Only Buick has an engine Vibrationless beyond belief

BUICK'S remarkable freedom from vibration is due primarily to three vitally important factors. First—the inherent smoothness of the Buick Valve-in-Head six-cylinder engine. Second—rubber engine mountings, front and rear. And third—the scientific and almost perfect balance of the entire Buick crankshaft assembly.

Only Buick enjoys these advantages. And only Buick provides the silken performance—the unvarying smoothness at all speeds—the longer life and greater serviceability of an engine vibrationless beyond belief.

BLACK CURRANT IS NURSE OF WHITE PINE BLISTER RUST

The European black currant is a public nuisance, because it acts as an advance guard in spreading the white pine blister rust, a disease of foreign origin which is destructive to all of our American white (or five-leaved) pines, says Samuel B. Detwiler chief blister-rust specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

The blister rust requires two distinctly different kinds of host plants for completing its life cycle. The spores that infect the pines are produced on the leaves of currant or gooseberry bushes and transmitted to the pines through the air. In turn, the currants and gooseberries become infected from the spores produced on the pines. While all species of currant and gooseberry plants take the disease to some extent, the European black currant is so susceptible that a single spot on one leaf may completely spread the disease to other nearby plants of the same species. Thus the scattered windblown spores which may travel hundreds of miles and not establish the rust on other species of currants do infect the European black and set up new centers of infection.

For this reason the European black currant has been called the "nurse plant" of blister rust and outlawed by the States in which white pines are important forest crops.

The white pines in the United States that are endangered by blister rust have a cash timber value of approximately $550,000,000, while the lumber value of this timber is many times greater. This does not take into account the values of trees of these species used as ornamentals and potentially greater value of the young pines for the future timber crops. The money value of the black currant plantings of the country is negligible.

For these reasons the United States Department of Agriculture and the States concerned have declared the European black currant a public nuisance and are cooperatively engaged in a campaign to systematically eliminate it from the country.

Nineteen oyster dealers have been prosecuted so far this year for violating the State Oyster Law, according to the report from the Bureau of foods and Chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The present Oyster Law requires that all oysters be sold at retail numerical count instead of by the pint or quart. This regulation, which became effective in 1925, makes it impossible to add large quantities of water to oysters as was sometimes done under the old method of the dealer to adulterate by adding ice and selling ice water with the oysters.

During the present oyster season special agents of the Bureau will keep a careful watch on all oyster dealers and prompt action will be taken for any violation of the law.

YES, WE CAN GROW POTATOES IN PENNA.

We certainly can grow potatoes in Pennsylvania, surely no one on the Pennsylvania Potato Tour during week of August 15th to 20th came back thinking otherwise. We started in the middle of the state; we were in the north; we were in the west; in the mountain tops and we were in the valleys; where it was cool and where it was hot, and in all these places we saw real potato fields that are producing high yields and making good money for their owner.—Miles Horst, Secretary, Pennsylvania Potato Growers' Association.
