"LEARNING TO DRIVE"
BY
FOSTER TEA FRYE,
Elizabethtown, Pennsylvania

'Twas early in the Summer-time,
When Jones first bought his car;
With which he planned to make a
Tour,
Through Cities, near and Far.
And so he took it out that night,
That he might learn to Drive—
Although the Story may be Sad,
He ne'er came Back a-live.
For on the Rail-road Crossing Bed,
They Blew for Jones's sake;
But Jones stepped down upon the Gas,
Instead of on the Brake.
And there beneath that awful
wreck,
With broken Limbs he lay;
Then to his Comrads gathered
'round,
These part-ing Words did Say.
Now take Wheels from out my Back,
The Crank-shaft from my neck;
Extract the Spark-plugs from my Nose,
There's Good parts in this wreck.
Then take the Gears from out my Head,
And Ax-el from my Chest;
The Engine from my Stomach take,
I Can't quite get my Rest.
Extract the Carbon from my Lungs,
And Here, just let me Lay;
But put these parts together then,
And Drive the Car a-way.

SECOND TRIENNIAL FARM CENSUS STARTS IN JUNE

The second triennial farm census to be made in Pennsylvania will start in June in Allegheny county, according to L. H. Wible, director, Bureau of Statistics, State Department of Agriculture.
The first census was taken in 1924 by the assessors at the time of taking their regular triennial assessments for county purposes, as required by an Act of the 1921 Legislature. With few exceptions, this first census was most satisfactory, Mr. Wible states. It is hoped that the second census will be even more complete.
Several new features have been added this year. These include number of farms running water in kitchen, furnace heat and telephones in homes, and milking machines in use.
For the first time in the history of the State, an attempt is being made in this census to secure information on farm acreage permanently abandoned for agricultural purposes.
While the census will start in several counties in June, July and August, the work will not be fully under way in most counties until September.

FARM BULLETINS SENT TO ALL PARTS OF GLOBE

Requests for bulletins of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture are being received from the far corners of the earth.
Recently these publications have been mailed to China, South Africa, Bulgaria, Tasmania and Spain. Frequent requests are received from England and Canada.
Requests are also received from farm specialists and librarians in all parts of the United States.
The bulletins are very popular in Pennsylvania, as shown by the fact that several thousands copies are sent to Keystone State farmers and other interested parties in response to requests each month.

Feed Flowering Plants

Growth of many flowering plants may be stimulated by the application of liquid manure from time to time. This is made by suspending a sack of fresh manure in water and can be kept stored in a barrel.

Produce Quality Milk

Quality milk brings the best price and makes satisfied customers. The main essentials are cleanliness, prompt cooling, and holding at a low temperature.

place and Tafton.
Tunkhannock Borough—Bids requested for construction of curbs and gutters on various streets.
Carbondale—Work to start shortly installing automatic train control system on Pennsylvania Railroad from NC tower near here to Altoona.
Quakertown—$4300 contract awarded for installing sewer connections in school here.
Sellersville—Plans being made to pave Main Street in Sellersville.
Pittsburg—Bids opened recently for improving streets and bridges of this city.

Good Information For All Autoists

The Lancaster Automobile Club urges motorists to see to it that the license plates on their cars are properly displayed. In this connection attention is called by the club to the fact that a recent survey by the State Highway Department revealed that forty percent of the motorists of Pennsylvania are violating the law regarding the display of license plates.
Obscure tags are an incentive to the car thief, the club points out, and also aid the 'hit and run' driver to make a getaway. To this end officials of the Lancaster county motor organization are co-operating with the State Highway patrol in efforts to eliminate the menace of the illegally displayed plates.
Officers have authority under a state law to arrest owners of cars bearing dirty or otherwise obscured license tags, it is pointed out. In the present campaign, however, they are under orders merely to warn the motorist and see to it that the condition is remedied either by the driver himself, or at a nearby garage. Second offense will bring arrest and fine.
In order to avoid trouble and also to aid in the campaign against the 'hit and run' thief, automobile owners should see to it immediately that the plates on their cars are displayed in compliance with the law, the Automobile Club warns. Tags should be free from dirt, should be placed so as to give an unobstructed view from front and rear and the one in the rear should be adequately illuminated at night.

9081 CARS OF CITRUS FRUITS RECEIVED

In spite of the large production and increased consumption of eastern grown fruit including apples, peaches and grapes, 15 of Pennsylvania's largest markets received 9,081 carloads of oranges, grapefruit and lemons in 1926. This is an increase of 817 cars over the previous year, according to the Pennsylvania Bureau of Markets.
It appears that even with liberal supplies of more moderately priced fruits on the markets, the Pennsylvania consumers were willing to pay the added cost of transportation in order to use increased quantities of oranges, grapefruit and lemons which reach our markets principally from California and Florida.
Oranges were popular citrus fruits, 6449 cars being received as compared with 1451 cars of grapefruit and 1181 cars of lemons. California supplied nearly 300 more carloads of oranges than were received from Florida and all the lemons, except for imports, principally from the Mediterranean countries. However, since the grapefruit was received almost entirely from Florida, the total receipts of all citrus fruits were nearly 100 cars greater from Florida than from the Pacific coast.

STONY BROOK CROSSING TO BE REMOVED

The grade crossing on the Lincoln Highway, at Stony Brook, York county, between Columbia and York, was ordered abolished by the Public Service Commission.
A viaduct will be built at an estimated cost of $167,432 to carry the highway over the tracks of the Frederick branch of the Pennsylvania railroad and the tracks of the York Railways Company.
The viaduct is to be completed by December 1, next.
Many autoists have been killed on this grade crossing in the last few years.

"BUTTERED" POP CORN MINUS BUTTER

All corn that pops may be pop corn. State pure food chemists say, but they are becoming more and more convinced that not all "battered" pop corn has the genuine butter in it.
The food inspectors have found that some dealers are using cottonseed or some other substitute oil in the place of butter.
No arrests have been made yet but the officials are keeping a close watch on the pop corn stands, and are warning all vendors that when they advertise and sell "battered pop corn" it must contain genuine butter and not a substitute.

Chicks Like Green Feed

A green crop, such as clover or blue grass, should be grown on the chick range. A garden area can be used to fit in with the rotation for chicks. One practical rotation would be corn, clover, chicks.
