly human associations as well. Life is not too short, and we are never too busy to be courteous.

Courtesy is the outward expression and an inward consideration for others is always an effective lubricant that smooths business and social relationships, eliminating friction.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Spiders Love Music?

Do spiders enjoy music? A London organist has noticed that every time he starts to play the organ a spider swings down over the keyboard by a single thread of its web.

As soon as the music stops he disappears. Either very soft or very loud music also causes the spider to disappear.

During a concert at Leipzig, a spider seemed to like violin music. During two violin solos, he dropped down from a chandelier by its web, but went back up again when the violin music stopped.

Tale of a Tail

During the summer a certain number of American visitors endeavored to smuggle dogs into England when they landed at Southampton, remarks the London Post.

One day an official encountered a lady whom he had every reason to suppose was infringing the law.

"Madame," he told her, "it is contrary to the regulation to bring dogs into this country." The lady protested that she had no dog. "Then, madame," said the official coldly, "I am to understand that the tail hanging down below your coat is your own!"

Candlestick Symbol

Albert Churchward, in his "Signs and Symbols of Primordial Man," says: "The seven candlesticks with lighted candles, we have no doubt, were introduced by Moses as a representative type of the 'Seven Glorious Ones'—that is, the seven stars of the Little Bear originally in Stellar Mythos. We have at the present time the same in use amongst the Christian churches, representing the mystic seven, which are the proto-types of the Seven Glorious Ones."

U. S. WORRIED OVER HELIUM SHORTAGE

Principal Source of Supply Playing Out.

Washington.—America faces a helium shortage. Helium is the unburnable gas that, although undiscovered on earth before 1895, is used to inflate dirigibles and to keep them from exploding, as those filled with hydrogen are likely to do.

The natural gas from the Petrolia (Texas) field, which has provided helium up until now, is playing out. Since congress has authorized the construction of two giant dirigibles, each with a capacity of 6,000,000 cubic feet, to cost $8,000,000, lack of helium is worrying government officials. The navy and the United States bureau of mines are asking congress to appropriate money to pipe to the Fort Worth (Texas) helium extraction plant, built during the war, the helium-bearing natural gas of Nocona, only 25 miles from Petrolia.

Local Doings Around Florin

Mr. A. Peris is beautifying his lawn with shrubbery.

Mrs. William Hamilton and daughter, spent Saturday at Elizabethtown.

Mrs. Lizzie Miller and two daughters, of Harrisburg, spent Sunday at Haldeman's.

Mr. Daniel Wolgemuth is leaving Thursday for California where he will visit his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brinser, of Elizabethtown, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Keener.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shickley and son, of Philadelphia, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Christ Washburner.

Emery brought the cattle back to full strength and weight in a few months. The soil in northern Door county is very shallow, and due to this the phosphates in the soil were quickly used up. According to Prof. E. J. Delwiche, head of the experimental station, nine-tenths of the farms in this district are lacking in phosphates, and many other farms in Wisconsin are also showing the effects of insufficient phosphates in the soil.

Local Fancier Breeds

Dogs That Do Not Bark

Bellingham, Wash.—By interbreeding with a type of Siberian sledge dogs, a local fancier has developed a species of dog that does not bark. They have a manner of howling something akin to the wolf, but when well fed forget even that vocal ability. In begging for food they try to attract attention by a whine and guttural cough.

Real Estate Pays

New York.—Jonas Weil, realty operator, died in 1917, leaving tenements valued at $500,000 when realty was in the wartime dumps. Now it's worth $4,000,000.

Church Theft Charged

Dallas, Texas.—Theft of one Baptist church, value $45, is the charge that two negroes, one the pastor and the other a deacon, are facing here.

White House Employs Small Clerical Force

Washington.—With the exception of the fine arts commission which has but two hired hands, the White House has the smallest clerical force of any government department or independent bureau.

Forty-four employees, including three women, are assigned to the executive offices to assist President Coolidge administrate the nation's business.

Uncle Sam employs a total of 560,705 persons to keep the wheels of government moving, compared with a total of 486,087 in 1918. When the armistice was signed in November, 1918, the largest number of clerks in history, 917,700, were on the government pay rolls.

The Post-Office department leads the field in employees with 305,985. The Treasury department is second with 51,619 and the War department third with 48,768. The Justice department has the smallest number, 3,703, of any of the executive departments.
